It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

WITH kindred esteem, the compiler presents this work to the living descendants of JOHN PEASE, (known in Salem, Mass., and in Enfield, Ct., as John Pease, Sen.), a Genealogical Record of his posterity. The writer has not been induced to engage in this labor in expectation of sharing some great estate which had no legitimate heirs in the Fatherland to claim it—as has been frequently hinted; neither has he anticipated adequate compensation for the time, labor and expense incurred in accomplishing it; but rather from a desire to see a more certain, complete and permanent Register of our family name in this country—especially of those springing from our ancestor of the Enfield branch—thus bringing to each other's acquaintance a large circle of relatives which time and circumstances have scattered throughout our wide domain, and in other parts of the world; also as a tribute of respect to the memory of those whose pioneer lives, hardships and privations, and whose patriotism and piety, have procured and bequeathed to us a rich inheritance of civil and religious liberty. Furthermore it seemed important that the names and deeds of our ancestors and kindred, many of whom have bravely fallen in battle or died in camps, in the early and later wars of our country, should not be lost to future generations. Again, it appeared desirable and appropriate, that one who had seen and conversed with three and taken active part in religious worship with one of the grandsons of John Pease, Sen., should speak of the fathers to the present and coming generations. These considerations have led the writer to comply with a request to prepare for the press a genealogical record of the descendants of John Pease, Sen. It appeared, at the time this request was made, quite possible that, with what had been done, the object could be accomplished with convenient dispatch and in a short time. In this we have been disappointed.

By way of apology to our subscribers for the long delay in the appearance of this volume, we desire to say that its preparation has involved a much greater amount of historical and genealogical investigation than was anticipated at the commencement, resulting in important changes, and thereby hindering our progress; while professional and domestic duties have diminished the amount of time necessary to be devoted to it.

It may not be out of place here to notice some things leading to the changes referred to in our work. When the compiler's attention was first called to the subject, he was ignorant of the fact that an attempt of the kind had been made. He had been a resident of Central New York for many years, but upon the sad event of sudden death his home was made desolate. In this solitary state, he returned to New England to visit the places of early life. Some forty years had made great changes; but few youthful associates were to be found among the living; therefore the resting-places of the dead were visited, and their silent mementos were read with deep interest. Among the well cared for cemeteries in the towns of Enfield, Suffield and Somers, the grave-stones and monuments of the Peases were numerous and ancient, which revived a desire to examine their early history. After spending some time in searching town records and conversing with aged people, an attempt was made to arrange the facts collected in order, when, for the first time, the writer heard of the work of the late F. S. Pease, Esq., which he found in four numbers of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, in the hands of Hon. Oliver B. Morris,* of Springfield, Mass. Subsequently

* Judge Morris is a descendant of John Pease, Sen., through Margaret Pease, who married Josiah Colton, (see Part I., page 6, No. 11.) He stood prominently as a lawyer in Hampden County for many years, and was afterwards Judge of Probate for the same County. He is now living in retirement with his son, George B. Morris, Esq., at the advanced age of nearly eighty-seven years.

he was favored with the reading of Hinman's History of the Pease Family, in the Hartford Athenæum, furnished by Dr. John C. Pease. It was readily seen from records and personal acquaintances, that there were many individuals and families omitted in that valuable beginning. Hence what had been done was an inducement to proceed and gather up what was left; also to make an advance to the next generation.

As it was the design of the compiler, at that time, to collect for the use of some one who might hereafter publish, the plan adopted was to arrange a Pease Register, in alphabetical order, giving a genealogical and biographical sketch of those of the name. In the prosecution of that plan, there have been registered between three and four thousand persons bearing the name of Pease, of the posterity of John Pease, Sen., tracing them through all the links of the genealogical chain, from our first ancestor in this country to the tenth generation.

Wishing, however, to see a more consecutive record of the descendants of our Enfield ancestor for immediate use, and one, too, that could be seen at a glance, a Genealogical Tree was first thought of, by which to represent the branches and families. But we were too numerous to be fully and clearly presented by that common genealogical figure; therefore, a Pyramid was selected as a more convenient device combining two objects, a Record and a Monumental Memorial of the Pease family.

This design having been brought to satisfactory completion, it was suggested that it would be an improvement to have short sketches of the families to accompany the Monument. Upon this, the compiler turned his attention to that object, following the order of Mr. F. S. Pease, and had made some progress previous to the request to furnish a copy for the press. We, however, did not feel all the certainty we wished of the parentage of John Pease, Sen., viz., that he was the son of "John who came over in the Francis from Ipswich, 1634, aged 27, and whose name appears among the inhabitants of Salem, 1637." Yet, as we then could find nothing more certain, we adhered to the supposition of our predecessors, and so continued until after a correspondence with Mr. F. S. Pease, who had become satisfied that Robert, and not John, was the father of John Pease, Sen., of Enfield. Upon this the compiler agreed with his associate editor, that a thorough examination should be made, to settle, if possible, the question who was the father of our Enfield ancestor, whether John or Robert, and to obtain information on other points left uncertain by those who had preceded us. The age of the compiler not allowing him to engage in so active and laborious service, Mr. Austin Spencer Pease, his earnest and efficient coadjutor in this work, was requested to take the task of visiting Salem, our ancestor's first residence, and other localities where needful information could be obtained. The result of his mission may be seen in the Appendix and Second Part of the Pease Record.

These changes and efforts have not only caused a delay, but greatly increased the amount of printed matter contemplated at the beginning, which has compelled us to omit the Monument. We think, however, the additional historical information contained in the second part of the volume will be an equivalent for the omission.*

We do not expect this Record will be found without errors. Some blanks have been unavoidable, as we have been unsuccessful in our efforts to obtain the desired information about families, names, and dates: there are also many ways for mistakes to occur. But whatever defects may be found in this work, we wish to remind our kinsmen that we have designed to make it a reliable basis by which all the descendants of our Enfield ancestor, John Pease, Sen., may trace themselves, in an unbroken line, back to

* The projector has spent much time and labor in bringing the device and arrangement of the Monumental Memorial of the Pease Family to his satisfaction and the approval of those who have examined the plan, and regrets the necessity of its omission. But we find, to make the engraving what it should be, in dimension and ornament, and to engrave more than three thousand names, puts both objects (that is, Book and Monument,) beyond our present reach. Should we, however, find one to execute the design to our mind, and suitable encouragement be given, it may yet be done.

England; and if there should be any stray family or individual who has not been registered in this Record, the appropriate place can be found, and the names placed in lineal order.

It remains for the writer to express his gratitude to those who have, in any way, aided us in this labor, while we assure them their correspondence and acquaintance has awakened a kindred feeling which will be pleasant to cherish, and an ardent desire for the present and future good of those to whom these pages are devoted.

PREFATORY REMARKS.

BY THE ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

It was with some hesitancy, and not until after the earnest solicitation of the compiler, that the undersigned consented to have his name placed on the title page. As the entire plan of the work, and the arrangement of the information until within four years past, was made by Rev. David Pease, the writer did not think his name worthy of so conspicuous a place.

Our acquaintance began and continued some time by correspondence; and the writer furnished the compiler with considerable information before seeing him. Since our personal acquaintance began, our interviews have been very limited, and no time was afforded the writer to make a thorough examination of the work until about four years ago, when a copy of it, which had been prepared for the printer's use by direction of Rev. Mr. Pease, was placed in his hands. He then saw it was not as complete, in all respects, as was desirable. This incompleteness was consequent to the length of time the work had been in preparation, and the impaired eyesight with which the compiler had been laboring for many years, which rendered a large correspondence difficult. A much larger proportion of names were without dates of birth and places of habitation, and a much larger number of blanks were observable then than now. No histories of any of the eighth generation were given, except some dates of births, and a few comparatively of marriages and residences.

As the final publication of the work depended entirely upon the number of persons pledging to take copies of it, and the duty of obtaining the requisite number had been placed, in a large measure, on the writer, he thought that while a correspondence was instituted to obtain subscribers, efforts should be made also to supply the deficiencies above named.

As the canvassing progressed, by means of printed and written correspondence,* additional names of members of our numerous family, and fuller information concerning others, not before obtained, began to pour in. Our labors resulted, within the past four years, in obtaining over four hundred names of persons belonging to the male descent of John Pease, Sen., of the sixth, seventh and eighth generations, which had not been before obtained, a larger proportion of whom were subscribers than from any other source. Within this time, the writer has enlarged the biographies of many of the seventh generation, and prepared all the biographical histories of the eighth generation, including, with a few exceptions, all that has been said of those engaged in suppressing the rebellion. •

It "was appropriate that one who had seen and conversed with three and taken active part in religious worship with one of the grandsons of John Pease, Sen., should speak of the fathers to the present and coming generations." Hence the writer left this field undisturbed to the senior compiler, except in some cases where he added such facts as have been recently exhumed from the ancient records of the counties in Massachusetts* and the towns of East Windsor and Stafford. •

There are doubtless many who would gladly have furnished us complete records of their own and their fathers' families had they received the letters addressed them. It would have been especially gratifying to the Rev. Mr. Pease and the writer, could we have learned the names of all the noble sons belonging to the family who shared the dangers, toils and sufferings of our soldiers in the late war for the defense of the Union. We have yet to learn that there was one of them who fought to destroy this Union at that time.

We expect many of our readers will find errors in dates and names in their family records. Some of them we have discovered; others have been pointed out to us. We have made so many amends in our table of Errata, that it appears too large for respectability. Part I. has been a long time in preparation, and much of it has been re-arranged and re-written at various times, and by several persons, one of whom was not specially careful in writing names legibly. This has been one fruitful source of mistakes.

The compiler and his associate by no means assume the entire responsibility of mistakes. In making out names and dates from a manuscript, persons cannot be aided by their association with other words in the sentences.

* Prior to 1749 the towns of Enfield and Somers belonged to Massachusetts.

Hence, unless they are written in a legible hand, (as often they are not,) the copyist and the proof-reader are liable to make mistakes for which they should not be held responsible. Sometimes when we have failed to receive information concerning families from their own members, we have been obliged to resort for it to friends and acquaintances, who supposed they were rightly informing us, but were not. In other cases, persons sending information concerning their own families made serious errors, either then or when they attempted to correct advanced sheets which had been sent them. One individual, in correcting the date of his marriage, made it just six years later than his legible letter had told us a few years previous. Another, in pointing out four slight errors in the printed records of his numerous family of children, showed that two of the errors were of his own making.

The writer regrets that he has had no more time to spare from his private duties, that he might have done better what he has attempted to do for the Pease Record.

Many thanks to those who have cheerfully aided us with information for the work. I trust they will find themselves amply repaid in the perusal of its pages.

AUSTIN S. PEASE.

CARD FROM EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

LATE in the Fall of 1864, Rev. David Pease signified to one of the undersigned that he had completed his history of the descendants of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, Ct., and that if any were desirous of having it printed, they had only to raise funds sufficient to pay the necessary expenses of publication.

After some deliberation and correspondence with friends of the enterprise, it was thought advisable to call a public meeting at Springfield, Mass., of those interested in the work, for the purpose of devising means for publishing what Rev. Mr. Pease had prepared.

Pursuant to a public notice, a meeting was held at the Police Court Room, March 17, 1865. Mr. R. Ashmun Pease was called to the chair, and Dr. Loren H. Pease (page 168, Part I.,) was chosen Secretary.

Rev. Mr. Pease was present, and exhibited his plans to the meeting. He proposed to have his work published in two forms. One was to be a lithographic Pyramid Chart, with the names of the descendants of John Pease, Sen., to be engraved on it. This was to be accompanied by a book to be called the Pease Directory. It was to include the names found on the Pease Pyramid, and to give their genealogical history.

From the estimated cost of a lithograph Chart, as given by Rev. Mr. Pease, it was thought a sufficient number of five dollar subscriptions for a copy of each of the two works could be obtained to pay the expenses of the publication of small editions of them. Accordingly the plans of the compiler were accepted, and a committee was appointed, styled the Executive Committee, who were to procure the necessary subscriptions, and otherwise assist Rev. Mr. Pease in his proposed publications. The Committee appointed at that meeting were Austin S. Pease, Chairman, Luke H. Pease, Treasurer, R. Ashmun Pease, John R. Pease and Dr. Loren H. Pease. Mr. R. Ashmun Pease has since deceased, and Mr. John R. Pease, though exhibiting much interest in the enterprise, has declined to act with the Committee.*

A circular sent out by the Chairman of the Committee, soliciting subscriptions for the two works, was responded to, not only with names of persons as subscribers, but also with names in a much larger ratio of persons whose records had not been before obtained. The accession of names of the descendants necessarily demanded a larger plan for the Pyramid Chart. But when Mr. Pease had finally completed his plan to include these additional names (many of whom were subscribers,) the committee found a lithographic chart could not be had without an expense doubly exceeding the estimates which had before been given to Rev. Mr. Pease.

On comparing the number of subscriptions which had been obtained after a lapse of nearly two years from the time the circular was issued with the probable cost of both publications, the Committee judged that their publication would greatly exceed the amount pledged, or that could probably be obtained. They therefore concluded that either the whole enterprise must be abandoned, or the Pease Pyramid must be dropped, and the Genealogical and Historical Record be published alone. They saw that either plan would be a disappointment to Rev. Mr. Pease, who originally had thought of publishing a Pease Monument alone. But the Committee felt that his Genealogical and Historical Record, published without the Chart, would be a monument of his labor and toil which would be appreciated by the present generation, and prized by thousands of our name yet unborn.

The Pease Record is a much larger work than the Pease Directory would have been. All the information in the Appendix and in Part II. is new, except a portion of Chapter V. This has been prepared for the Record, and would not have appeared in the Pease Directory.

The Steel Engravings add interest to the Record, and were not contemplated for the Directory. The Committee judge that the original subscribers to the other works are receiving in this a work equal in value to the others. On comparing the Pease Record and its price with many others of a like character, they know that the subscribers are obtaining it at a reasonable price.

* Mr. John R. Pease has had much of his time and attention engrossed within a few years past in bringing to completion a history of Enfield, which was left in manuscript by his late father, Dr. John C. Pease. It includes a history of the families originating there, and its publication is looked forward to with considerable interest by many whose ancestry can be traced to that town.

They return their thanks to the individuals who have enriched the work by adding their own or their friends' pictures to it. We feel ourselves very fortunate in having secured to do our work, the services of the only artist in the United States who produces steel engravings by aquatint process, as all the pictures, except those opposite pages 141 and 143, are done by that process, and by our kinsman Joseph Ives Pease, Esq., of Stockbridge.

The Committee, in behalf of a numerous family, express their thanks to the association of gentlemen who cheerfully consented to be assessed the expense of a visit to Salem, that the ancestry of John Pease, ~~Son.~~, might be settled beyond dispute. Had the work been printed with John Pease instead of Robert at the head of the generations, as was first contemplated, and was done by others, the mistake would have been one of serious regret.

AUSTIN SPENCER PEASE,
LUKE HALL PEASE,
LOREN HOWARD PEASE.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., August, 1869.

EXPLANATORY REMARKS.

(a) The father of John Pease, Sen., being the pioneer to America, is placed at the beginning of Part I. as Generation I., and John Pease, Sen., is made the Second Generation.

(b) As the work progresses, the given names standing in the parenthesis, which immediately follow the name whose history is given, indicate the ancestry of the individual.

(c) The small figures at the right of such names denote the generation to which the persons belong.

(d) The posterity of the male descent of John Pease, Sen., is made into five grand divisions. Each of the sons, who had posterity, stands at the head of a division, and his posterity is said to be of that descent, as the descent of John,² etc., to descent of Isaac.³

(e) Each descent is subdivided into as many families as there were grandsons of John Pease, Sen., who are known to have had children. The descent of John² is divided into three families; Robert,³ into four; Jonathan,³ into two; James,³ into one, and Isaac, into seven families.

(f) This work, with two exceptions, extends only to the eighth generation from Robert Pease, Sen., the American progenitor. The exceptions are, the names of those who early signified their intention of becoming subscribers to this genealogical work, and those who were engaged in the late war for the defense of the Union.

(g) The names of the children of the females belonging to the descent of John Pease, Sen., who married out of the family, are not given in this work, except children of the seventh generation whose parents subscribed for the work before it went to the press, or such as were in the late war. The posterity of Miriam (No. 66, page 18, of Part I.,) was included in the Pease Family by the late F. S. Pease. Her posterity, so far as can be ascertained, will be found in Part II. of the Pease Record, Chapter V.

(h) The figures on the margin standing at the left of the names of the children in the families, are consecutive numbers which run through the whole of Part I.

(i) The marginal or consecutive numbers are also indexical, and are found at the right of the same name in the Index of Given Names, and at the head of each man's family in the next generation, except the last.

(j) The large or full-faced marginal or consecutive figures stand against the names of such males as are known to have married. The same sized figures are opposite to the same names in the Index of Given Names.

(k) In a few instances, names have been inserted into the body of the work since completing the consecutive numbers. In those cases, the number preceding the inserted name or names has been repeated with another small consecutive number little above and at the right of it. (For an illustration, see page 158). The double numbers are also found in the Index. There are about 75 double numbers in Part I, and about 100 marginal numbers which have no names against them, making in all about 8,100 names from the male descent of John Pease, Sen., counting seven generations from him.

(l) When the name of Enfield or Somers is mentioned in this work, if no State is mentioned, Connecticut is intended.

(m) A character —o—, when placed after a family, denotes that the person standing at the head of it is first cousin to the one following; —co—, second cousin; —ooo—, third cousin; —oooo—, fourth cousin.

STATISTICS.

THE three thousand one hundred names in Part I. are divided as follows :

DESCENT OF JOHN.³

FAMILY OF JOHN.⁴—Fourth generation, 3 ; fifth generation, 7 ; sixth generation, 35 ; seventh generation, 85 ; total, 130.

FAMILY OF JAMES.⁴—Fourth generation, 6 ; fifth generation, 13 ; sixth generation, 26 ; seventh generation, 35 ; total, 80.

FAMILY OF JOSEPH.⁴—Fourth generation, 4 ; fifth generation, 21 ; sixth generation, 67 ; seventh generation, 124 ; total, 216.

Whole number of Descent of John,³ 434, or about 14 per cent. of the whole.

DESCENT OF ROBERT.³

FAMILY OF ROBERT.⁴—Fourth generation, 13 ; fifth generation, 25 ; sixth generation, 67 ; seventh generation, 139 ; total, 244.

FAMILY OF SAMUEL.⁴—Fourth generation, 9 ; fifth generation, 41 ; sixth generation, 93 ; seventh generation, 178 ; total, 321, it being the largest family except one.

FAMILY OF DANIEL.⁴—Fourth generation, 5 ; fifth generation, 15 ; sixth generation, 27 ; seventh generation, 42 ; total, 89.

FAMILY OF EBENEZER.⁴—Fourth generation, 6 ; fifth generation, 7 ; sixth generation, 23 ; seventh generation, 30 ; total, 66.

Whole number of the Descent of Robert,³ 730 or about 23 $\frac{5}{6}$ per cent. of the whole number.

DESCENT OF JONATHAN.³

FAMILY OF JOSIAH.⁴—Fourth generation, 1 ; fifth generation, 5 ; sixth generation, 10 ; seventh generation, 16 ; total, 32.

FAMILY OF PELATIAH.⁴—Fourth generation, 5 ; fifth generation, 15 ; sixth generation, 37 ; seventh generation, 76 ; total, 133.

Whole number of the Descent of Jonathan,³ 173 or 5 $\frac{1}{6}$ per cent. of the whole number.

DESCENT OF JAMES.³

FAMILY OF JOSEPH.⁴—Fourth generation, 12; fifth generation, 21; sixth generation, 36; seventh generation, 41; total, 110.

Whole number of Descent of James,³ 118 or 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the whole.

DESCENT OF ISAAC.³

FAMILY OF ISAAC.⁴—Fourth generation, 8; fifth generation, 37; sixth generation, 80; seventh generation, 159; total 284.

FAMILY OF ABRAHAM.⁴—Fourth generation, 14; fifth generation, 66; sixth generation, 130; seventh generation, 178; total, 388, it being the largest family.

FAMILY OF ISRAEL.⁴—Fourth generation, 10; fifth generation, 29; sixth generation, 69; seventh generation, 125; total, 233.

FAMILY OF BENJAMIN.⁴—Fourth generation, 8; fifth generation, 4; sixth generation, 10; seventh generation, 34; total, 56.

FAMILY OF EZEKIEL.⁴—Fourth generation, 11; fifth generation, 21; sixth generation, 98; seventh generation, 169, total, 299.

FAMILY OF TIMOTHY.⁴—Fourth generation, 12; fifth generation, 21; sixth generation, 31; seventh generation, 17; total, 81.

FAMILY OF CUMMINGS.⁴—Fourth generation, 10; fifth generation, 39; sixth generation, 134; seventh generation, 110; total, 293.

Whole number of the Descent of Isaac,³ 1644, or 53 per cent. of the whole.

It is probable that had the descendants of the daughters been obtained, they would have been found equally as numerous as those from the male descent.

GENEALOGICAL AND HISTORICAL RECORD

OF THE

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN PEASE, SEN.

LAST OF ENFIELD, CT.

FIRST GENERATION.

ANCESTRY OF JOHN PEASE, SEN.

ROBERT PEASE,¹ the progenitor of the Salem and Enfield Peases, and father of John Pease, Sen., the ancestor of the Enfield (Ct.) Peases, is supposed to have been the son of ROBERT and MARGARET PEASE of Great Baddow, Essex County, England. He came to this country in the ship Francis from the port of Ipswich, England, the last of April, 1634, and landed at Boston. He was accompanied by his brother John, and eldest son Robert. His wife Marie, and other members of the family, probably came in a later ship.

He settled at Salem, Mass., where he died, 1644, aged about 37. For other particulars of this ancestor, see "Early History of the Pease Families in America," in Part II. of this work.

SECOND GENERATION.

HISTORY OF JOHN PEASE,² SEN.

JOHN PEASE,² (ROBERT,¹) the ancestor of the Enfield Peases, was the second son of ROBERT and MARIE () PEASE, first of England and last of Salem, Mass. He was probably born in England, about 1630, and came to this country when a lad. The first notice we have of him is found in the court records at Salem, in the settlement of his father's estate, under date of August 27, 1644. From that time until his death we have no difficulty in tracing his history.

He appears to have been a favorite of his grandmother, MARGARET PEASE, as shown by her will* which was brought into court, soon after action was taken in the settlement of his father's estate. It seems probable that he may have been adopted by his grandmother, before his father's decease. She doubtless had full authority for placing him in the care of Thomas Watson, to dispose of him as his own child, rendering it unnecessary for the court to take any action in relation to his custody, as in the case of his older brother.

He married, first, Mary Goodell, daughter of Robert Goodell,† of Salem, who died January 5, 1669, three days after the birth of her fifth child. He married, second, Ann Cummings, daughter of Isaac Cummings,‡ of Topsfield, Mass., December 8, 1669, who died at Enfield, June 29, 1689. He settled as a "yeoman," in that part of Salem called "Northfields," which is now within the city limits, although in a farming district.

We find this ancestor's name frequently in the Essex County and Salem Town records, as grantee, grantor, or a witness, in deeds, overseer of wills, constable, etc.

He was made freeman, April 29, 1668, by the General Court, and took the oath before the County Court, June 30, following. He joined the First Church at Salem, to which his father and grandmother had belonged, July 4, 1667. "October 6, 1681, on sacrament day, John Pease and wife, had a letter of recommendation granted to the church at Springfield."* Not far from this last date, it is supposed he with his family, his two eldest sons' families and numerous neighbors removed to Fresh Water Brook, then a part of Springfield, where he and his two oldest sons had had land granted them, July 23, of the year previous. We find him back at Salem, November, 1682, when he sold his "house, barn, and out-buildings, and parcels of land," and acknowledged the deed before a Salem justice of the peace. He says in the deed, he was "late of Salem, now of Enfield." He was again there, February 26, 1683, to give evidence in a suit at law, involving a boundary line of land once owned and laid out by his "father-in-law, Goodell." He then stated he was "aged about 53 years." In September, 1684, he was appointed administrator on the estate of Lot Killam, a townsman of his when in Salem, and one of the first persons, it is said, who died at the "new settlement."

His relation to the church on his removal to Enfield, was an active one, and he stood foremost to assist in maintaining the worship of God on the Sabbath, in the town of Enfield, after it became incorporated.†

† See Appendix G.

Our ancestor sickened in the midst of making preparations for building, and died "suddenly," July 8, 1689.*

Death made sad havoc in this family in a short time ; taking first the mother, ten days after the father, and one day after that a daughter.†

His children were : ‡

1. 1. JOHN, b. at Salem, May 30, 1654.
2. 2. ROBERT, b. at Salem, May 14, 1656.
3. 3. MARY, b. at Salem, October 8, 1658.
4. 4. ABRAHAM, b. at Salem, June 5, 1662.
5. 5. JONATHAN, b. at Salem, January 2, 1669.

BY SECOND WIFE :

6. 6. JAMES, b. at Salem, December 23, 1670.
7. 7. ISAAC, b. at Salem, July 15, 1672.
8. 8. ABIGAIL, b. at Salem, December 15, 1675. d. at Enfield, July 9, 1689.

* See Appendix H.

† Some supposed facts mentioned in his history by others, are omitted here. For explanation, see Appendix I.

‡ It will be observed that some of the dates of births in this family, do not agree with those given by others. For explanation, see Appendix A.

THIRD GENERATION.

JOHN PEASE,³ (JOHN.² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of JOHN, Sen., and MARY (GOODELL) PEASE, some time of Salem, Mass., last of Enfield, Ct., born at Salem, May 30, 1654; married Margaret Adams of Ipswich, Mass., January 30, 1677.

He was apprenticed at Salem to one John Symonds, who was probably a carpenter and joiner. Symonds died soon after. In his will he assigned his apprentice to his son James "during the term of time in the indenture, paying £40 in four years, £10 per annum." It seems probable he continued the occupation of his apprenticeship until his removal from Salem, as evidenced by the sale of his "land, house and shop." He and his brother Robert are said to have gone to Enfield in 1679, two years before they removed their families there, and lived the first winter in an excavation in the side of a hill about forty rods from where the first meeting-house stood. In 1685, they had extra land given them because they had been the "first cummers."

It was undoubtedly this son "John Pease" who is named in the deed as one of the commissioners who made the purchase of the larger portion of the town of Enfield in March, 1681.*

He was one of the most prominent men in the history of the town of Enfield; was indefatigable in his efforts to promote and advance its prosperity when an infant settlement, and after its incorporation as a town. He was appointed "land measuer" by the town; was one of the first selectmen chosen by the town, and was the first captain of the first militia company in Enfield.

He died at Enfield, 1734, aged 80 years.

His children were:

9. 1. JOHN, b. at Salem, April 22, 1678.
10. 2. JAMES, b. at Salem, 1679.
11. 3. MARGARET, b. at Enfield, January 24, 1683. m. Josiah Colton, 1709. d. 1775.
12. 4. JONATHAN, b. at Enfield, January 29, 1687. Probably d. infant.
13. 5. ANN, b. at Enfield, October 29, 1685. m. Jeremiah Lord of East Windsor, Ct.
14. 6. MARY, b. at Enfield, May 24, 1688. m. Thomas Abbe, 1714. d. 1746.
15. 7. SARAH, b. at Enfield, September 27, 1689. m. Timothy Root of Somers, 1710. d. 1750.
16. 8. JOSEPH, b. at Enfield, March 10, 1692.
[Salem and Enfield Town, and Essex and Old Hampshire County Records, and New England Genealogical and Historical Register.]

2.

ROBERT PEASE,³ (JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) second son of JOHN, Sen., and MARY (GOODELL) PEASE, born at Salem, May 14, 1656; married Abigail Randall, December 16, 1678, and first settled at Salem in the "Northfields." He shared with his elder brother the enterprise of leaving the sea-coast to seek out and make ready new homes for himself, his relatives and neighbors, in the Connecticut Valley. To which place his family removed in 1681.

He is said to have been one of the first constables chosen by vote of the town of Enfield.

He died at Enfield, 1744, aged 88 years.

DESCENT OF ROBERT³—FAMILY OF ABRAHAM³—JONATHAN³ 7

His children were :

17. 1. WILLIAM, b. at Salem, September 26, 1679. d. at Enfield, 1688.
 18. 2. MARY, b. at Salem, March 11, 1681. m. Israel Phelps, 1703. —
 19. 3. ABIGAIL, b. at Enfield, 1682. m. Nathan Hayward.
 20. 4. ROBERT, b. at Enfield, "February 2, 1684." *
 21. 5. SAMUEL, b. at Enfield, December 30, 1686.
 22. 6. EPHRAIM, b. at Enfield, April 9, 1689. Probably d. an infant.
 23. 7. DANIEL, b. at Enfield, May 23, 1692.
 24. 8. HANNAH, b. at Enfield, June, 1694. m. Daniel Miller, 2d. m. Gersham Sexton.
 25. 9. MARGARET, b. at Enfield, December, 1695.
 26. 10. EBENEZER, b. at Enfield, 1699.
- [Salem and Enfield Town Records.]

FAMILY OF ABRAHAM.³

4.

ABRAHAM PEASE,³ (JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) third son of JOHN, Sen., and MARY (GOODELL) PEASE, was born at Salem, June 5, 1662; married Jane Mentor, and settled in Enfield. He and his three younger brothers were appointed administrators on the estate of their father. He died 1735, without issue. [Old Hampshire County Records, and New England Genealogical and Historical Register.]

5.

JONATHAN PEASE,³ (JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) fourth son of JOHN, Sen., and MARY (GOODELL) PEASE, first of Salem, last of Enfield; was born at Salem, January 2, 1669; married Elizabeth Booth,† October 11, 1692, and settled in Enfield.

Although a minor he appears to have presented the inventory of the estate of his deceased father at court,

* It is probable he was born in 1685, new civil year. See Appendix A.

† Probably the daughter of Simeon Booth, who came to Enfield in the year 1680, and had a large family, was a native of Wales. [Hinman.]

August 30, 1689, and gave bonds in the sum of £300 for securities of the estate, "to give accompt of their administration on the said estate." He died in the early part of the year 1721, aged 53.

His children were:

27. 1. REBECCA, b. at Enfield, July 22, 1694, who m. John Pierce, 1730, and settled in Enfield.
28. 2. JONATHAN, b. at Enfield, 1696. We have no history of him after 1726. His name is mentioned in the settlement of his father's estate, and on the 7th of January, 1726, he had letters of administration granted to him on the estate of his brother, John Pease. It is probable he had no family.
29. 3. DAVID, b. at Enfield, 1698.
30. 4. SAMUEL, b. at Enfield, 1700.
31. 5. JOHN, b. at Enfield, 1702. It appears he was in the French and Indian war, and was killed near Fort Dummer, now Putney, Vt., September 28, 1725. Capt. Dwight of Fort Dummer had sent out a scout of six men westward. On their return, they sat down to refresh themselves, and were surprised by a body of Indians and overcome. The Indians killed two men in the encounter, carried off three as prisoners, and one escaped. Those killed were John Pease of Enfield, and Bodurtha of Springfield.*
32. 6. JOSIAH, b. at Enfield, 1706.
33. 7. PELATIAH, b. at Enfield, 1709.
34. 8. ELIZABETH, b. at Enfield, 1712. m. Ebenezer Chapin.

6.

JAMES PEASE,³ (JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) son of JOHN, Sen., and ANN (CUMMINGS) PEASE, and half-brother of the preceding, was born at Salem, December 23, 1670; married Hannah Harmon, October 18, 1695, and settled at Enfield.

*From Massachusetts Historical Society's Collection, Vol. V., 4th Series, and Hall's History of Eastern Vermont.

He was not nineteen when his father died, yet he had a "lot" on which his father had performed labor valued at £2. In March following, we find him not only assisting in common with his brothers as to the equity of the division of his father's estate,* but in another instrument (which was allowed in court), he binds himself to be satisfied with certain tracts of land as his share after deducting (to use his own language) "the labor on my lot at £2."† He died at Enfield, 1748, aged 78.

His children were:

35. 1. JAMES, b. at Enfield, 1697.
36. 2. HANNAH, b. at Enfield, 1699. m. Benjamin Terry, 1721.
37. 3. ELIZABETH, b. at Enfield, 1703. m. Benjamin Meacham, 1722.
38. 4. MARY, b. at Enfield, 1706. m. Jacob Terry, 1730.
39. 5. ABIGAIL, b. at Enfield, 1708. m. Nathaniel Collins, pastor of the Separate Church in Enfield, 1735.
40. 6. SARAH, b. at Enfield, 1710. m. Jonathan Terry.
41. 7. JOSEPH, b. at Enfield, 1713.
42. 8. JEMIMA, b. at Enfield, 1716. m. Lot Killam, 1739.

7.

DEACON ISAAC PEASE,³ (JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) the sixth and youngest son of JOHN, Sen., and ANN (CUMMINGS) PEASE, born at Salem, July 15, 1672. He married Mindwell Osborn, 1691, and settled in the north-eastern part of Enfield, not far from what is now the Shaker village. He appears to have been an extensive landholder, and was among the first holding the office of Deacon in the Congregational Church in that town. He died July 9, 1731, aged 59 nearly. His grave and tombstone are to be seen in good condition in the burying-ground, north of the central meeting-house in Enfield.

* Appendix H.

† From Old Hampshire County Records at Northampton.

His children were :

- 43. 1. ISAAC, b. at Enfield, May 2, 1693.
- 44. 2. ABRAHAM, b. at Enfield, 1695.
- 45. 3. MINDWELL, b. at Enfield about 1697.
- 46. 4. ABIGAIL, b. at Enfield about 1699. d. August 28, 1723.
- 47. 5. ISRAEL, b. at Enfield, 1702.
- 48. 6. ANN, b. at Enfield, February, 1705. m. Nathaniel Prior.
- 49. 7. BENJAMIN, b. at Enfield, 1707.
- 50. 8. EZEKIEL, b. at Enfield, June 20, 1710.
- 51. 9. TIMOTHY, b. at Enfield, 1713.
- 52. 10. CUMMINGS, b. at Enfield, November 15, 1715.

FOURTH GENERATION.

DESCENT OF JOHN.³FAMILY OF JOHN.⁴

9.

JOHN PEASE,⁴ (JOHN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of JOHN and MARGARET (ADAMS) PEASE of Enfield, Ct., was born at Salem, Mass., 1678; married Elizabeth Spencer of Hartford, Ct. He died at Enfield, 1761, aged 83. [New England Historical and Genealogical Register and Salem Town Records.]

His children were:

- 53. 1. ELIZABETH, b. at Enfield, 1717. m. Dea. Cummings Pease.
- 54. 2. SARAH, b. at Enfield, 1724.
- 55. 3. JOHN, b. at Enfield, 1726.

FAMILY OF JAMES.⁴

10.

JAMES PEASE,⁴ (JOHN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) second son of JOHN and MARGARET (ADAMS) PEASE, was born at Salem 1679, and removed with his father from Salem to Enfield, an infant. He married Mary Abbe, daughter of Thomas Abbe, 1710, and settled in Somers. He seems to have commenced operations in Somers by way of improvement, as early as 1713, and is said to have spent his summers there, and his winters in their old settlement at Enfield, until 1717. He was one of the first settlers, if not the first, of what is now Somers, and died there.

*His children were:

- 56. 1. MARY, b. at Enfield, 1711.
 - 57. 2. JAMES, b. at Enfield, 1713.
 - 58. 3. MARGARET, b. at Enfield, 1715.
 - 59. 4. RICHARD, b. at Enfield, 1717.
 - 60. 5. HANNAH, b. at Enfield, 1722.
 - 61. 6. JOHN, b. at Enfield, 1725. d. July 25, 1730.
- [Somers' Record.]

FAMILY OF JOSEPH⁴ (OF JOHN.³)

16.

JOSEPH PEASE,⁴ (JOHN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) third son of JOHN and MARGARET (ADAMS) PEASE, was born at Enfield, "March 10, 1692-3;" married Mary Spencer of Hartford, Ct., January 13, 1727. He lived in Enfield, and died there in 1757. [Enfield Town Records.]

His children were:

- 62. 1. JOSEPH, b. at Enfield, August 10, 1728.
- 63. 2. STEPHEN, b. at Enfield, February 2, 1730.
- 64. 3. MARY, b. at Enfield, 1734.
- 65. 4. JONATHAN, b. at Enfield, September 11, 1740.

DESCENT OF ROBERT.³FAMILY OF ROBERT.⁴

20.

ROBERT PEASE,⁴ (ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of ROBERT and ABIGAIL (RANDALL) PEASE, of Enfield, Ct., was born at Enfield, February 2, 1684. He married, first, Hannah Sexton, February, 1711. She died November 8, 1711, leaving one daughter. He married, second, Rachel ; married, third, Elizabeth Emery. He re-

* It will be seen that some of the dates are subsequent to the removal of Sergt. James Pease (as he was called,) to what is now called Somers. Some of the births were at Somers, previous to the incorporation of the town, and while it was all Enfield. There is a record of the death of his wife: "Died, Mary Pease, wife of Sergt. James Pease, November 28, 1763."

sided awhile at Andover, Mass.; was there in 1717, and a part of the year 1711. It is probable he married his third wife there. He afterwards settled in that part of Enfield, which is now Somers, where he died November 17, 1766.

His children were:

BY FIRST WIFE:

66. 1. MIRIAM, b. at Enfield, 1711. She m. Nathaniel Pease, eldest son of "latter" Robert Pease* of Enfield. Among her children were some of the most enterprising and energetic the times produced.

BY SECOND WIFE:

67. 2. JEMIMA, b. at Enfield, 1712.

BY THIRD WIFE:

68. 3. ELIZABETH, b. at Enfield, 1718.
 69. 4. HANNAH, b. at Enfield, 1720.
 70. 5. ABIGAIL, b. at Enfield, 1722.
 71. 6. ROBERT, b. at Enfield, December 19, 1724.
 72. 7. EMERY, b. at Enfield, 1727.
 73. 8. JANE, b. at Enfield, 1729. m. Thomas Buck, 1749.
 74. 9. ANN, b. at Enfield, 1730.
 75. 10. BATHSHEBA, b. at Enfield, 1732. m. Joseph Hunt.
 76. 11. MARY, b. at Somers, July 3, 1734.
 77. 12. ABIAL, b. at Somers, January 24, 1736.
 78. 13. NOAH, b. at Somers, June 28, 1739.

FAMILY OF SAMUEL⁴

21.

SAMUEL PEASE,⁴ (ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) second son of ROBERT and ABIGAIL (RANDALL) PEASE, was born at Enfield, Ct., December 30, 1686, and married Elizabeth Warner. He settled in Enfield where he died, 1770.

His children were:

79. 1. MEHITABEL, b. at Enfield, 1712.
 80. 2. SAMUEL, b. at Enfield, 1715. d. in infancy.
 81. 3. ELIZABETH, b. at Enfield, 1716. m. John Allen.
 82. 4. SAMUEL,² b. at Enfield, 1718.

* For a history of "latter" Robert and his posterity, see History of the Pease Families, Chap. V.

83. 5. EPHRAIM, b. at Enfield, 1719.
 84. 6. JOANNAH, b. at Enfield, 1722. m. Benjamin Root.
 85. 7. MARY, b. at Enfield, 1723.
 86. 8. AARON, b. at Enfield, May 4, 1726.
 87. 9. NATHANIEL, b. at Enfield, September 29, 1728.

FAMILY OF DANIEL.⁴

23.

DANIEL PEASE,⁴ (ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother to the preceding, was born at Enfield, May 23, 1692; married Abigail Fletcher. He early settled in Somers, and was one of the earliest settlers in Stafford, the town next east of Somers. He had land allotted to him in Stafford, November, 1722. He was living there the year following, and some time afterwards. It is probable several of his children were born there. It is said he died at Somers.

His children were:

88. 1. DANIEL, b. at Enfield, 1718.
 89. 2. WILLIAM, b. at d. before July 8, 1746.
 90. 3. ASA, b. at
 91. 4. REBECCA,* b. at m. Ebenezer Jones, 1748.
 92. 5. OLIVE, b. at Somers, March 10, 1736. married Capt. Increase Child of Woodstock, Ct.
 93. 6.

FAMILY OF EBENEZER.⁴

26.

EBENEZER PEASE,⁴ (ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) youngest son of ROBERT, and ABIGAIL (RANDALL) PEASE, of Enfield, was born at Enfield 1699, and married Mindwell Sexton, November 20, 1717. He died at Enfield 1743, aged 44. [Enfield Town Record.]

* Her name and marriage are found on the Somers Town records, and there are reasons for supposing she may have been the daughter of Daniel Pease.⁴ But there is no positive evidence of it. Dr. John C. Pease placed Parker Pease in this family. There is evidence to show he did not belong to it. Parker Pease lived in Somers; married Hannah Staple 1755, and had a son Parker, born at Somers 1756. The family afterwards joined the Shakers and lived with them for a time. It is said the family has become extinct.

His children were:

94. 1. HANNAH, b. at Enfield, 1718. m. Geer.
 95. 2. EBENEZER, b. at Enfield 1719.
 96. 3. MINDWELL, b. at Enfield, 1722. m. Bull.
 97. 4. JAMES, b. at Enfield, 1724. He d. 1746, in the French War, at Cape Breton, aged 21.
 98. 5. ABIGAIL, b. at Enfield, 1727. She m. Benjamin Hall.
 99. 6. CATHERINE, b. at 1729.

DESCENT OF JONATHAN.³FAMILY OF DAVID.⁴

29.

DAVID PEASE,⁴ (JONATHAN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) second son of JONATHAN and ELIZABETH (BOOTH) PEASE of Enfield, Ct., and first cousin to the preceding, was born at Enfield, 1698. The only recorded history we can find of this person is that of his birth, his appointment as one of the administrators of his father's estate, and a creditor of said estate. The late Dr. John C. Pease, in his manuscript history, said "he removed to the Southern States." It seems probable he only went as far south as New Jersey, and there had a family. For farther remarks, see History of the Pease Families, Chap. VI.

30.

SAMUEL PEASE,⁴ (JONATHAN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) third son of JONATHAN and ELIZABETH (BOOTH) PEASE, was born at Enfield, 1700. No other trace of this person can be found in the Enfield Town or Hampshire County records. There was a Samuel Pease living at Mendon, Worcester County, Mass., in 1738. From the fact that Josiah, brother of the above, was living then at Upton (near Mendon,) we have thought the Pease at Mendon may have been the Samuel Pease in question. But he has no family records there, and as no other mention of his name can be found among the Worcester County records, we have reasons for supposing he may have finally removed to New Jersey. (See Chap. VI., as above.)

FAMILY OF JOSIAH.⁴

32.

JOSIAH PEASE,⁴ (JONATHAN,³) JOHN,² ROBERT,¹ fifth son of JONATHAN and ELIZABETH (BOOTH) PEASE of Enfield, and brother to the preceding, was born at Enfield, 1706; married Elizabeth . He appears to have resided at Enfield in 1730, in 1732, in Newton, Middlesex County, Mass., and two years later, at Hopkinton of the same county. In 1737 he was residing in Upton, Worcester County, Mass., and he is supposed to have resided afterward in that town until his death. He and his wife Elizabeth were living at Upton in 1782. He was a farmer; had one child.

100. 1. JOSIAH, b. at about 1787.

[Old Hampshire and Middlesex County and Upton Town Records.]

FAMILY OF PELATIAH.⁴

33.

PELATIAH PEASE,⁴ (JONATHAN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) youngest son of JONATHAN and ELIZABETH (BOOTH) PEASE of Enfield, and brother of the preceding, was born at Enfield, 1709; married Jemima Booth, December 16, 1736, and lived in Enfield, where he died, 1769, aged 60 years.

His children were:

101. 1. PELATIAH, b. at Enfield, 1738.

102. 2. JEMIMA, b. at Enfield, May 11, 1740. m. Eldad Phelps.

103. 3. JONATHAN, b. at Enfield, November 22, 1741. d. at Schenectady, N. Y., 1760, about 19 years old, on his return from the Indian and French War.

104. 4. SAMUEL, b. at Enfield, June 26, 1746.

105. 5. JOHN, b. at Enfield, January 2, 1748.

[Enfield and Family Records.]

DESCENT OF JAMES.³FAMILY OF JOSEPH⁴ (OF JAMES.³)

41.

JOSEPH PEASE,⁴ (JAMES,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) youngest son of JAMES and HANNAH (HARMON) PEASE, and first cousin of preceding, was born at Enfield, 1713; married first Sarah , second Prudence Olds, and settled in Enfield, where he died, 1800.

His children were:

- 106. 1. ALEXANDER, b. at Enfield, 1731, probably d. young.
- 107. 2. LUCY, b. at Enfield, 1732.
- 108. 3. WARHAM, b. at Enfield, 1734.
- 109. 4. NOAH, b. at Enfield, 1736. He went to Canada in the French and Indian War, and never returned. Is supposed to have been slain.
- 110. 5. ABIGAIL, b. at Enfield, 1738.
- 111. 6. URIAH, b. at Enfield, November 13, 1740. He was also in the French and Indian War; was lost in the wilderness and died from starvation.
- 112. 7. SARAH, b. at Enfield, July 26, 1742.

BY SECOND WIFE:

- 113. 8. JAMES, b. at Enfield, November 26, 1749.

FAMILY OF EZEKIEL.⁴

50.

EZEKIEL PEASE,⁴ (ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) fifth son of DEACON ISAAC and MINDWELL (OSBORN) PEASE, and brother of the preceding, was born at Enfield, June 20, 1710; married Hannah Chandler, daughter of Henry Chandler, one of the early settlers of Enfield, February 10, 1732. He was a man highly esteemed as a citizen and Christian; a man of prayer and consistent life. He was by occupation a tailor and school-teacher;—for some fifteen years Town Clerk, and was known by the title of "Master," and "Clerk" Pease. He settled in the eastern part of the town of Enfield, near "Scantic River;" died there, with his son Isaac, in 1799, aged 89. [Town and Family Records.]

His children were:

158. 1. HANNAH, b. at Enfield, January 11, 1733. m. Job Gleason.

168. 11. OLIVER, b. at Enfield, September 6, 1754. He probably died in the Revolutionary Army at Cambridge, Mass., 1774. From an old account book of Pelatiah Pease, in possession of his grandson, the late Mr. John Pease of Ashfield, we learn he had an apprentice named Oliver Pease, and that he died as above. As two brothers in this family named sons for their younger brother soon after the death of the person mentioned in the account book, it is safe to presume their brother did not die far from the time of the births of their sons, and that he died in the army.

FAMILY OF TIMOTHY.⁴

51.

TIMOTHY PEASE,⁴ (ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Enfield, Ct., 1713; married Mary Chandler, daughter of Henry Chandler, December 22, 1736. FAMILY OF CUMMINGS.⁴

52.

DEACON CUMMINGS PEASE,⁴ (ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT¹) youngest son of DEACON ISAAC and MINDWELL (OSBORN) PEASE, and brother of the preceding, was born at Enfield, November 15, 1715; married, first, Elizabeth, daughter of John Pease of Enfield, about 1737; second, Sarah Hale of Springfield, Mass., September 25, 1755, and settled in Enfield. His farm was on Fresh Water Brook, about two and a half miles east of what is now Thompsonville. He became a subject of hopeful piety when about 30 years of age, and after a long and painful struggle in his mind about a practical duty in making a profession, he yielded to his conviction of Scriptural teaching, and, notwithstanding he stood alone in his views, was immersed upon the profession of his faith. This was the beginning of a Baptist church in the east part of Enfield, of which he was a Deacon. This church continued until broken up by the movement of the Shakers in that part of the town. He died in East Longmeadow, 1808, aged 94.

His children were :

- 181. 1. CUMMINGS, b. at Enfield, 1739. d. an infant.

200.

JOHN PEASE,⁶ (JAMES,⁵ JAMES,⁴ JOHN,³ JOHN,² JOHN,¹) second son of JAMES and ABIGAIL (FORD) PEASE of Somers, Ct., and third cousin of the preceding, was born at Somers, June 12, 1742; married Zepary Coy in Somers, October 6, 1768. His grandson, Aaron Pease of Marlboro, Vt., says he was one of the volunteers who joined the colonial troops in 17—, in an expedition with Great Britain, which was at war with Spain, for the purpose of taking Havana, Cuba. Only two, out of a number of sixty persons who went from Somers, survived the expedition, and it is supposed he was one of them. He seems, first to have settled in Somers, Ct., where his eldest child was born. From thence, he removed to Stafford, Ct., where he lived some years. He finally sold his farm, took his pay in continental money, which became almost worthless. For a time after this he appears to have lived among the Shakers. Subsequently he returned to Stafford, where he resided until about the year 1820, when he removed with most of his family to Marlboro, Vt., where he died.

His children were :

HON. CALVIN PEASE,⁶ (JOSEPH,⁵ JOSEPH,⁴ JOHN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Suffield, Ct., September 9, 1776; married Laura G. Risley, daughter of Benjamin Risley, June 22, 1804. Soon after his admission to the bar in his native State, he emigrated to Ohio, then a territory, where he sustained the hardships and privations incident to a pioneer life, and rose to distinction among his fellow-citizens. He was appointed prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas and quarterly sessions for the county of Trumbull, under the territorial government in the year 1800, which office he held for two or three years; and on the admission of the State of Ohio into the Union, in 1803, he was appointed president judge of the circuit, which at that time embraced a large section of the eastern portion of the State. In 1810, he resigned this office, and continued in the practice of the law till the year 1816. During this interval, in the Fall of 1812 he was elected a senator to the State Legislature. In 1816 he was elected judge of the Supreme Court, and having been re-elected in 1823, continued in this office till 1830, being a period of fourteen years; during a part of which time he was chief judge of the Supreme Court. After leaving the bench, he resumed the practice of the law. For a few of the last years of his life he felt admonished, by increasing infirmities of age, to retire from active business to the enjoyment of private life. He died at his residence, Warren, O., September 17, 1839.

His children were:

His wife died April 10, 1837, aged 74 years. He was a tanner and shoemaker; served as a musician in the Revolutionary War.—[New England Historical and Genealogical Register.] There is a story related by a respectable man who served his apprenticeship with him, in testimony of his reputation as an honest and upright man. He says that Mr. Pease purchased a tract of land of an Indian, among the remaining natives of that place. A part of the price was paid down, the remainder, to a large amount, was put in a note to be paid at a stipulated time or times. The Indian one day came to Mr. Pease, saying he was going off to a distance, hunting, and expected to be gone a long time, and did not know what might happen, and desiring the note to be in safe keeping, wished he would "take him, and keep him, until he returned." Mr. Pease told him that was not the way of doing business; possibly he might not be honest and give up the note on his return, and so cheat him out of his money. "No," said the Indian, "Mr. Pease be good man;—he be honest;—he no cheat poor Indian;" and so it proved, for Mr. Pease took the note, and after many months the Indian returned, and the note was restored, and in due time cancelled. EARL P. PEASE,⁶ (NATHANIEL,⁵ SAMUEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) youngest son of NATHANIEL and EUNICE (ALLEN) PEASE, was born at Norfolk, Ct., July 30, 1778; married Mary Ives, daughter of Joseph Ives, of New Haven, April 8, 1802. He learned the trade of a clothier with his brother Allen, in Sharon, Ct. He established the first factory for woollen cloths in his native town. He was active and foremost in many enterprises of his times. About the year 1825, Mr. Pease removed to Hartford, Ct., and in 1829, to Albany, N. Y., where he remained several years. He subsequently removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., and died there, February 11, 1864. His last wish, almost his last words, were "Lay me beside my mother—Bury me beside my mother." His dying request was gratified. The following affecting lines composed by his eldest son were most feelingly read by the officiating clergyman as he was lowered to his final resting-place :

I.

"Lay me beside my mother!" such the word
The pale lips of the dying grandsire said;
The listening ear a feebler echo heard—
"Bury me by my mother, when I'm dead."

II.

For fourscore years, the wintry storms of life,
Drifted their snows upon his heart and head;
The spring-time comes at last, with gladness rife,
And all is sunshine now where all was shade.

III.

Through the last dreary hours of woe and pain,
Sweet dreams of boyhood days around him played;
The long lost home scenes came to him again;
Beside the babbling brook again he strayed.

IV.

Forgotten all the long and dreary years;
The tumult and the toil, for fame or bread;
New lands he sees, new music now he hears,
O'er the green pastures—by the still waters led.

V.

A loving nature! oft and sorely tried;
With scars unseen, and wounds that inly bled;
Piercing life's shams, what wonder that he cried,
"Lay me beside my mother, when I'm dead!"

VI.

And now he sleeps beside that faithful breast,
 Prone on the native hills he loved to tread,
 "After life's fitful fever" calm he'll rest,
 Till earth and sea give up their countless dead.

VII.

Oh! mother, Love! that throbs through all disguise,
 The first, last pillow of man's aching head;
 God grant this prayer, written with streaming eyes,
 Bury me by my mother, when I'm dead.

“Mr. Amos Pease of Monson has just passed his ninetyeth summer. He stood as a minute man in the war of 1812, and sold the first lot of coal to the United States, used at the Springfield Armory, and his strict honesty enabled him to sell the government many loads of coal with only his word for the weight.

“The present season he has picked two bushels of chestnuts, a part of them from trees one hundred feet high and standing on the same ground where he cut rye when he was 18 years old."

The writer saw Mr. Pease, October, 1868, and found him in good strength of body and mind. He has worked with considerable regularity the past summer in the corn and hay-fields. At the time of our interview he was in doors repairing farming utensils, because the stormy day would not allow him to be out harvesting.

1. DATA COLLECTION—The study data were collected from 1990 to 1992. The sampling frame was the 1989 census of the population of the United Kingdom, which was used to select a random sample of 100,000 households. The sample was stratified by age, sex, and social class to ensure that the sample was representative of the population. The sample was then divided into 10,000 clusters, each containing 10 households. The clusters were then selected by a computer program, and the households within the selected clusters were then selected by a computer program. The households were then visited by a research nurse, who interviewed the head of the household and all other residents aged 16 years and over. The research nurse also completed a questionnaire about the household and the residents. The data were then entered into a computer database and analyzed using statistical software.

DESCENT OF JOHN.³FAMILY OF JOHN.⁴

DR. JOHN C. PEASE,⁷ (JOHN,⁶ JOHN,⁵ JOHN,⁴ JOHN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of JOHN and CHARITY (THOMPSON) PEASE of Enfield, Ct., was born at Enfield, June 1, 1782; married Naomi G. Niles of Windsor, Ct. He entered Yale College about 1801, but at the end of the third year he gave up his college course and began the study of medicine. He entered upon his medical profession at Warehouse Point, Ct.; practiced next at Windsor and afterwards at Avon, Ct. In 1812 he removed his practice to Enfield. During his residence at Enfield he held the office of postmaster under the administration of President Madison.

In 1816 Dr. Pease gave up his medical profession, removed to Hartford, Ct., and in company with his brother-in-law, the Hon. John M. Niles, began the publication of the Hartford Times, a journal which did much in its discussions towards establishing religious freedom and political equality in the State prior to the adoption of the present State Constitution that superseded the old English Charter.

In 1821 he removed to Agawam, Mass., and resumed the practice of medicine. Remaining here two years, Dr. Pease again removed to Enfield, and continued his practice there until 1831, when he took up his residence at Hartford.

In 1849 he accepted an appointment in the Treasury Department at Washington. In consequence of feeble health, he held the appointment but a short time.

A paralytic affection terminated his life at Hartford, January 30, 1859 in the 77th year of his age.

Though Dr. Pease was much engaged in political affairs he was not an aspirant for office, but preferred to be an earnest advocate for liberty of conscience and equal rights. He was peculiar in his diet, and for more than thirty years abstained entirely from animal food and intoxicating drinks, because he thought it more conducive to his health and intellect. His memory was wonderfully retentive. He seemed able to recall every day of his life and the dates of events as they occurred. When connected with the Hartford Times, Dr. Pease wrote and published the Connecticut and Rhode Island Gazetteer. In 1842, in connection with his old college friend, the Hon. Royal Hinman, he wrote the "American Revolution," a work of much labor and research.

Among his unpublished works is the history of the town of Enfield, brought down to the period of the American Revolution. In that work we are greatly indebted to him for rescuing from oblivion the memory of many of the members of the Enfield Peases.

His children were:

- 1562. 1. JOHN R., b. at Windsor, Ct., April 13, 1808, and resides in Hartford, Ct., unmarried.
- 1563. 2. MARGARET A., b. at Farmington, Ct., March 12, 1810.

HON. LORRAIN T. PEASE,⁷ (JOHN,⁶ JOHN,⁵ JOHN,⁴ JOHN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Enfield, April 17, 1788; married Sarah Marshall of Windsor, Ct., , 1809. Judge Pease was, by profession, a lawyer. He first settled in his native town, where his children were born. With the exception of three years at Green Bay, Wis., he spent the remainder of his life in Hartford, Ct. He held many important public offices, the gifts of his native town, his state, and of the general government. He has been a member of both branches of the State Legislature; for several years was Judge of Probate for the town of Enfield, and subsequently was Judge of the County Court. He died at Hartford, 1848, aged 60 years. His remains were buried in his native town, there to mingle with the dust of his ancestors.

His children were :

- 1572. 1. MARIA A. C., b. at Enfield, March 11, 1810. d. August 16, 1822.
- 1573. 2. ELISHA M., b. at Enfield, January 5, 1812. m. Lucadia Niles, daughter of Col. Richard Niles of Windsor, Ct.,

August , 1850, and resides at Austin, Texas. He is, by profession, a lawyer.

Mr. Pease went to Texas in 1834, and was among the first who met in council to consider the expediency of taking up arms against Mexico, and for a short time was in active military service in the war which Texas had with Mexico after the State had declared its independence.

In 1853, he was elected Governor of Texas, and held the office two terms.

At the time of the breaking out of the late Rebellion in the South, Gov. Pease was a true Union man, and he remained so through the war. Soon after Maj. Gen. Sheridan was appointed to the command of that department, Gov. Pease was appointed Military Governor of Texas, and he holds the position at the present time of writing. (April, 1868.)

- 1574. 3. SARAH A., b. at Enfield, January , 1814. d. in infancy.
- 1575. 4. LORRAIN T., b. at Enfield, August 11, 1815. He went to Texas when quite a young man, was in military service in the war against Mexico, and with others was taken prisoner by the Mexicans. By means of a daring exploit on the way to his execution, he, with a few others, escaped the Fannin massacre. He sickened and died, August 31, 1836, in consequence of hunger, fatigue, and exposures which he suffered before he reached friendly lines after his escape.
- 1576. 5. JOHN J. R., b. at Enfield, June 25, 1817. m. Cornelia M. Ruger, July 14, 1851. He is, by profession, a lawyer, and resides at Janesville, Wis. He was Mayor of the city of Janesville in 1856.

This kinsman has six sons all of whom in some capacity participated in direct aid for the suppression of the late Rebellion. The compiler having failed to receive answers to his interrogatories is unable to give the names of all of these sons, or the part they acted in the war. One of them, Henry R. Pease, entered the service with musket in hand, and was in active service through the siege of Port Hudson. He afterwards arose to positions of honor and trust, and he has filled the offices of Assistant Provost Marshal and Assistant Judge Advocate General. In November, 1865, he held the office of General Superintendent of Education for refugees and freedmen in the State of Louisiana with the rank of Captain. His office was one of large responsibility, as he had nearly twenty thousand children who were receiving rudimental instruction in schools of his establishing.

Byron W. Pease, M. D., was an Assistant Surgeon during the Rebellion. In November, 1865, he was a civilian employe in the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands as assistant in charge.

Franklin Pease served all through the Virginia campaigns under Generals McClellan, Burnside, Mead, Butler and Grant.

Robert Pease served in a military capacity.

Horton Pease, another participant in the war, was, in November 1865, a clerk in the office of General Superintendent of Education of Refugees and Freedmen at New Orleans, La.; "making in the aggregate fourteen years of service this family has given the government, and, strange to say, they have all escaped disease and the deadly bullet, and come out with comparatively few scars."

the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who are aged 65 and older is projected to increase from 20 million to 35 million. As a result, the number of people aged 65 and older who are employed is projected to increase from 10 million to 15 million. This increase in the number of people aged 65 and older who are employed is projected to be the result of a number of factors, including the fact that people are living longer, the fact that people are working longer, and the fact that people are working harder.

Ohio. He gives the following account of his experience in pioneer life:

"In the fall of 1816, at the age of 21½ years, I left Stockbridge, my native place, to seek my fortune in the West, and settled in what is now called Brownhelm, then an entire wilderness, and known as town No. 6, in the nineteenth. range of the Connecticut Western Reserve. Three young men of us built the first house in town, and wintered there in the employ of Col. Henry Brown of Stockbridge, Mass. From whence a colony was formed of about twenty families, who settled the town, enjoying the pleasures and suffering the privations of a pioneer life, common to all new settlements. I, with my family of five children, left Brownhelm in April, 1833, for the express purpose of commencing the Oberlin enterprise, and we were the first family that penetrated this, then dense forest, and thus took a second trial of pioneering, which was much shorter than the first, and I have been an eye-witness to what God hath wrought in and for this place, and for this great valley of the Mississippi, and do praise and magnify his name!" He died October 22, 1861.

HIRAM A. PEASE,⁷ (PHINEAS,⁶ NATHANIEL,⁵ SAMUEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) son of PHINEAS and BETSEY (LAWRENCE) PEASE of Stockbridge, Mass., was born at Stockbridge, April 19, 1797; married Lydia Remile, May 3, 1818. He first settled in Berkshire County, but removed to Ohio, about 1828, and finally settled at Oberlin, where he now resides, (1866.) He is, by occupation, a farmer.

His children were:

2022. 1. PHINEAS B., b. at Lee, Mass., June 6, 1819. m. Cornelia Reed, November 14, 1840. He prepared and entered the Oberlin College, Ohio, but never graduated. He is a minister of the Gospel, and is connected with the Wisconsin Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was ordained elder, in 1852, and is in the itinerant work. Of the seven Methodist preachers bearing our name, who are descendants of our common ancestor, Rev. Phineas B. is the fifth one who is of the descent of Robert.³ He is the father of eight children, the second of whom, Marcus A., b. September 24, 1843, was in the army for the suppression of the rebellion, a member of Company F of the First Wisconsin Cavalry. He died near Helena, Ark., August 24, 1862. His father writes "he served faithfully one year, died a Christian and sleeps in a soldier's unmarked grave."

SALMON PEASE,⁷ (CALVIN,⁶ NATHANIEL,⁵ SAMUEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of CALVIN and SALLY (IVES) PEASE of Canaan, Ct., and first cousin of the preceding, was born at Norfolk, Ct., June 14, 1783; married Matilda Huntington, daughter of Dr. Thomas Huntington of Canaan, Ct., June 14, 1803. He resided at Canaan until the fall of 1826, when he removed to Charlotte, Vt. He was, by occupation, a farmer, and for several years he held a commission of Justice of Peace. He died at Charlotte, July 23, 1857. His widow is still living on the old homestead at Charlotte, "at the age of 88 years, in good health and sound mind, the pride and joy of her children." (January, 1869.)

His children were:

2032. 1. FREDERICK S., b. at Canaan, May 21, 1804. m. Julia Lawrence, September 18, 1832, and resided in Albany, N. Y., where he d. of consumption, March 22, 1867. He was, by occupation, an accountant, and for about thirty years was book-keeper in the Commercial Bank of Albany.

Mr. Pease had no other advantages in early life for an educational training than those afforded him by the Common Schools of his native town in Connecticut, and his own exertions by the fireside. His productions in after years show plainly that his youthful hours were not misspent, or that he had only fitted himself for the position of a banker's accountant.

He was the compiler of the work called "Pease Family" that was published in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, 1849, Vol. iii.; a periodical published under the patronage of the New England Historical-Genealogical Society, of which he was a corresponding member. The work, though compiled largely from manuscript already prepared by the late Dr. John C. Pease, was prefaced with considerable information concerning the Peases in England, the early settlement of the Peases in this country, and it had a large amount of valuable genealogical and historical matter added to it which he acquired by a large correspondence. The work awakened a deep interest in the minds of the Enfield Peases, into whose hands it chanced to fall, and to whom it principally related. Its circulation ought to have been much more extensive among them. It was only three years after Mr. Pease became interested in his work, that it was published; a period far too short considering the magnitude of the field his work embraced.

He has since prepared and published, through the same medium, other papers which showed a reflective mind, and subsequent discoveries have not only proved the correctness of his conclusions, but greatly enhanced the value of his productions. We refer particularly to his article in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. x., and which is republished in the "Early History of the Pease Families in America," Chapter iv.

He graduated from the Vermont University in the class of 1837, studied theology and became pastor of a church, first at Pittsford, Vt., next at Waterbury, and last at Norwich. He is now superintendent of the Vermont State Reform School at Waterbury, where he resides.

Mr. Pease represented the town of Norwich in the State Legislature in 1864 and '65, and was made chairman of a committee to report a bill for the establishment of a State Reform School. The bill passed and he was appointed first commissioner to locate the school and set it in operation. He was afterwards appointed superintendent of the school.

2036. 5. CALVIN,² b. at Canaan, August 12, 1813. m. Martha Howse of Montpelier, Vt., May 17, 1843.

The following tribute to his memory we take from the Annual American Cyclopaedia for 1863:

" Calvin Pease, D. D., an American clergyman, was born at Canaan, Litchfield County, Ct., August 12, 1813; died at Burlington, Vt., September 17, 1863. His parents were both of Puritan stock, and his early training was judicious and eminently calculated to lay the foundation of the purity of character which marked his maturer years. In November, 1826, his family removed to Charlotte, Vt., where he was occupied upon his father's farm until 1832, when he entered Hinesburgh Academy to fit for college, and at the expiration of a year, entered the university of Vermont, at Burlington. Here he at once took a high position, which he maintained to the end of his college course. He graduated in 1838, and from that time until 1842, was employed as principal in the academy at Montpelier. In 1841, he delivered the master's oration at Burlington, and received the degree of A. M. In 1842, he delivered the annual address before the associate literary societies of the university, and the same year was elected to the professorship of the Greek and Latin languages in that institution. He continued in this position until December, 1855, when he was elected to succeed Dr. Worthington Smith, as president. Late in the period of his professorship he was licensed to preach the Gospel by the Winooski Association. Though he had not made theology a systematic study, yet he was urged to this step by his friends who knew his rare ability as a writer and speaker, and his eminent qualifications, spiritual and intellectual for usefulness in the pulpit. At the commencement, in 1856, he was inaugurated as president of the university, and a few weeks later received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Middlebury College, Vt. During his presidency he received various marks of appreciation and regard, among which were his appointment as a member of the Vermont Board of Education, at its organization in 1856, and his election to the presidency of the Vermont Teachers' Association the same year, both of which offices he held until he left the State, and by his activity and usefulness in these positions had a leading part in shaping the present highly successful educational policy of the State. In November, 1861, he received a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church in Rochester, N. Y., which, in consideration of the demands of his health, and the claims of his family, he deemed it his duty to accept. He entered upon his ministry in Rochester, in January, 1862, and in May, was installed as pastor of the church. The period of his ministry here, though short, was eminently successful and happy, embracing the most interesting portion of his life; within these few months he did his greatest and best work, for which all his previous life, labor and experience were but the preparation, and it was their fitting crown and reward. During the last year of his life, he was elected a member of the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia.

“Dr. Pease left many valuable manuscripts and sermons, but published only a few. His earliest published work was a ‘Discourse on the Import and Value of the Popular Lecturing of the Day,’ delivered before the literary societies of the university of Vermont, (1842.) Subsequently he published in the Bibliotheca Sacra, ‘Classical Studies,’ (July, 1852); the ‘Distinctive Idea of Preaching,’ (1853); ‘Characteristics of the Eloquence of the Pulpit,’ delivered as an address before the Rhetorical Society of Auburn Theological Seminary, (1858); ‘The Idea of the New England College and its Power of Culture,’ delivered at his inauguration as President of the University, (1856); ‘Address before the Medical Department of the University,’ (1856); ‘Baccalaureate Sermons,’ (1856, 1857, 1859, 1860), and a number of occasional sermons.”

The following extract describing Dr. Pease as a preacher of the Gospel we copy from the Rochester “American and Democrat” of September 22, 1863:

“None of his hearers will soon forget the blended modesty and authority of his presence in the sacred desk,—that voice, usually low, like distant music, but occasionally loud, like a rising storm; the eye kindling in appeal; the right arm launched forth in demonstration. Sin his soul hated. In whatever refuge it larked, he dragged it forth; in whatever citadel it flaunted defiance, he challenged and assailed it; in whatsoever worldly allurements it smiled, it was to him ‘an evil and bitter thing.’ Priest craft, State craft, and Mammon craft he could scourge with a whip of scorpions. On the other hand, truth, right and duty, as they relate to God and His Word, man and his destiny,—truth as it is expressed in Christian doctrine, and illustrated in Christian character,—the truth as it is in Jesus,—were to him most dear and supreme, the sweetest of all the influences of heaven, and the most majestic of all the forces of earth, ‘fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners.’”

Dr. Pease sickened while away from his home and pastoral duties, spending his summer vacation, and died with dysentery at the residence of his brother-in-law, George Francis, Esq.

2037. 6. THOMAS H., b. at Canaan, October 24, 1815. m., first, Catharine N. Coon of Brooklyn, N. Y., April 16, 1838; m., second, Elizabeth Graham of New Haven, Ct., April 17, 1848; m., third, Eliza Morris of Bethel, Vt., June 2, 1852, and resides in New Haven, Ct. For the past thirty years he has been a book dealer, first in New York City, and since 1842 in the city of New Haven. He has two sons and two daughters.

One of his sons, William B. Pease, was born at New Haven, January 30, 1844. He enlisted as private in the Fifteenth Infantry Regiment of Connecticut Volunteers, for the suppression of the late rebellion, August 11, 1862. He left the regiment a few days before the disastrous battles of Fredericksburg, and afterwards received a commission as Lieutenant in the Eighth Regiment of United States Colored Troops. He was engaged in the bloody battle of Olustee, Fla., at which time his regiment suffered severely. It was afterwards ordered to Virginia, did good service in the trenches before Petersburg, and was one of the first regiments of the Union Army to enter that city. After the surrender of Lee and his army he went with his regiment to Brownsville, Texas, to assist in restoring order in that State.

Resigning his commission in his regiment, he returned home. On the 7th of March, 1867, he received a commission as First Lieutenant in the Eleventh Regiment of the Regular Army. For several months past he has been doing duty as Commissioner of the Twelfth and Thirteenth Districts of Virginia, embracing eight counties.

Mr. Pease served an apprenticeship with Mr. E. B. Riley of the Poughkeepsie Telegraph as a printer. At the expiration of his term of service, he became a partner with Mr. Riley in the printing business. In consequence of the death of his partner, at the end of one year he assumed the entire control of the business. During the administration of President Pierce, he was postmaster of the city of Poughkeepsie. Mr. Pease subsequently sold his interest in the printing business, studied law, and was admitted to the practice at the bar of all the Courts in the State,—a profession he never followed. In 1858 he purchased the Poughkeepsie Daily Press establishment, and again became editor and proprietor of a newspaper.

To answer the call of his country during the late rebellion, Mr. Pease sold his interest in the printing business, and in 1861 went as first Lieutenant of Company E, Twentieth Regiment of New York State Militia, Col. George W. Pratt commanding. On his return from the war, he repurchased the Daily Press office, and in 1863 moved the material of the office as well as the name to Troy, N. Y., where he conducted the Daily and Weekly Press until the fall of 1867, when he sold out his interest in the paper.

Mr. Pease is an engraver in the portrait, historical and landscape style, and in the line manner; also by aquatint process. When a boy he showed an unusually well-developed inventive and constructive faculty. He amused his young schoolmates with a variety of fancy articles which he made with a turning-lathe of his own construction. Before he supposed it had been thought of he built a power-loom which wove a strip of cloth six inches wide by simply turning a crank. "While yet a boy he got up a propeller on the identical model of those in present use, and fitted it into a boat of one squirrel power," which caused the astonishment of old and young in his native village at seeing the little craft "go ahead" without visible sail or wheel. This in itself may appear like a simple thing, but it involved a principle which was not brought to public notice until several years afterwards; and which, since its adoption, has produced an entire change in the mode of building ships for naval

REV. LEWIS PEASE,⁷ (DANIEL,⁶ DANIEL,⁵ DANIEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Canaan, N. Y., August 7, 1786; married, first, Pamela Norton of Goshen, Ct., March 29, 1808; married, second, Ann E. Wheeler, December 2, 1835. He was an itinerant minister of the Gospel. In 1807, at the early age of 21 years, he was "received on trial" by the New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. At the end of his probation, (1811) he was ordained elder by the same conference.

When he entered the ministry the New York Conference embraced a portion of New Jersey, the eastern part of New York State, the west half of Connecticut, Berkshire County in Massachusetts, and the western portion of Vermont. Over this extensive territory the preachers of that body during his early ministry were liable to be stationed from year to year.

While in the active ministry, Mr. Pease was appointed to the most responsible positions within the bounds of his conference; Troy and Albany, N. Y., New York City, and Hartford, Ct., were among his appointments. He was once transferred, and preached two years at Philadelphia, Pa. He was an ardent, eloquent and successful laborer in his Master's vineyard. It is said by those who have heard him he possessed the faculty of holding the attention of his audience, rarely excelled by any public speaker of his times. For many years before his decease, his ministrations were greatly retarded by feeble health. At length, borne down by a peculiar chronic disease, he died at Richmond, Mass., September 25, 1843, aged 57 years. His remains were buried in his native town.

His children were :

BY SECOND WIFE:

2118. 1. PAMELIA A., b. at New York City, February 15, 1837. m.
Rev. Mr. Steel.
2119. 2. LEWIS Y., b. at Richmond, Mass., December 2, 1839. d.
July 4, 1849.
2120. 3. WILLIAM E., b. at Richmond, February 18, 1841.

872.

PHILO PEASE,⁷ (DANIEL,⁶ DANIEL,⁵ DANIEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) third son of DANIEL and KEZIAH (DEAN) PEASE, was born at Canaan, September 21, 1788; married Polly Orton about 1810, and first settled at Canaan, but subsequently removed to Lisle, N. Y., where he died, April 10, 1837.

His children were :

2121. 1. JOHN M., b. at Canaan, September 25, 1811. m. Artemisia White, daughter of Rev. Nicholas White, May 29, 1826.

Mr. Pease entered the ministry of the Gospel and joined the New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1834. He was ordained elder in 1838, and continued in the itinerancy of the church until the fall of 1853, when he went to Philadelphia as secretary of the Pennsylvania State Colonization Society. He dissolved his relation with this society in the spring of 1855, and soon after became engaged in organizing an "African Exploration Society." He was appointed traveling agent for the purpose of obtaining funds to help carry out the object of the society with the expectation of embarking for the coast of Africa as soon as the necessary funds were obtained. He left his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., in August, 1856, on a tour through the State, was taken suddenly ill at Rochester, and returned to some friends at Auburn, where he died, September 29, 1856.

2122. 2. MARIETTE L., b. at Canaan, March 7, 1814. m. Linus Dickinson, and d. at Lisle, September 4, 1839.
2123. 3. CAROLINE P., b. at Canaan, May 8, 1816. m. Edson A. Blair, and resides at Castle Creek, Broome County, N. Y.
2124. 4. LEWIS M., b. at Lisle, August 25, 1818. m. Ann E. Pinney.

Mr. Lewis M. Pease also joined the New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was ordained elder in 1845. Before the meeting of the annual conference in 1850, the ladies of the Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church of New York City, asked the bishop for a missionary to be appointed from the conference to labor as such at the Five Points Mission, a field which the above society had for sometime occupied. Mr. Pease was selected as the man for the place. At the end of one year he was removed by the conference and another appointed.

Mr. Pease had labored long enough here to become satisfied that the demand for missionary operations in the vicinity of Five Points was of sufficient magnitude to justify the continuance of his labors under an independent organization. Accordingly he withdrew from the Methodist Conference and organized the Five Points House of Industry. In 1854 it became an incorporated institution, governed by a board of trustees elected annually by the incorporators, of which incorporate body Mr. Pease was a member. He held the position of superintendent of the institution for some eight years. He afterwards retired to a farm owned by the institution at Westchester, N. Y., where boys were sent from the Mission to receive instruction in farming.

2125. 5. HARRIET E., b. at Lisle, July 7, 1822. m. Charles Abbott, d. May 23, 1845.

JOHN B. PEASE,⁷ (DANIEL,⁶ DANIEL,⁵ DANIEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) fourth son of DANIEL and KEZIAH (DEAN) PEASE, was born at Canaan, July 9, 1795; married, first, Abigail Hunt, November 4, 1818; married, second, Mary Bushnel, February 6, 1854. He removed from Canaan, soon after his first marriage. For a time he resided at Nassau, Rensselaer County, N. Y., thence at De Ruyter, Madison County, next at Manlius, and subsequently at the village of Lake Port, town of Sullivan, where he now resides, (1866.) He is, by occupation, a farmer.

His children were:

2130. 1. MARY A., b. at New Lebanon, N. Y., April 5, 1820. m. Charles Smith, September 12, 1842, and resides at Pitcher, Chenango County, N. Y.

877.

REV. WILLIAM S. PEASE,⁷ (DANIEL,⁶ DANIEL,⁵ DANIEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) fifth and youngest son of DANIEL and KEZIAH (DEAN) PEASE, was born at Canaan, April 5, 1800; married Jane Edwards, He died February 22, 1826, leaving no children. We take the following from the Methodist Magazine of 1826:—

“At the age of 8 years he was made partaker of par-doing mercy, and in 1821, he entered the traveling ministry, in which he continued until his death. The disease with which he died caused him many painful hours; but he bore them with patience and resignation, often expressing his confidence in God and his prospects of future felicity. When death approached him he said, 'Can this be dying? I never was so happy. I am free from pain, both of body and mind.' In this happy frame of mind he sank peacefully into the arms of death. In his death the church has lost a young minister of much promise, as he gave every presage of future usefulness to his fellow-men."

REV. WILLIAM A. PEASE,⁷ (NATHANIEL,⁶ NATHAN,⁵ ABRAHAM,⁴ ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Wilbraham, Mass., December 29, 1811; married Nancy Porter of Agawam, Mass., November 26, 1846. He was a minister of the gospel in connection with the Baptist denomination. Mr. Pease was licensed to preach by the Baptist Church in Agawam, Mass., and entered the ministry, according to the usages of the Baptist denomination, as a licentiate, in 1844. He was ordained as pastor of the Baptist Church in Plainfield, Mass., 1846, where he preached three years; at the close of which, he preached with the Baptist Church in Deerfield one year and a half; was pastor of the Baptist Church in Shutesbury, Mass., three years and a half, and for two and a half years pastor of the Baptist Church in North Leverett. After spending some time as an evangelist, he settled, and labored as pastor of the Baptist Church in Haddam, Ct., for five years, and was for three years pastor of the Baptist Church in Willington, Ct., where he died in 1866. We take the following from the "Christian Watchman and Reflector" of Boston:—

"The usefulness of this brother as a minister is not to be estimated solely by the results of his labors among the churches he served as pastor, as his twenty years of ministerial service were mainly divided between five churches; he spent with each one sufficient time to make his mark, and leave precious memorials behind him. But at no time did he confine his labors to the church of which he was then pastor. He was always ready to 'go into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in.' His labors were much blessed with revivals, and he was much sought during seasons of special religious interest in other places than those of his residence. His great effort was as a winner of souls to Jesus Christ wherever he could find them. This was the aim of his preaching. It was warm from the heart, earnest, scriptural and direct. It was largely reinforced by his prayers. No one who heard him preach and pray could doubt that he was a man of faith and prayer,—one who had power with God. He was a growing man up to the close of his life. This was quite apparent to those who knew him in the first half of his ministry, which he spent in Massachusetts, and in the last half, which has been in Connecticut. Probably he showed in the last year of his life greater elements of strength than in any preceding year. Undoubtedly he was never more esteemed and beloved than he was and is in the church and community generally in Willington. And probably no previous winter of his ministry was more faithfully filled up in the Master's service than was the last. At its beginning he assisted in a revival in West Woodstock, and for a longer period in a precious work in Mansfield,—this in addition to increased labor among his own people. And this he continued till the outbreak of fatal disease suddenly brought his work to an end. His last sickness was of seven weeks of great suffering which he bore with the greatest patience, never uttering a word of murmur or complaint. He felt in his soul the peaceful assurance that death would bring him to the rest that remaineth for the people of God and he longed to depart and be with Christ. At the same time that his sickness was one of suffering he had never before experienced, his joys were greater than he had ever before known. 'I am almost home,' he said to the writer, four days before he died. 'God is about to bestow a wonderful favor upon me, to take me from a world of sin to a world of holiness.' And thus trusting in Christ and triumphing in the hope of the gospel he passed away to the reward of the saints above. J. F. S."

 sometime in Enfield, and thence back to Longmeadow, his present residence. He is a farmer.

* We understand the monument erected to his memory at Hazardville, Ct., bears another date. His brother Marshall thinks the above the correct one, as it was communicated to him by his brother's comrade who knew him well, was with him in his dying hours, and received messages from him for his friends at home.

He lives in Enfield, and has no children living.

1233.

ISRAEL PEASE,⁷ (ISRAEL,⁶ ISRAEL,⁵ ISRAEL,⁴ ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of ISRAEL and MARY (PEASE)

* The mother of the children in this family is third cousin to her husband's brother, Mr. Wells Pease. She is second cousin to his wife on their maternal side, and first cousin to her on their paternal side. Consequently, the children of one family are first, second, third and fourth cousins to those of the other.

PEASE of Middlefield, Mass., and first cousin of the preceding, was born at Middlefield, September 28, 1791; married first, Nancy Gillett, May 6, 1817, who died December 18, 1824; married second, Charity Perdenn, March 21, 1825. He removed to Hector (Reynoldsville,) Tompkins County, N. Y., about 1818 or 1819, and died there September 28, 1847.

His children were:

2702. 1. LAURA, b. at _____, January 18, 1818. m. Joel Reynolds, October 27, 1840, and lives at Reynoldsville, N. Y., a farmer.
2703. 2. WILLIAM, b. at Hector, N. Y., June 2, 1822. m. Mary E. Coats, March 25, 1849, and at the time of his death his family resided at Leoni, Jackson County, Mich. Mr. Pease was, by occupation, an instructor of youth, a profession he followed more than twenty years. He had been early taught to hate the slave oligarchy by a father who was an earnest and early worker in the anti-slavery cause. Hence, after Congress had repealed the Missouri Compromise, he felt it his duty as did thousands of others at the North to remove to Kansas, that he might by his influence and vote help keep a territory free which had once been dedicated to freedom. He settled six miles east of Lawrence where he and his family suffered much from border ruffians. When the same oligarchy had lifted its hand to destroy our Union he was teaching in Illinois.

Though possessing a feeble constitution, he felt it his duty to fight in defense of the Union. He accordingly enlisted in the Thirty-third Illinois Regiment of Volunteers, Colonel Hovey commanding, Company G. While his regiment was doing service in Arkansas he fell a victim to disease and death after eleven months' service. He was buried by his comrades near Clarendon, Ark., under an oak tree.

"They dug his grave deep,
And there let him sleep
In the shade of the old oak tree,
He's no stone for his head
And he's alone in his bed;
But the patriot's name
On the page of fame
It never forgotten shall be."

- 2704. 3. NORMAN, b. at Hector, March 15, 1824. m. Lydia A. Davis, January 7, 1849, and resides in Reynoldsville, a farmer.

He went with his father when a child, to live with the Shakers in Enfield. When about fourteen years old, he lost by accident his right arm, and had nothing left after amputation of the limb, but a short stump. At the age of eighteen years, he left the Shakers and home to make his way, as best he could, through the world, and by his own efforts,—without any other means or aid than the left hand,—he has acquired, by manual labor, a good and comfortable home, with a farm of some fifty acres of good land. An example for neatness and improvement. He performs most of the labor on his farm with his own left hand. During the winter of 1852 he chopped down in the woods, cut, split and put up for market, one hundred cords of wood, with his one hand, going one and a half miles to his work, and taking care of his stock, etc.!

REUBEN A. PEASE,⁷ (REUBEN,⁶ ISAAC,⁵ EZEKIEL,⁴ ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of REUBEN and ABI (GOWDY) PEASE of Enfield, Ct., known from a child as "Ashmun Pease," and first cousin of the preceding, was born at Enfield, July 28, 1814; married first, Hancy A. Hall of Somers, Ct., October 17, 1837; married second, Jane S. Cooley of Somers, March 7, 1850, and settled a farmer upon the "old homestead" in Enfield, in the village of Scitico. He died July 24, 1867, leaving a cherished memory as an esteemed citizen and devoted Christian. He had been honored many times with responsible public offices of trust, the gifts of his townsmen. For nearly thirty-seven years he had led a life of daily prayer, and been an exemplary member of a branch of the Christian church. When he had departed, members of his church and members of the community exclaimed, "whom have we to make his place good?"

Mr. Pease took a deep interest in the proposed publication of this work, and rode over his native and adjoining towns, calling upon his kinsmen and obtained the first list of subscribers for the work, that gave prestige of its final success.

Mr. Pease began his academic education at the Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham, Mass., and completed it at the South New Market (N. H.) Seminary. He learned the trade of a mason and alternated this trade and that of school teaching as an occupation for some twelve years of his life. For the past twenty years he has been engaged chiefly in mercantile pursuits. During the past thirteen years he has largely employed his leisure hours as an assistant in collecting material for an extended genealogy of the Enfield (Ct.) Peases. When residing at Boston, he conceived the plan of preparing an early history of the Pease families in America. With a taste for genealogical pursuits which he possessed, his two years' residence at Boston afforded him rare facilities for his work.

He graduated at Williams College, Mass., in 1838. His divinity course was pursued under the direction of Bishop De Lancey of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Western New York, and he subsequently entered the ministry of that denomination. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on him in 1856 by the Board of Trustees of Stewart College, Tenn. Dr. Pease's first parochial cure was in Christ Church, Manlius, Onondaga County, N. Y.; his next in Trinity Church, Fayetteville, N. Y.; his third in Trinity Church, Clarksville, Montgomery County, Tenn.; his fourth at St. Peter's Church, Columbia, Tenn. He was rector at the latter place some thirteen years, and he has recently closed it (March, 1868,) and accepted a rectorate at New Albany, Ind. Besides his duties as rector at Columbia, he was professor of Belle Lettres and Mental and Moral Science in the Columbia Female College.

His children were:

- 3097. 1. FREDERIC D., b. at Manlius March 27, 1847. d. at Clarksville, February 16, 1851.

SPENCER A. PEASE,⁷ (DAVID,⁶ DAVID,⁵ CUMMINGS,⁴ ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Cazenovia Village, N. Y., September 8, 1825; married Elizabeth Duguid, only daughter of Russell Duguid of Pompey, N. Y., and first settled in Fayetteville, N. Y., subsequently at Pompey Center, and ultimately at Pavilion, N. Y., and was, by occupation, a saddle and harness-maker. He volunteered with a number of his fellow-townsmen in the service of his country for the suppression of the rebellion, January, 1864, and was a member of the Eighth New York Heavy Artillery, Company I. He was instantly killed while charging the enemy's works at Cold Harbor, Va., June 3, 1864, and buried by his fellow-soldiers on the spot where he fell, in the 39th year of his age, leaving a widow and two children. He sustained the character of a consistent Christian before and after he entered the service.

In a letter from his commanding officer to his brother, he says: "He was a noble soldier, steady, brave, and a man of good habits. In fighting, he did credit to his country, his company, and himself, and by his death we have lost a noble and brave soldier."

This is here recorded for the benefit of tender minds, now too young to know the loss they sustain in common with thousands of others whose father's have been laid in unknown graves by the late rebellion; and that they might preserve as sacred in their memory, a life and death worthy their veneration.

His children were :

- 3103. 1. ADELAIDE E., b. at Fayetteville, N. Y., April 9, 1850. d.
August , 1862.
- 3104. 2. FREDERICK S., b. at Pavilion, January 11, 1856.
- 3105. 3. NETTIE C., b. at Pompey, N. Y., , 1864.

1546.

BREVET LIEUTENANT COLONEL ROGER W. PEASE, M. D.,⁷ (DAVID,⁶ DAVID,⁵ CUMMINGS,⁴ ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Conway, Mass., May 31, 1828; married Hannah Fuller, daughter of James C. Fuller of Skaneateles, N. Y., January 26, 1858. He graduated at the College of Medicine and Surgery at Geneva, N. Y., January 25, 1848, and soon after commenced the practice of a physician and surgeon at Syracuse, N. Y.

Dr. Pease was among the first to respond to the call of his State and his country during the late war for the suppression of the rebellion. He left a large and successful practice which his skill and industry had gained him at Syracuse, and joined the Twelfth Regiment of New York Volunteer Infantry, as surgeon. This regiment was connected with what was afterwards called the Army of the Potomac. It was in the Fourth Brigade of the First Division of McDowell's Corps, and was in the advance at the commencement of the first campaign of the Army of the Potomac, and participated in the first day's fight with the enemy at Blackburn's Ford, July 18, 1861, three days before the disastrous fight at Bull Run. The contest was a sanguinary one, and it is claimed for our kinsman that he had the honor of dressing the first wound caused by the enemy in that army, though the wounded soldier was not a member of the Twelfth New York Regiment.

It appears that the division was checked in its advance on that day by the fire of the enemy's batteries. To silence them, General David Tyler, commander of the division, ordered forward the Fourth Brigade, including Captain Bracket's squadron of the Second United States Cavalry, and two twelve-pounder howitzers commanded by Captain Ayres. The first shot from the enemy's guns struck Sergeant Rowhan of Captain Bracket's squadron. As it was surgeon Pease's fortune to be standing near the wounded soldier at the time, he had the satisfaction of dressing his wound, and probably the first made on that day. Soon after this the skirmishing became general.

Immediately after dressing Sergeant Rowhan's wound, Surgeon Pease established a field hospital in a ravine directly under the fire of the enemy. At this place he dressed the wound of the heroic Lieutenant Lorain of Sherman's battery. The Twelfth New York Regiment was not engaged with the enemy on the 21st, yet there was abundant work found for its surgeon on that memorable day. Owing to the severe labors of this short campaign and the poisonous atmosphere of the Potomac marshes, Surgeon Pease was obliged to resign his position August 30, following, and return home.

After a few months of rest his health became restored and he returned to the army, November 19, 1861, as surgeon of the Tenth New York Cavalry. He spent the following winter at Gettysburg, Pa. He was detached from his regiment, April 19, 1862, and ordered to report to Major-General Dix at Baltimore, Md. Here he was assigned to the Patterson Park United States Hospital which he organized with twelve hundred beds. In November following he again returned to the field and participated in the battle at Fredericksburg, December 13, under Major-General Burnside.

February 25, 1863, Surgeon Pease was made Medical Inspector of the cavalry corps then being organized by General Stoneman, and was placed on his staff. When General Stoneman was relieved from command by General Pleasanton, he was retained in the same position by the latter. During the celebrated Stoneman raid and Major-General Hooker's campaign, Surgeon Pease was ordered to organize a Cavalry Corps Hospital at Aquia Creek. This was maintained as a field hospital during the entire existence of the cavalry corps, and as such it maintained a high reputation.

The performance of this last order did not prevent Surgeon Pease from being present and participating in the engagement at Chancellorsville. He was with his corps in the battles at Gettysburg, July 1st, 2d and 3d, and joined in the pursuit of the enemy at Boonsboro, Md. At this place he was ordered by Surgeon Pancoast, Medical Director of the cavalry corps, to take charge of the field hospitals and to concentrate them at Boonsboro. When this was done he joined the army at Salem and participated in the engagements which drove the enemy across the Rapidan.

After this Surgeon Pease was transferred to the corps of surgeons of volunteers, and was ordered to report to the General commanding the Middle Department at Baltimore. December 2, 1863, he was ordered to relieve Surgeon Pancoast and he again returned to the field as Medical Director of the corps which he had so long served as Medical Inspector. During the winter of 1863 and '64, the cavalry corps was reorganized and General Philip H. Sheridan was placed in command, without any change in its Medical Director.

Our space will not allow us to mention the many bold and daring adventures and hard fought battles of the cavalry corps under its new commander during the successful campaign of 1864, and while our kinsman was connected with it. The whole responsibility of the medical and surgical department rested on the Medical Director. He must provide medical stores, hospitals and means of transportation for the sick and wounded. Surrounded on every side by the enemy in an enemy's country, as the cavalry corps often found themselves, this latter responsibility was the most difficult. In the expedition of General Sheridan towards the Virginia Central Railroad, and after the engagement with the enemy, June 12, and 13, at Trevillion Station, Surgeon Pease had four hundred wounded soldiers to transport to the White House, a distance of nearly two hundred miles and he had only twelve ambulances to do it with. But by scouring the enemy's country and seizing every available vehicle that could be found, and with the aid of thirty baggage-wagons all were conducted safely beyond the reach of the enemy and the consequent sufferings of those who had the misfortune to become prisoners of war to the enemy.

During the early part of the campaign against Richmond in 1864, Surgeon Pease at one time became so disabled as to be unfitted for riding in the saddle, and he was obliged to ask to be temporarily relieved and to be put on other duty. He was accordingly given in charge one of the first trains of wounded soldiers (three thousand five hundred in number) which were taken from the battle-fields of the Wilderness and removed to Fredericksburg. He remained at Fredericksburg for a short time as Inspector of Hospitals, but again returned to his corps in time to participate in the battles of Old Tavern and Cold Harbor.

In consequence of exposures in the field for nearly two years and a half, Surgeon Pease's health became so much impaired that he was compelled to ask to be permanently relieved from his position. His request was granted, and on the 8th of August he was ordered to Baltimore again and was placed in charge of the Newton United States General Hospital. About one year from that time he was ordered to Charlestown, West Virginia, to close the hospital in that place and dispose of the property. This being done, Dr. Pease again returned to Baltimore and was mustered out of service, October 1, 1865, with the rank of Brevet Lieutenant Colonel from the United States Government.

Since Dr. Pease's return to his practice in Syracuse, N. Y., he has received a commission from the Governor of his State with the rank of Brevet Lieutenant Colonel, bearing date September 6, 1866. The commission states that it is "for faithful and meritorious services in the late war, and as a testimonial for zeal, fidelity and courage, with which you have maintained the honor of the State of New York in her efforts to enforce the Laws of the United States."

168. Since preparing the history of OLIVER PEASE, we have found the following on the Town Records at Enfield:—"Oliver Pease, son of Ezekiel Pease, died at Greenwich, November 2, 1776, being in the army for the defense of his country." Greenwich is in Hampshire County, Mass. He was probably on his way home from the army. Not having seen the account book referred to, we are unable to account for the discrepancy in the dates.

205. It is probable that JOSEPH PEASE died while connected with the revolutionary army, as a memorandum prepared by Joseph Pease, Esq., of names of persons who went into that army from Suffield, and who died in it or from disease contracted in the service, contains the name of "Joseph Pease, 2d."

INDEX TO GIVEN NAMES.

[EXPLANATIONS.—The figures at the left of the name give the date of birth of the person named, and those at the right indicate the marginal or consecutive numbers which stand against the same name in the columns of figures that are found on the left margin of most of the preceding pages.

In indexing the given names, those of children known to have died young, the names of the children of the daughters who belong to the seventh generation and the sons belonging to the eighth, which have been inserted occasionally, are omitted here. The names of the infants omitted may be found by turning to the index or family number of the parent, and the others by turning to the consecutive number of the parent.

For explanations relative to the full-faced or large figures, see explanatory remarks found in the first part of the work.]

APPENDIX.

PREPARED FOR THIS WORK BY AUSTIN S. PEASE.

A.

THE OLD AND NEW LEGAL YEARS.

THAT the readers of this work may know why some of its dates of events differ here from those given by other writers, and that the dates of some of the subsequent documents in this appendix may be more generally understood, we have prepared this article.

The several European nations formerly had different periods for beginning the Legal or Civil year. With the exception of Scotland, Great Britain and her dependencies, for several centuries prior to 1752, began the new year on Conception day or March 25th. In 1752 Parliament enacted that that year should terminate with December 31st, and the new year should begin with January 1st. Several of the European nations had fixed on this time for beginning their Civil year, nearly seventy years before Great Britain did.

There had been in Great Britain an Historical year which began with January 1st; and there had arisen the practice of double dating, if the event happened between December 31st, and March 25th, which indicated both the Historical and Civil years,—thus: March 2, 1725-6. The figures at the left of the hyphen indicate the Civil or Legal year, and substituting the figure at the right of the hyphen in place of the first one at the left of it, the Historical year would be indicated. Sometimes the unit figure indicating the Historical year would be placed under the one indicating the Legal year,—thus: 1725 $\frac{6}{4}$, or 17 $\frac{6}{4}$.

Occasionally double dating would be omitted. In which case it is safe to presume the old Legal year was expressed or meant, and not the Historical year. So far as our observation has extended, we have found it so. If the omission of double dating was done from forgetfulness, it is reasonable to suppose the Historical year would be left off.

It is a common practice now when mentioning an event in our words, (if it occurred between December 31st, and March 25th) to give the Historical year; as it corresponds with our present Civil year; and by such expression it is easier to calculate time. When, therefore, we find on record that the double date is omitted, and there is no positive evidence showing that the Historical year is meant, we see no reason why we should not supply such omission. Or in other words add one year to such date. We have accordingly done so in the History of the Pease Families and in the families of John^s and Robert^s of the Enfield Peases, unless we have placed the date in quotation marks. The records of births of the family of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield furnish an illustration. His fourth son, Jonathan was "born the 2d day of January 1668." It seems clear to our minds that the old Legal year is meant, which did not terminate until March 25th. We have accordingly added one year to the date, which makes the date of his birth January 1669. For the same reason we changed the date of the death of the child's mother to 1669. We make this explanation because other writers using their own words have made their dates "1668."

Again, it is obvious to all, that when the year began in March it was the first month in the year, and April the second, and so on. It was very common two centuries ago to express the months in numerals instead of their proper names. Persons examining records where the months are thus expressed are liable to mistake the month, unless they bear in mind that March, and not January, was the first month. The above named records again furnish an illustration. A portion of them read thus: "John Pease his son John, bo. by Mary his wife y^e 30th 3^d '54; their son Robert 14th 3^d '56; dar. Mary bo. y^e 8th October '58; their son Abra^m b. 5th 4th '62." Accordingly John and Robert were born in May and not in March as others have it; and Abraham was born in July.

OLD STYLE AND NEW STYLE.

No changes in dates have been made in this work from Old to New Style, by the compilers. As some of our readers may be desirous of ascertaining the exact anniversary day of an event, we will give in this article a brief explanation of the differences between Old Style and New Style, as applied to time or the Julian Calendar and Gregorian Calendar, that will enable our readers to make their own calculations, if they desire to change the date of an event from O. S. to N. S.

The Julian Calendar, which was adopted by the Council of Nice, and used by the Christian nations of Europe until 1582, allowed the year to be just 365 days and six hours long, and made every fourth year Bissextile. It made the solar year nearly eleven minutes longer than it really was, and resulted in a loss of about three days for every 400 years. A change was made in the Calendar in 1582 by Pope Gregory XIII. and was soon introduced into most or all of the Catholic countries. When the change of Calendar was made there had arisen an error of about ten days. To overcome the error it was ordained that ten days should be struck out of October 1582; and the day following October 4th became October 15th. To obviate any further irregularity it was ordained that no centennial year should be Bissextile except every fourth. The centennial years ending with two zeros (00), when divisible by 400, were to be Bissextile years.

Great Britain did not adopt the Gregorian Calendar until 1752, when because it had made A. D. 1700 Bissextile, it became necessary to strike eleven days from the Calendar. In 1751 Parliament enacted "that the natural day next immediately following the said 2d day of September 1752 shall be called, reckoned and accounted to be the 14th day of September." The 3d day of September, of the Julian Calendar in 1752 became the 14th day of September, agreeable to the Gregorian Calendar. The former Calendar took the name of Old Style and the latter New Style.*

From the above we may deduce the following rule: To change the date of an event from Old Style to New Style, add ten days to the date, if the event occurred between February 28, A. D. 1500* and the time ending with February 28, 1700. And add eleven days, if the event occurred after February 28, and before the change of Calendar took effect.

Thus: J. P. was born May 8, 1654, O. S. Add ten days to May 3, and we find the true anniversary of his birth occurs May 13, N. S. Again: E. P. was born June 2, 1710, O. S. Add eleven days to this date, and we find he was born June 13, 1710, N. S.

If it is desired to change the date from O. S. to N. S. farther back than A. D. 1500 we have only to add one day less to the date, for every century except those whose centurial years are divisible by 400.

" Marie Pease widow appointed administrator and hath brought in this inventory upon hir own oath this 3 of 11 mo. '44 amounting to the sum and value of £39 12s. 6d., out of which there is to be subtracted in debts of estate £5. Out of which the Court appoints to Robert Pease being the eldest son and John Pease being the second son of Robert Pease deceased £9. Court orders that the rest of the estate being £25 12s. 6 to Marie Pease widow for the maintainance of herself and the rest of the children. The Courte further orders that John the second son shall have his three pounds in 3 months time and Robert the eldest sonn shall have it at 12 mos."

In another book in the Clerk of Court's office is found recorded, on page 171, the following:

" Salem 13 of 11 mo. 1644. Robert Pease the son of Robert Pease deceased is committed by the Courte unto his mother Marie Pease until the Courte to be held in Salem in December next to be find him meat drink and aparell. The said Marie being appointed administratrix £34 12s. 6d and the said Robert Pease deceased dying intestate Marie Pease widow is granted administratrix as before mentioned and brought in inventory upon her oath. And Robert is to have paid him by her in 12 mo. time £6 and John her second son is to have £8 in 3 mos. time—the rest to maintain her children."

From the same book as the last mentioned, page 189, is taken the following:

" At Salem Court held the 31st of 10 mo. 1646. It is ordered by this present Court upon the motion and by the consent of Both parties that Robert Pease son of Robert Pease deceased to be bound unto Thomas Roots of Salem, Weaver as an apprentice for fyve years from this day; then to be complete and ended. And said Thomas Roots is to learn the said Robert in the trade of a Weaver of linen and woolen and to have 2 suites of apparel and twenty shillings at the end of his time."

D.

THE WILL OF MARGARET PEASE.

From probate papers on file in the Judicial Court at Salem, book No. 1, is copied the following:

" The will of Margaret Pease the first day 7 month 1644.

" This is the last will of Margaret Pease that is her grand chile John Pease the son of Robert Pease shall with the rest of her goods be put over to Thomas Wadsson of Salem to be as her true feoffee off trust to dispose off her estate as she directeth at this time being in parfite memory. First as before that the said John Pease shall be given frely to the said Thomas Wadsson, that he shall dispose of him as his own child and secondly that the house she liffs in with the ground belonging therto shall be given to the said John Pease, also halfe an acker of Indian Corne, alsoe that he is to have my heifer, allsoe that John shall have my bede and all that belongs to it also that her grandchildren the children of Robert Pease her sonne shall give to the rest of them the tow goattes and kid to be equally disposed among them and for all her mouffeable goods are to be at Thomas Wadsson's disposal for the good of John, alsoe her grand childe Robert Pease shall have her lesser chist and that if that the said John die then his brother Robert Pease shall have the rest of the estate, and all, that her daughter Pease the wife of Robert Pease is to have my best cloth gowne, and all perticlers are not set down the same must Thomas Wadsson to dispose for the good of John her grand child."

(Her mark.)

"In witness wherof we have set to our hands.

JOHN BARBER.

OBADIAH HULM."

"It is the request of Ann the wife of Robert Isbell having taken a great deal of pains with the widow Pease deceased from the first of her sickness to the last in tending of her desire to take it into consideration about the satisfying of her."

"The deposition of Ann Isbell is that Margaret Pease widow after she made a written will did give and bequeath unto Faith Barber her best red petticoate being in perfect memorie and that is the substance of what I can depose."

From records in the office of the clerk of the courts we take the following :

"1st of 7 mo. 1644. Thomas Watson made ffeoffee in trust of Margaret Pease hir will, an inventory of her goods and estate brought in Courte sworn to by Obadiah Holm and John Barber and other deposition-de legacies, also upon An the wife of Robert Isbell request g'dwffe* Watson must allow her for her pains or the court will."

The inventory of the widow Pease's estate had no date and when we compare the date at the head of her will with this last transaction we might infer that her will must have been made prior to "1st 7 mo. 1644."

The following is taken from the records in the office of the clerk of the Courts at Salem dated "30 4 mo. 1652 :

"Robert Pease and John his brother both of Salem came before the Court and acknowledged a bill bearing date the 6th 11 mo. 1651. Subscribed with their hands wherein they bind themselves jointly in the sum of £40 unto Tho. Watson to save harmless the said Tho. Watson agnst all manner of persons in regard of the estate of their grand mother Margaret Pease of whom he the said Tho. Watson was a feoffee in trust as by the said bill more at large doth appear."

*An abbreviation of "goodwife." It should have been "goodman."

E.

PARENTAGE OF MARY GOODELL.

Robert Goodell and his wife Catharine, the parents of the first wife of John Pease, Sen., with three children, of whom Mary was the eldest (the custom-house book says her age was four years), were passengers on the ship Elizabeth, which sailed from Ipswich, England, the last of April, 1634. His name appears among the inhabitants of Salem in 1635, though there is no record of land being granted him in Salem until 1637.

Abner C. Goodell, Esq., of Salem, Mass., Register of Probate and Insolvency for Essex County, is a descendant of this Robert Goodell. The writer is indebted to him for much valuable assistance during his visits at Salem, when in search of information relating the history of the Salem Peases.

F.

FATHER OF ANN CUMMINGS.

It is not known when Isaac Cummings, the father of the second wife of John Pease, Sen., came to this country. He was made freeman in 1642. He resided at Topsfield when he died. In his will, dated May 3, 1677, he says: "I give unto my son-in-law John Pease thirty pounds, to be pay out of the stock of cattell and house hold goods as much as may be at present, and the rest in two years."

F. F.

ANCESTRY OF MINDWELL OSBORN.

Mindwell Osborn, the wife of Dea. Isaac Pease (page 9 of Part 1), and maternal ancestor of more than one-half of the descendants of John Pease, Sen., was the second child of John and Abigail (Eggleston) Osborn, of East Windsor Ct. She was born January 2, 1673. Her father, born January 10, 1645, was the oldest son of John and Ann (Oldage) Osborn, who were in Windsor Ct., in 1644. Tradition says the Osborns were of Welch origin.

The mother of Mindwell Osborn, born June 12, 1648, was the daughter of Begat and Sarah (Talcott) Eggleston. Mr. Eggleston came from England in 1630, and first settled at Dorchester, Mass. He removed to Windsor, Ct., in 1635.*

ENFIELD WITHOUT A MINISTER.

When a settlement in the Province of Massachusetts Bay became incorporated into a town, it became necessary for the inhabitants to hold public meetings for the worship of God on the Sabbath within its limits. Hence, soon after the town of Enfield was set off from Springfield, the town took the necessary steps to have religious meetings on the Sabbath, as will be seen by the following, taken from Enfield town records:

"July 15, 1688, the Committee went to Enfeild* to settle some way for carrying on the worshipping of God on the Sabbath, and having a meeting of the inhabitants it was put to a vote and past, that they would assemble together on the Sabbath forenoon and afternoon, except such as might goe to Springfield or Suffeild, and carry on the day by prair and singing and reading sun good orthodox book, till they might get a supply of minister; and the persons appointed thereunto by a full voat were John Pease, Sen., Israel Meecham and Thomas Bancroft, who are to agree amongst themselves how and who to manage prayer and reading, &c."

H.

AN AGREEMENT.

"Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

The following copy of an instrument showing the manner of dividing the estate, of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, deceased, is taken from probate records at Northampton, Mass.:

"Mar. 24, 1688².—These presents witnesseth an agreement made between John Pease, Robert Pease, Abraham Pease, Jonathan Pease, James Pease, Isaac Pease, the sons of John Pease, Sen., lately deceased, it having pleased our great and most glorious sovereign in his all-wise providence suddenly to take away our Honored father by death not having the advantage or opportunitie of makeing a will for the disposal of his estate which God has graciously given him unto his children according to his own pleasure we therefore whose names are written above for the prevention of all future troubles and that we might live together in love and unitie as becomes brethren have mutually agreed to each man his portion of that estate left us by our Honored father in manner as followeth viz. to John Pease £17 13s. beside what he had received by his father before tyme which he being freed from all debts and future troubles whatsoever, doth except of as his full compleat portion of the estate and doth hereby promise and ingage never

EXPLANATIONS.

It is perhaps due the reader that we give our reasons for differing with others in the given name of the father of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, and state why we have said nothing of his holding certain honorable public positions before he left Salem as mentioned by others.

It seems probable those persons writing about him never examined the evidences of his paternity which are found in the court records at Salem, growing out of the settlement of the estates of Robert Pease, Sen., and his mother, Widow Margaret Pease, including her will. (See Appendix C. and D.) The given name of his father appears to have been "assumed" rather than proved.

The late Frederick S. Pease, Esq., saw the error into which he had fallen in his "Pease Family" a few years after it was published, and from no other evidence, as it seems, than because it could not be found at Salem, that the brother of Robert Pease, Sen., had a family there.

Again: Mr. Joseph B. Felt says in his "Annals of Salem," under date of December, 1682, that "Capt. John Pease, aged 52 years, had lately removed from Salem to Enfield. He had been deputy to General Court." This edition was published in 1827. A later edition of his work, though much more voluminous than the first, makes no mention of the incident.

As we have failed to find the name of John Pease on the Salem town records as deputy to the General Court, or in the lists of deputies at the State House at Boston, we think Mr. Felt must have been mistaken in saying he had been one. The title of Captain appears to have been first given to him by Mr. Felt in the quotation above mentioned. Though his name is frequently mentioned on the records at Salem, Enfield and Northampton, we have never seen the title of Captain prefixed to it. Military titles were then considered highly honorable. If this ancestor had been a Captain of a military company, we should have found the title prefixing the name when written afterwards.

Mr. John Farmer, in his Genealogical Register of the first settlers of New England, that was published two years later than Mr. Felt's "Annals of Salem," says "he was a member of the Artillery Company, 1661, a Captain, and probably removed to Enfield before 1684." There was an individual by the name of John Pease who joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1661. It is probable Mr. Farmer supposed there was no other John Pease living in New England at that time than the one who afterwards went to Enfield; so he gave him the title of Captain, and sent him to Enfield by authority of Felt.

A history of the above company edited by Mr. Z. G. Whitman, A. M., and published in 1842, places the title of Captain before the name of John Pease, and evidently copying from Farmer says "he removed to Enfield before 1684." The Hon. Francis Brinly, who has the papers belonging to the Ancient and Honorable Company, informs us that John Pease was not Captain of that company, nor does he know where Mr. Whitman obtained the authority for placing the title of Captain before the name.

The eldest son of John Pease, Sen., (born in 1654,) was Captain of the first military company formed in Enfield, and the title of Captain is prefixed to his name in public records. He was more active in effecting the settlement at Enfield and in public affairs afterwards than was his father. Hence, some confusion may have arisen afterwards in distinguishing the two men, and it may have helped settle the title of Captain on the father which belonged exclusively to the son.

J.

INDIAN DEEDS.

The title of the present territory of Enfield and Somers from the original owners of the soil, is copied below from Old Hampshire County records. The northern portion of the territory appears to have been bought in 1678, when the Indian chiefs confirmed a sale previously made of the central portion of Springfield, an extract from which reads as follows:

"I did sell unto Mr. Wm. Pynchon late of Springfield for the use and behoof of the said town of Springfield a good portion or tract of land lying on the east side of the River Quineecticut and by the said river that is to say by the river al along from the lower end of the meadow called by the Indians Massacksick and by the English called Longmedow up to Chickuppe River. . . . And the tract of land which the said Wequagan and Wawwapaw Do hereby Sel as aforesaid Lyeth partly adjoineth to the South end and east side of the tract of land above described which they acknowledge was sold to the said Mr. William Pynchon as above said. That is to say All the land

And wherefore the south bounds whereof is the River called by the Indians Asnuntuck and by the English Freshwater River or freshwater brook soe from the mouth of that river viz. from Connecticut or Quineciout River the bound runs up the said River to the meadow thereupon and from thence up the said river the bound takes in all the meadow on both sides of Freshwater River or Brooks that run into it to the upland on the southerly side of such meadow at the place where Freshwater River or Brook turns Northerly, the south bound extends Eastward to the River called Scantuck; viz. that place by the falls * where the path that leads to Pequit or Mohegit† goes over that river and from thence the said River Scantuck is the general bounds of land contained in this purchase viz. up to the place where the said River or River Scantuck comes down from the mountain, the foot of the mountain. Yet al the meadows on both sides Scantuck River are likewise contained in this purchase."

Three years after the above, a deed was obtained embracing the other portion of the territory.

"To al people to whom these presents shall come: I Tawtaps alias Notattuck the right Indian owner of al the land on the east of Connecticut River from Asnuntuck alias Freshwater River down to Umasquattanuck at the foot of the falls being willing to accommodate the English, viz. ENFIELD, CT.—ITS LOCALITY—ITS FORMER RELATION TO MASSACHUSETTS PROVINCE
—ITS FIRST SETTLEMENT AND ITS PRESENT HISTORY.

The town of Enfield, which has been the birthplace of so many of our name, is bounded on the north by Longmeadow in Massachusetts, east by Somers (which, until 1736, formed a part of Enfield), south by East Windsor, and West by the Connecticut River, which separates it from Suffield. It is in the north-eastern part of Hartford County, and about six miles in length from north to south, and about five and one-half miles in breadth.

* Compiled from various sources.

It is sixteen miles from Hartford, Ct., on the south, and eight miles from Springfield, Mass., on the north. The river Scantic or Scantuck as called by the Indians is formed in South Wilbraham, Mass., runs south-westerly through Somers and Enfield, and finds its way into the Connecticut River at the extreme northerly boundary of South Windsor. Freshwater Brook, the Indian's Asnuntuck, is formed in the north-easterly part of the town, and runs westerly into the Connecticut River at Thompsonville.

As Enfield with its neighboring towns of Suffield and Somers once belonged to Massachusetts Province, we will briefly state how they happened to be a part of that Province and why they are now a part of the State of Connecticut. The southern boundary of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay according to its charter ran west from a point three miles south of the most southerly branch of the Charles River.

In 1642 and soon after the settlement of the Connecticut Colony, by order of the General Court, two men named Nathán Woodward and Solomon Saffery were commissioned to run the boundary line between the two Colonies. They pretended to ascertain the southern point on the branch of the Charles River, and then sailing round to the mouth and going up the Connecticut River they attempted to fix the line there on the same latitude as on the Charles River. This point, as they thought, struck the chimney of the house of one Bissel who kept the ferry. The house stood in the north part of the settlement at Windsor.

In 1648 the General Court "ordered" that "all the land on the east side of the Connnetecott Ryver from the towne of Springfield downe to the warehouse which they formerly built there shal belong to the towne of Springfield for the present and during the pleasure of the Courte and twenty pole beyond the warehouse." *

The Connecticut Colony were never satisfied with the Woodward and Saffery line, but before the two Colonies could come to a settlement of the controversy, the towns of Suffield and Enfield were settled under authority from the Massachusetts Province. At length, after considerable controversy between the Provinces, Commissioners fully empowered were chosen by each Colony who came to an agreement July 13, 1713. "They were both careful to secure the property to the persons to whom they had made grants of land, and to maintain the jurisdiction over the townes which they had settled. It was, therefore, expressly stipulated as a preliminary that the towns should remain to the general government by which they had been settled, and the property of as many acres as should appear to be gained by one Colony from the other should be conveyed out of other unimproved land as a satisfaction or equivalent. With respect to about two miles claimed by Windsor upon the town of Suffield, concerning the validity of which there had been a long contest, it was agreed that if the tract fell within the limits it should belong to Connecticut.

"On running the line it was found at Connecticut River to run ninety rods north of the north-east bounds of Suffield; and it appeared that Massachusetts had encroached upon Connecticut 107,793 acres, running a due west line from Woodward and Saffery's station. Massachusetts made the grant of such quantity of land to Connecticut, and it was accepted as equivalent.*

* This boundary embraced nearly the whole site of the present village of Warehouse Point.

It was found that not only Suffield and Enfield were within the patent of Connecticut, but the town of Woodstock also, which had been settled by Massachusetts. There appears to be different opinions among historians as to how well satisfied these towns were with the settlement of the controversy. They continued under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts some thirty-four years, without making any remonstrance. In 1747 they preferred a memorial to the General Assembly of Connecticut, stating they were within the bounds of the Royal Charter of Connecticut; that they had been placed within the jurisdiction of Massachusetts without their consent. They therefore claimed to be taken under the protection of Connecticut. The General Assembly at first hesitated to do so. But after waiting two years, and finding no amicable arrangement could be made with her sister Colony, the Assembly concluded that, as the agreement between the two Colonies in 1713 had never received the sanction of the Royal Government, therefore the agreement so far as jurisdiction, was void.

The Town of Enfield held its first town-meeting the "fifth day of December, 1749 for electing town officers, etc., agreeable to the laws of the Colony of Connecticut." Among the items of debts for which the town voted to raise money at that meeting was to pay the "charges of the agent, etc., for prosecuting the defence of our getting into Connecticut."

Massachusetts did not at once acquiesce in this procedure. She continued to levy taxes against the inhabitants for several years and sent sheriffs to collect them but the people stoutly resisted their authority, and the contest was finally abandoned by Massachusetts.

THE SETTLEMENT OF ENFIELD.

The year 1679 marks the time when the first movements appear to have been made towards effecting the settlement at Enfield. The following extracts we take from the records of Old Hampshire County Court of Sessions bearing date September 30, 1679:

"The Selectmen of the town of Springfield signifying the towne's intent to settle a small village or town out of their lands at a place called Freshwater Brook, and moving this Court to appoint and impower a Committee according to law to order after what manner or form the people shall settle and where, this Court, accordingly appoint and impower Major John Pynchon Esq Benjamin Cooley George Coalton Samuel Marshfeild or any three of them of whom Major John Pynchon being one of them a comittee" who were to examine the grounds and give directions in writing "in what form the town shal be settled and erected so as to live near together for security against enemies and other good ends and accord to the direction of said comittee the inhabitants are to build and settle and not otherwise."

The first settlers of this new village were made up largely of emigrants from the town of Salem, Mass.

*Trumbull's History of Connecticut.

"The planters came on with numbers and strength. They brought with them two young gentlemen one Mr. Whitendon for a schoolmaster and Mr. Welch a candidate for the ministry and to be their preacher."*

This large emigration did not take place from Salem until 1681. Whether any families moved from Salem to this new plantation before that time I have been unable to ascertain. It is quite likely none did. It is said the two eldest sons of John Pease, Sen., went there in the fall of 1679 and spent the following winter there. Other heads of families may have gone with them for the purpose of making clearings and to prepare places for their families.

In the spring of 1683 the inhabitants of the new settlement and others petitioned the General Court to be set off from Springfield into a separate town. The petitioners stated that the town of Springfield "by a clear and full vote manifested their readiness thereunto." They expressed their intention to "maintain and uphold the worship of God and his ordinances and discharge all public dues which will occur when the place shall be settled." "Beseeching your Honors" continued the petition "for this end to consider the nature of the land which your Honors may have full information concerning, from the Worshipful Major John Pyncheon, and Springfield Deputy, who knows it well that the best of the land is not a mile and half in breadth eastward from the great river is woody and swampy land and must by hard labor be won for improvement, and then at the end of that mile and half and in some places not half a mile wide, the rest for about five miles eastward from the great river is piney and barren land and capable of no improvement so that much of the land to be improved is six or seven miles eastward of the great river."† For these reasons the petitioners asked for a large area of land for their township.

The certificate of the Selectmen of Springfield accompanied the petition on the same sheet bearing date May 12, 1683, stating the town had voted for the new township. The petition was received at Boston, May 18th.

The following is a copy of the answer to the petition by the General Court:

"In answer to the petition from Springfield and others craving a township a little below Springfield at Freshwater Brook this Courte doth grant a township there to the subscribers and others as the committee this Courte appoints shall associate to them and that the bounds of said plantation be from the land Springfield hath yeilded to them viz. at the mouth of Longmeadow Brook below Springfield; from thence to run Southward by Connecticut six miles and the bound or lyne betweene Springfield and this new township to runn off from Connecticut Ryver upon a due east line tenn miles from the mouth of said Longmeadow Brooke where it empties itselfe into the Great Ryver alias Connecticut Ryver; and that the towne be called Enfeild; and for the admittance of inhabitants granting allotments and ordering all prudentiall affairs of said township this Courte doth appoint Major John Pyncheon Lieut. Tho. Stebbins Mr. Samuel Marshfeild Jonathan Burt and Deacon Benjamin Parsons or any three of them Major Pyncheon being one of them to be a committee who are fully impowered to manage all the affaires of said township till the Courte take further orders; and that the said towne be freed from county rates for five years from this time."

Trumbull says the town was named Enfield for a town of the same name in England. The town of Springfield derived its name from one in England it is said, but we do not think Enfield did. It will be noticed that the names of the towns of Westfield, Suffield and Enfield which once joined Springfield or formed a part of it have the same termination as Springfield. And it seems probable that Westfield and Enfield derived the first syllable of their names as did Suffield. The committee, of whom Major Pyncheon was one, who laid out the town of Suffield, used the following language in their report to the General Court:—The said "Committee doth also humbly propose that the name of the place may be called Suffield (an abbreviation of Southfeild) it being the southermost towne that either at present is or like to be in that country and neere adjoining the south of our patent in in those parts." The name Enfield was undoubtedly an abbreviation of Endfield as was Suffield from Southfield and the names of those towns are frequently found thus on the records of Old Hampshire County.

It appears the inhabitants of the new settlement were unfortunate with their "candidate for the ministry" who accompanied them from Salem.* From the records of a court held at Springfield, September 30, 1684 we copy the following:

"The town of Enfield was by the grand jury presented to this Court for that they are without a preaching minister; but it being alleged that the said Towne is under a committee and also that the inhabitants have been endeavoring the attainment of a meet person for that worke so said Towne were discharged." At the same Court an indictment was presented against another town and the town was fined for not sustaining a public school in the place.

Thus did our forefathers aim to have mental and religious instruction go hand in hand with progress and civilization.

The first settlements in the town of Enfield were made in the west part of the town and south of Freshwater Brook. As the inhabitants became more numerous they pushed their settlements easterly. Benjamin Jones first began the settlement in that part of the town which is now Somers. He went out from Enfield and spent the summers on his new settlement but returned again to the village in the fall. A permanent settlement was begun there in 1713 when James Pease, Timothy Root and John McGregory, with their families, joined Jones to remain there permanently. This new settlement formed a part of the same ecclesiastical society with Enfield until 1726,† when the General Court formed it into a separate precinct called East Enfield. In 1736 it became an incorporated town called Somers. It is said to have been named after Lord Somers at the request of Gov. Belcher.*

* He died before he had been with them very long. The first "ordained minister" that was "installed" over the church in Enfield, was Rev. Nathaniel Collins, in 1699.

† Trumbull. A historical sermon, prepared by the Rev. Dr. Baccus, states that the first church in Somers was organized March 15, 1727.

The town of Enfield increased steadily in population, wealth and religious interest after its settlement notwithstanding it possessed "woody and swampy land" "hard to be won for cultivation" and "piney and barren land capable of no improvement." Forty-four years after its incorporation the town was able to part with a portion of its territory (which was afterwards Somers) for the formation of another ecclesiastical society.

Between 1745 and '50 a Baptist society was formed and a house of worship erected with Rev. Joseph Meacham as pastor in the north-easterly part of Enfield. It was located in the vicinity where Ann Lee was most successful in spreading her Shaker doctrines, and a large portion of its members with their pastor joined the Shakers and the Baptist society became extinct. In 1762 a serious schism occurred in the original church which resulted in the "Second Ecclesiastical Society of Enfield."† The new church was known as the "Separates" or "Separatists." It afterwards became a Baptist Church. A small society now exists as its legal successor, most of the members of which are Adventists.

The town of Enfield has a population of about seven thousand inhabitants and sustains some twelve religious societies. It has four post-offices. The Enfield post-office is located on the broad river road which leads from Springfield to Hartford and near where the First Congregational Church has always been located. The town-house and two Orthodox Congregational Churches are located in this vicinity. But little business is done in this part of the town compared with that which was formerly done there.

The post-office village of Thompsonville is located on the Connecticut River and at the mouth of Freshwater Brook. It was formerly known as "Head of the falls" and "Lovejoy's Ferry." It derived its present name from Orrin Thompson, Esq., who commenced the manufacture of woollen carpets there some forty years ago. Carpets are still made there by the Hartford Carpet Company to a very large extent. It also has an extensive stockinet manufactory owned by the Enfield Manufacturing Company. The village has two Presbyterian Churches, one Methodist Episcopal Church, one Protestant Episcopal Church, and one Roman Catholic Church.

Scitico, (Skitico) located in the eastern part of the town, is a post-office village. The village has a grist-mill, saw-mill, gin-distillery, a manufactory of plows for southern market and a powder manufactory. The forge, the

*It is said that Lord Somers sent the town a church bell because it was named for him, but for some cause, not satisfactorily explained, the bell never reached its destination, and the Somers church building was without a bell until nearly a century afterwards.

†The late Rev. Francis L. Robbins stated in a printed pamphlet some years since, that the Separatist church was formed in 1770. In this he must have been mistaken. Mrs. M. C. Stephens of Springfield, Mass., has in her possession the original records of the first meetings of the society. The first meeting to consider the expediency of forming the society was held April 18, and the last one when a church covenant was agreed upon and numerously signed occurred August 20, 1762. Mr. Nathaniel Collins, then of Westfield, Mass., a son of Rev. Nathaniel Collins, the first ordained minister in Enfield, was called to be their pastor.

carding-machine works and clothiers works formerly located there are among the things which were.

About midway between Scitico and the Enfield post-office village and in the vicinity of the east burying-ground is the post-office village of Hazardville. It was named for the late Col. A. G. Hazard who for many years was a large owner and principal manager of the Hazard Powder Company's works located in this vicinity.

About thirty-one years ago the large farm owned by the late David Allen on the Scantic River was bought by the Messrs. Loomis of Suffield who immediately began erecting powder-mills on it. The works afterwards passed into the hands of the present company who greatly added to the business by purchasing additional water-power upon the Scantic and in the use of steam power. It makes one of the largest powder manufactories in the United States. This village has Methodist Episcopal, Protestant Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches. About midway between Hazardville and Scitico is a Second Advent Church. A society of Shakers occupy the north-east corner of the town. This sect began to disseminate its doctrines in Enfield about 1780. They own over one thousand acres of well cultivated land. They raise annually large quantities of garden seeds. The Shakers live in four different families and number about two hundred persons.

PREFACE.

So little has been known of the Peases who first emigrated to New England by persons of modern times, much confusion has prevailed as to their relationship to each other, and to the personal identity of some of them who bore the same given name.

Between the years of 1635 and 1672, there lived in New England no less than six John Peases, whose names have appeared in print within the past few years. The ancestor of the writer, John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, being one of them, and the supposition at one time that his father was another, led him to make a thorough inquiry into the history of those of the name of Pease who were among the early inhabitants of New England. These investigations form the basis of the following pages.

The extracts relating to the history of the founders of New England, which have been taken from ancient records and published within a few years past by historical societies, have served a good purpose in calling the attention of the genealogical student to the names of persons and locality of place where information may be found; but were he to rely entirely upon such extracts he would be often led astray in his conclusions. Hence, while gladly availing myself of all such channels of information, I have not rested satisfied to go no farther, but have, so far as possible, followed the channels to their fountain-heads, and examined the original records myself.

I have been much interested in the investigation, but cannot expect the general reader will be equally interested in the perusal. I hope, at least, however, some of the chapters will explain to the genealogical student what may heretofore have seemed mystified to him. It has been my aim to study into the history of all bearing the name of Pease, who figured in the history of the early settlements of the country, or who stood at the heads of families. With this in view, I could not pass any of them by, although another may have been contemplating their history.

There have been many persons waiting many years to learn any facts which may have been collected by the Hon. Richard L. Pease in relation to the early history of his ancestor, and of his settlement at Martha's Vineyard. And it was not until after I had been assured by him that he knew of no records in Duke's County which would throw light upon the subject, that I ventured to begin the chapter of Martha's Vineyard Peases.

"The Early History of the Pease Families" will be circulated largely among the descendants of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield.* It is perhaps due to them that an investigation into the history of the settlement of the Martha's Vineyard Branch, should have been made by one of their number; since many of the Peases of the Martha's Vineyard Branch have not been disposed to favor the common tradition which has existed among the Enfield Peases, as to the relationship of the two men who stand at the head of the Salem Peases and the Martha's Vineyard Peases.

It may be observed that I have given not only the early but the late histories of some branches of the Peases. They seemed to be in want of a historian, and as none among their number was ready to be one, I was encouraged by many to continue my history to later generations.

When I began to study the early history of the New Hampshire Peases, I did it with the belief that they sprang from Nathaniel Pease, Sen., of Salem. Before my visit to the ancient records at Exeter, I became satisfied he left no male issue. After

*"The Early History of the Pease Families in America," is published in two forms. One form is a book by itself, and styled "Pease Families." The other form is as Part II. of the "Pease Record," being bound with the "Historical and Genealogical Record of the Descendants of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, Ct.," as Part I.

my visit there, I was highly gratified to find evidences which to my own mind confirmed the statements I had had more than once made to me by the New Hampshire Peases, that they were of Martha's Vineyard origin.

I feel under many obligations to the Hon. Richard L. Pease of Edgartown, Mass., who has so cheerfully co-operated with me and given me facts which were in his possession that have very materially added interest and value to the work. To the Essex County Institute of Salem, whose publications from the ancient records in that city have aided me in getting at facts, also to the publications and collections of the Massachusetts Historical and New England Historic-Genealogical Societies, I am considerably indebted. References have been made in the work to other persons who have given me information and they have my thanks.

EARLY HISTORY OF THE PEASE FAMILIES IN AMERICA.

CHAPTER I.

ORIGIN OF THE PEASE FAMILIES.

THE Peases emigrating first to America came from England. The name has been common there for the past three hundred years, or as far back as parish registers have been kept to show it. A work published in England as early as 1472, mentions the name of John Pease, LL.D. Persons of this name are found there in all ranks of society; from the most respectable yeomanry to ministers of the gospel, bankers, projectors of the first public railways, members of Parliament, etc.*

The English Peases are said to be of German origin and their emigration is placed at a much later period than when the Saxons made their conquest in England.

* The late Frederick S. Pease, Esq., in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. III. Mr. Frederick S. Pease is a descendant of the Enfield, Ct., Peases, and of the eighth generation from Robert Pease, Sen., whose history is mentioned in Chap. IV. of this work. His ancestry runs thus: FREDERICK SALMON,^a SALMON,⁷ CALVIN,⁶ NATHANIEL,⁵ SAMUEL,⁴ ROBERT,³ JOHN,² ROBERT.¹ He was born in Canaan, Ct., May 21, 1804. For more than thirty years he was book-keeper in the Commercial Bank of Albany. To him belongs the honor of being the first of the name to prepare and publish papers relating to the family of Peases in this country. They have done much in cultivating a taste and desire among those of his name to know more of the history of Peases in America. He married Julia Lawrence, September 18, 1832, and died at Albany, N. Y., March 22, 1867. For a further history of him, his father's family (among whom were the late Rev. Calvin Pease, D. D., sometime President of the Burlington University, and Rev. Aaron G. Pease, Principal of the Vermont State Reform School at Waterbury,) and of his ancestry, see Part I. of the Pease Record.

We have been informed by one who has seen it that an English work giving a history of the Peases in England states that they came from Germany some four or five hundred years ago. It would seem by the coat of arms displayed on a preceding page that the English Peases were in Germany as late as A. D., 971, as Otho II. was Monarch of Germany from 972 to 981. The name is found in Germany now and persons bearing it have emigrated from that country directly to this. The name has a different orthography in Germany, (Pies or Pees,) but those coming to this country not unfrequently change the orthography of it to conform with the Anglo-Saxon mode.

Several persons have expressed the opinion that the Peases sprang from the Latins. Of this we have no opinion. The father of the late Dr. Charles Constantine Pise* of Brooklyn, N. Y., was an Italian. One individual of the Enfield branch of Peases, of highly respectable family relations, and a gentleman of thorough education, is of the opinion we are of Italian origin, and he has changed the orthography of his name to Pise because he believes it to be like the original orthography of it.

It has been suggested that the name Pease may have originated some way by its association with that esculent plant called peas. It is probable it might have; and the origin quite ancient. Coats of arms used in families often give a clue to the origin of the name. It will be observed by the coat of arms granted by Otho II. that its crest has an eagle's head erased, the beak holding a stalk of pea-haulm, which makes it appear that the Pease family was in some way associated with the pea-plant.

The late Frederick S. Pease suggested in his "Pease Family" that the name may have been "derived or formed a part of the name of Peabody." He has since stated that he had become convinced that "there was no ground for the assumption."†

* Pronounced Pees. † See New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. IX.

CHAPTER II.

BOSTON PEASES.

THE honor of being the first pioneer to America of the name belongs to Henry Pease. He is supposed to have come from England about the time Governor Winthrop did, (1630,) and settled in Boston. His name is found occasionally upon the town records of that place.* He was made Freeman in 1634. He had two wives; first, Susan, died in August, 1645; second, Bridget. He died August 7, 1647. In mentioning his decease, Governor Winthrop called him "my old servant." This fact renders it probable he had been in the employ of Governor Winthrop for some time. He had three children, viz: John, Henry and Susan.

SECOND GENERATION.

JOHN PEASE,² (HENRY,¹) son of HENRY and SUSAN PEASE, has a public history in Boston for a period of some thirty-six years; although he was not noticed by Farmer, Savage, and others in their histories of the early settlers of New England. His name is found frequently in the Suffolk County records, and among the papers on file in the office of Secretary of State. He was brought under censure by the General Court, May 31, 1670, for having accompanied his townsman, Hope Allen, his daughter and a Mr. Deacon to Lynn where the two latter were married without having been legally published. Anticipating the action of the Court, he presented a petition † to that body, dated May 15, 1670. His petition admits he had received "caution and warning" from the honored Major-General that same day he committed the offense. He urged he did not disobey because of "any disregard or wilful transgression or contempt of the laws or authority of the country;" but, continues the petition, "to my imbecility and folly, transported by a preposterous zeal to pleasure my friend (who had for a considerable time sojourned with me) in order to his dispatch to sea, the vessel wherein I am somewhat concerned staying on purpose."* His reasons were not satisfactory to the General Court, and he was fined forty shillings† for yielding to a "preposterous zeal." He was by occupation a tobacconist, besides being "somewhat concerned" in a vessel.

In 1648 he had a wife named Martha. It is probable he had no issue by her. He afterwards had a wife named Hannah, by whom he had a daughter, Elizabeth, born May 15, 1677. The child died young and seems to have been his only issue. His last will and testament, made February 20, 1683, was proved the following December. His "great bible," which had been his father's, he gave to his "loving brother Henry Pease." The balance of his property, whether derived from his "father, Henry Pease, deceased," or acquired himself, he gave to his wife, Hannah.‡

HENRY PEASE,² (HENRY,¹) brother of the preceding, was probably the second son of HENRY and SUSAN PEASE of Boston. As early as 1649, he with his wife, Gertrude, lived at Marblehead. In 1656 they sold their house and ‡John Pease was elected a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston in 1661, and in 1668 he was chosen Second Sergeant of the Company. He may never have accepted that office, however, as his name (says the Hon. Francis Brinley), does not appear among the officers after the date of election. In the absence of any evidence to the contrary, it seems probable that John Pease of Boston had the honor of being a member of that Company.

land at Marblehead and probably returned to Boston, where their daughter Martha died in 1659, and at a later period his name appears as a resident there. We have no means of knowing how long he survived his brother John. The "widow Garthwrite" Pease died at Boston, June 25, 1701.* We cannot learn as he had any sons to perpetuate his name. His history closes the history of the Boston Peases.

CHAPTER III.

JOHN PEASE OF SALEM VILLAGE.

AN individual bearing the name of John Pease appears in Salem history in 1635. His conduct gave him a "striking" notoriety and gained the attention of the General Court. We were inclined first to think he may have been the John Pease who came to this country in the ship Francis, in 1634, whose history we shall hereafter mention; and later that he may have been the tobacconist of Boston. But the development of additional facts in his and others' histories renders it conclusive he was neither.

At the November session of the General Court in 1635, it was "ordered that John Peas shall be whipped and bound to his good behavior for strikeing his mother, Mrs. Weston, and deriding of her and other evil carriages." Mrs. Weston was the wife of Francis Weston one of the early settlers of Salem and a resident of Salem Village, so called, now Danvers. As Francis Weston never had issue,* it is probable this John Pease was the son of Mrs. Weston by a former husband, and at the time of this difficulty he may have been a minor and lived in the family of Francis Weston. He remained in the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, after religious persecution in 1638 had driven his step-father first to Providence, R. I., and afterwards to Shawomet (now Warwick, R. I.) In 1643 the Governor of Massachusetts Bay Colony, claiming jurisdiction over Shawomet, and because of some alleged grievances, sent Commissioners with a body of soldiers to Shawomet to arrest and deal with the leading men of the new settlement. Pease hastened there to "declare unto his father, out of his tenderness toward him, of the nearness of the soldiers' approach and as near as he could the end of their coming, to persuade his said father to escape for his life."* He was the first to apprise the settlers of their danger; and he afterwards acted as a bearer of dispatches between the hostile parties. His efforts to avert the storm which hung over the handful of settlers were unavailing. Francis Weston and others, (among whom was Samuel Gorton, the acknowledged leader in Shawomet,) were taken and carried off to Boston where they were tried, adjudged guilty and received sentence for heresy. They were sentenced to hard labor and were scattered about in towns in the vicinity of Boston. They were liberated in the spring following and allowed to return to Shawomet. In June of the same year Francis Weston died of consumption.†

Soon after the death of his step-father, Pease sold his house and farm at Salem Village. It is probable that he left the Colony about the same time as no record of him can be found in the Colony later than this sale of land. It is said no mention is made of him in the records of Warwick (formerly Shawomet,) where his mother probably remained after the death of her husband, and where we should naturally suppose he would have gone.

"Luce Pease, the wife of Pease,"‡ who was brought before the General Court in 1643, on a charge of having embraced the religious opinions of Samuel Gorton, but finally acquitted, is supposed to have been the wife of John Pease, the subject of this sketch.

* Samuel Gorton.

† The above facts relating to the difficulties between the inhabitants of Shawomet and the Governor of Massachusetts Bay, and the action of Pease were gathered from Gorton's "Simplicity's Defence" which has been reprinted by the Rhode Island Historical Society.

CHAPTER IV.

ORIGIN OF THE SALEM AND ENFIELD PEASES.

MUCH is due to the memory of the late Dr. John Chauncey Pease* for his manuscript history of the Enfield Peases. He gathered many facts relating to their history after their emigration to Enfield, which, had it not been for his efforts, would have been lost to posterity. He appears, however, to have possessed but little information concerning the history of the family prior to its removal to Enfield, and no knowledge of the father of the elder Enfield Pease or of his relation to others of the name living at Salem.

We are indebted to the late Frederick S. Pease, Esq., of Albany, N. Y., for giving Dr. Pease's information to the public through that valuable periodical, the New England Historical and Genealogical Register in 1849, and for other valuable information and suggestions relating to the history of the Peases which he had presented to us from time to time through the same organ. But the rich material stored in the archives at Salem he did not explore. Recently these records have been thoroughly examined, and information has been brought to light which apparently precludes any further doubt or speculation as to the origin of the Enfield Peases and their relation to the Salem Peases.

* Dr. John C. Pease is a descendant of the Enfield Peases of the seventh generation from Robert Pease, Sen., of this chapter. His ancestry runs thus: JOHN CHAUNCEY,⁷ JOHN,⁶ JOHN,⁵ JOHN,⁴ JOHN,³ JOHN,² ROBERT.¹ He was born at Enfield, Ct., June 1, 1782, entered Yale College about 1801, next studied medicine and practiced several years in his native and other towns. In 1816 he ceased practicing medicine and with his brother-in-law, the Hon. John M. Niles, began the publication of the "Hartford Times." The paper took a bold stand in the favor of Jeffersonian Democracy, and wielded a strong influence for more extended ecclesiastical and political privileges which finally resulted in the establishment of the present State Constitution in the place of the old Royal Charter. Dr. Pease wrote and published several historical works of considerable research. He prepared a history of the town of Enfield which he brought down to the American Revolution, but it has never been published. His work embraced a partial history of the Enfield Peases. Dr. Pease married Naomi G. Niles of Windsor, Ct. He died at Hartford, Ct., January 30, 1859. For a further history of him, his family and ancestry, see Part I. of the Pease Record.

Among those who took passage from Ipswich, England, in the ship Francis, John Cutting, master, bound for New England, toward the last of April, 1634, as shown by the custom-house books, were ROBERT and JOHN PEASE. Their ages upon the books were twenty-seven years each. It has been supposed that Robert Pease was the elder, and it may be that the probable ages of passengers were set down by the custom-house officers without questioning. The vessel was reported back to Ipswich as having arrived at Boston, Mass., without the loss of a single passenger. Neither of the men had wives with them. They must have come in a later vessel of which no record is extant as is the case of hundreds of others among the early settlers.*

A boy aged three years, named Robert Pease, was among the list of passengers of the ship Francis. It had been supposed that the child belonged to John Pease because of the proximity of their names upon the custom-house book, but the development of additional facts show that he must have been the son of Robert Pease. For more than thirty years after this emigration, Salem, Mass., is the only place where the name of Robert Pease is found in history in this country.

In January, 1637, ROBERT and JOHN PEASE had land granted them at Salem. A transaction growing out of these grants shows that the men were brothers. It seems conclusive that the Peases of the ship Francis in 1634 are identical with those who had land granted them at Salem in 1637. To this ROBERT PEASE of Salem belongs the distinction of being the progenitor of the Salem and Enfield Peases.

*John may have not been married.

It is not known positively from what part of England these men originally came, yet evidence has been produced within a few years past which throws considerable light upon their history and seems to point us to the family and locality in England from which they sprang.

The late Mr. Frederick S. Pease prepared a paper which was published in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register for 1856, Vol. X., which is directly to the point. He says:

"In Vol. III., page 30, New England Historical and Genealogical Register, there is mention of John Pease, aged 27, and Robert Pease, aged 27, who came from Ipswich, England, to Boston on board the ship Francis, in April, 1634, and removed to Salem where they were known to have been in 1637. It was assumed that John was the ancestor of the families embraced in the account which was published in that volume and his name accordingly placed at the head; but farther research and more reflection have served to transfer the honor to Robert.

"Mr. Somberby, to whom much is due for his researches in England, writes under date of June 6, 1854, that while making some genealogical investigations in Essex, he met with the will of Robert Pease of Great Baddow, and considering it worth the trouble he visited that place and made extracts from the parish register:

"Robert Pease, Co. of Essex, Locksmith, Will, dated May 10th, 1623, Mentions his wife Margaret, sons Robert and John, daughter Elizabeth, son-in-law Abraham Page and brother-in-law Francis King. Will proved June 12th 1623.'

"From a long list of baptisms, marriages and burials dating from 1540 to 1623, the following have been selected:

"John, son of Robert Pease baptized May 24, 1593.
John infant son of Robert Pease buried Jan. 10, 1599.
John son of Robert Pease baptized Nov. 20, 1608.'

"There is no record of the birth of Robert, the other son mentioned in the will, and Mr. Somberby thinks he must have been baptized in some other parish.

"It would be imprudent to assert positively that John and Robert, whose names are mentioned in the will, are the same who came in the ship Francis, but it seems not improbable that Great Baddow is the locality and the family of Robert Pease, that to which the ancestry of the family may be traced.

"Great Baddow is in what is called the Hundred of Chelmsford, about thirty miles north-east from London on the thoroughfare to Ipswich; the most convenient place of embarkation from that neighborhood, and old Norfolk and Essex here were settled chiefly by people from counties of the same name in England."

Since Mr. Pease published the above article it has been shown what was before only supposed, that Robert and John Pease who had land granted them at Salem in 1637, were brothers, and that the given name of the mother of Robert was Margaret. She probably emigrated to this country with the family of her son, Robert Pease. She was undoubtedly the "widow Pease" who joined the First Church at Salem, in 1639. Her will, made during her last sickness, and the inventory of her estate, were presented to the Court at Salem, September 1, 1644.* We can find no history of these brothers from the time of their embarkation at Ipswich until January 2, 1637, when they had land granted them at Salem. At this time Robert Pease was granted ten acres and John Pease twenty acres. It need not be inferred necessarily that they did not dwell at Salem before the above date. The records of land grants made at Salem prior to January 19, 1635, are not extant. There were but few grants made, comparatively from January 19, 1635, to January 2, 1637.

* See Appendix D.

It is known that there were certain persons living at Salem as early as 1635, and some earlier, but we can find no evidence that land was granted them until 1637. Yet the subsequent history of these men show that they must have owned land there before 1637. These brothers sold the precise amount which was granted them in 1637, and there is no record that Robert Pease had land granted him afterwards, although when he died he was in possession of 11 acres. These facts show that the brothers may have gone to Salem the year they landed in America.

There is a transaction recorded at Salem in the book of land grants, bearing date February 13, 1652, which furnishes us an important fact. A portion of the record reads thus:

"Robert Goodell having forty acres of land granted him long since by the town and he having bought land of several other persons that had land granted them" [then follow the names of the persons of whom he bought and the amount he bought of each] "in the whole 480 acres, it is ordered that the said Goodell shall enjoy the said 480 acres, &c."

The record mentions the names of fifteen different persons of whom he made the purchases. Thirteen of these persons had precisely the amount granted them in 1637, which the record says Goodell bought of them. The names of the other two persons are found among the grantees in 1637, though the amount of land specified in the two transactions do not agree.

Among these persons of whom he made the purchases, were (to use the language of the record,) "Robert Pease and brother, 30 acres." This action of the authorities occurred after the two oldest sons of Robert Pease, Sen., were old enough to transact business for themselves. But the sons had not had land granted them before that time as shown by the book of land grants. Besides, had they made such sales after their majority, they would probably have been found on record in the office of Registry of Deeds. No transfers of land prior to 1644 are found recorded in the Registry's office. Sales after that date seem generally to have been recorded there. It is probable that Goodell presented the subject before the authorities for the purpose of having his purchases of land, that were made many years before, and of which no record had been made, properly sanctioned and legalized. It seems conclusive, therefore, that the men who had land granted them in 1637, were involved in the transaction, and not the sons of one of them. If this point is made clear it is equally clear that Robert and John Pease, to whom land was granted in 1637, were brothers. This incident furnishes us with the only direct proof we have of their relationship, and establishes the fact that there were two John Peases living in Salem, contemporaneously, for a time before 1644. The one the son of Mrs. Weston, the other the son of Widow Margaret Pease.*

The history of the brother of Robert is briefer in Salem than that of his contemporary of the same name. In only two instances besides those before mentioned in this and the preceding chapter does the name of John Pease appear in Salem history referring to either.

In April, 1638, John Pease had five acres of land granted him. This grant was near where the first grist-mill was located, and in the vicinity of the grants made originally to "Robert Pease and brother." Undoubtedly the brother of Robert is meant in this transaction. The name is again found in the Court records bearing date June 25, 1639. A copy of the record reads thus:

"It is ordered whereas Mr. Garvis Garford had a cow of John Pease for a year, the tyme being expired and the said John Pease not returned whereupon the said Mr. Garford requested advice what to do with her Upon which the Court ordered him to keep the cow until the party shall return, upon the same terms he kept her before." We are unable to determine which of the John Peases is meant in this transaction.

* The son of Mrs. Weston as shown by the locality of his farm lived in Salem Village, (now Danvers,) and several miles from the locality of the farm of Robert Goodell, a part of which had formerly been granted to John and Robert Pease. It is not probable these brothers were very nearly related to the son of Mrs. Weston, nor is it known they were to the Boston Peases.

There is no evidence to show that the son of Mrs. Weston left Salem until five years after this unless he went with his mother and step-father to Providence in 1638 and remained with them for a time. Nor is there any evidence to show that the brother of Robert was there later than this transaction. What became of him we have no direct proof. It was at one time supposed that he died before December 29, 1639, and that it was his widow who joined the church at Salem at that time. This supposition was entertained before it was known that the mother of Robert and John Pease lived at Salem. As the person referred to on the church books was designated simply as "Widow Pease," it is probable that only one widow lived at Salem at that period. There are reasons for supposing he may have gone to Martha's Vineyard and formed the settlement there. Of this more will be said in Chapter VII.

The history of ROBERT PEASE, Sen., in the "New World" is brief, as he lived here only a decade. On the first day of October, 1643, he joined the First Church at Salem. Two weeks later three of his children, viz: Nathaniel, Sarah and Mary were baptized. Less than one year from this he was dead. The inventory of his estate, signed by two appraisers but without date, was brought into court at Salem, August 27, 1644. His estate was a small one though valuable to his posterity. For the records made at its settlement compared with the last will and testament of his mother, throw light upon his family history and furnish us with unmistakable evidences that he was the father of JOHN PEASE, SEN., last of Enfield, Ct. Since these records have been carefully examined, the given name of the father of the latter need no longer be "assumed" or held in doubt.*

The given name of the wife of Robert Pease was Marie,† the French orthography for Mary. Her name furnishes presumptive evidence that her parents may have been Protestant refugees from France. The time of her decease is not known, as no record of the settlement of her estate or division of her property can be found. Her name appears only in connection with the settlement of her husband's estate and in the inventory of his mother's. We are unable to ascertain the exact number of children there were in the family. Five are all we have any knowledge of.

His children were :

1. 1. ROBERT, b. at
2. 2. JOHN, b. at
3. 3. NATHANIEL, b. at
4. 4. SARAH, b. at . m. John Sampson of Beverly, October 22, 1667, and died before 1677.
5. 5. MARY, b. at , and probably m. Hugh Pasco ‡ as his second wife.

There are some reasons for supposing there may have been another child in the family.

A petition was gotten up in 1714 and signed by those "having cottages or dwelling-places before the year 1661" who it appears had rights in the common lands in Salem which others did not possess. Among those petitioners were Nathaniel and Isaac Pease. This is the only instance where the name of Isaac Pease occurs, except in reference to the grandchildren of Robert Pease, Sen., or their posterity. This Isaac Pease may have been a son of Robert Pease, Sen., born and baptized in England, who with his brother Nathaniel, shared an interest in the common lands of Salem as an heir to his mother's small estate. Quite likely he had no family and his brothers named sons for him.

SECOND GENERATION.

ROBERT PEASE,² (ROBERT,¹) eldest son of ROBERT and MARIE PEASE, first of England, last of Salem, was born in England in 1628 or '29, came to this country when a lad with his father, in 1634, and settled in Salem. Bereft of a father at an early age, he was bound out by the Court, December 31, 1645, "upon motion and consent of both parties, to Thomas Root, to learn the trade of a weaver of woollen and linen." He was sometimes made keeper of the town herd, and he must have been employed as herdsman during his apprenticeship, or prior to it, for in 1704 he testified in Court that he had been a "keeper of several lots of creatures, as neat cattle, goats, &c., on the lands belonging to the inhabitants of Salem above 60 years agoene."* In 1655 he "was employed to keep one hundred cows, being a part of the town drove, and to have help so that he may attend worship every third Sabbath."† During an early period of his manhood he lived at Martha's Vineyard. As an inducement to keep him there, several of the citizens agreed to furnish him annually with one hundred pounds of fish. The agreement contains the following clause:

"If the said Robert Pease leave the island he will leave the fish resigning up again to the owners. Also the said Robert Pease doth engage to weave cloth of the town for such pay as the town can raise among themselves except wampum."*

*Land County Records.

†Felt's "Annals of Salem."

‡From Edgartown Records furnished by Hon. Richard L. Pease.

It is not known how long he remained at Martha's Vineyard. No mention is made of him at Salem after 1655 until 1667, except in the records of the birth of his children. Some of them may have been born at Edgartown, as the record of his first five children was made at one time on the Salem books. He was with a Salem company in the French and Indian war in 1676.* The given name of his wife was Sarah. Both suffered imprisonment in 1692 because suspected of witchcraft. His wife was living in 1704, and he in 1713, at which latter date he was dismissed from the First Church at Salem to aid in forming the First Church at the Middle Precinct, afterwards South Danvers, but now Peabody. He has the distinction of being the ancestor of the SALEM BRANCH of the SALEM PEASES.

His children were:

6. 1. BETHIA, b. June 11, 1660. d. November , 1667.
7. 2. ELIZABETH, b. August 20, 1662. m. Thomas Venney of Marblehead October 28, 1708.
8. 3. DELIVERANCE, b. August 10, 1664.
9. 4. MARY, b. February 12, 1667. m. Alexander Reynolds, July 6, 1686.
10. 5. ROBERT, b. March 25, 1669. No other history is found of him at Salem. There is a strong probability that he left Salem before he was of age and went to Enfield, Ct. The subject will be taken up in the next chapter.
11. 6. ISAAC, b. November 30, 1671.
12. 7. DELIVERANCE, b. December 6, 1673.
13. 8. BETHIA, b. June 18, 1675.
14. 9. NATHANIEL, b. February 28, 1678.

JOHN PEASE,² (ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born in England, about 1630, came to this country not far from 1634, and settled in Salem. His grandmother, Margaret Pease, who died soon after her son, his father, gave him in her will most of her property and put the boy in the care of Thomas Watson of Salem to "dispose of him as his own child;" married first, Mary Goodell, daughter of Robert Goodell of Salem, who died January 5, 1669; married second, Ann Cummings, daughter of Isaac Cummings of Topsfield. He settled a yeoman in the "Northfields" at Salem where he remained until the fall of 1681, when he removed with his large family (the two eldest sons of which already had families) and numerous neighbors to that part of Springfield, Mass., which afterwards became Enfield, Ct. He died July 8, 1689. To him belongs the distinction of being the ancestor of the ENFIELD BRANCH of the SALEM PEASES. His posterity is supposed to be more numerous than that of any other person of this name in this country. Six generations of the male descent whose names have been obtained number over three thousand persons.

His children were:

15. 1. JOHN, b. May 30,* 1654.
16. 2. ROBERT, b. May 14,* 1656. —
17. 3. MARY, b. October 8, 1658.
18. 4. ABRAHAM, b. June 5, 1662.
19. 5. JONATHAN, b. January 2, 1669.*

BY SECOND WIFE:

20. 6. JAMES, b. December 23, 1670.
21. 7. ISAAC, b. July 15, 1672.
22. 8. ABIGAIL, b. December 15, 1675.

For a full history of the male descendants of the above family, see "The Genealogical and Historical Record of the Descendants of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, Ct." Compiled by Rev. David Pease, assisted by the author of this work.†

* See Appendix A.

† Rev. David Pease is a descendant of the Enfield, Ct., Peases and of the sixth generation from Robert Pease, Sen., of this chapter. His ancestry runs thus: DAVID,⁶ DAVID,⁵ CUMMINGS,⁴ ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT.¹ He was born at East Windsor, Ct., November 9, 1788. He was ordained pastor of the Baptist Church at Belchertown, Mass., 1810. His next pastoral charge was at Conway, Mass. In 1823 he was called to the pastorate of the Baptist Church at Cazenovia, N. Y. He has been pastor of various Baptist Churches in New York State and Massachusetts.

3.

NATHANIEL PEASE,² (ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, may have been born in England, but was baptized at Salem in 1643; married Mary Hobbs, March 15, 1668, and settled at Salem; but little is known of his history. His name appears only twice in the land records and then as a witness. He was in the French and Indian war in 1675, and was living in 1714. There is no record that he had issue. As his brother Robert named a son for him ten years after Nathaniel's marriage, it seems probable he had no son to bear his name. The Mary Pease who was implicated in the Salem witchcraft in 1692 was undoubtedly his wife.

THIRD GENERATION.

ISAAC PEASE,³ (ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) second son of ROBERT and SARAH PEASE of Salem, was born at Salem, November 30, 1671; married Elizabeth Thomas, April 20, 1697, and first settled within the present limits of Salem, but subsequently removed to that part which afterwards became Danvers, next South Danvers, and now Peabody. He was a "husbandman." His will was proved July 12, 1745; it mentions wife Elizabeth and children of whom two daughters were then widows. But as if indicative of the final obscurity of their history, neither the names or the number of his children are mentioned in it.

Vigorous in his old age he has preached to the Baptist Church at Savoy the past year. He began to collect material for a history of the Enfield Peases about twenty-five years ago, and before knowing anything had been done towards it by others. Providence has kindly lengthened out his days and permitted him to see his work of so many years labor in print. He married first Dorcas Ayres of Granby, December 31, 1812, by whom he had eight children; married second Sarah Taylor of Ashfield, January 16, 1856. For a farther history of himself, his children, grandchildren and ancestry, see Part I. of the Pease Record.

The writer's ancestry runs thus: AUSTIN SPENCER,⁷ REUBEN,⁶ ISAAC,⁵ EZEKIEL,⁴ ISAAC,³ JOHN,² ROBERT.¹

*His children were:

23. 1. ELIZABETH, b. at Salem, February 2, 1698. m. a Mr. Whittemore.
24. 2. ISAAC, b. at Salem, July 2, 1699.
25. 3. MARY, b. at Salem.
26. 4. JOSEPH.
27. 5. JOHN.
28. 6. RUTH.

The following is all the history we can gather of the sons of Isaac Pease³:

Isaac, the eldest son of this family, lived in Danvers, but we could not learn that he had any family. In 1747 he sold his interest in his father's estate; was then called a husbandman. In 1767 he was a dependent upon the town of Danvers.†

Joseph Pease, his brother, lived some time in the town of Salem, and died there not far from 1777 leaving no issue to inherit his small share in the estate of his father.‡ Though a resident of Salem, he appears to have belonged to the town of Danvers in 1769, as his name at that date was associated with his brother Isaac's.

John has a history more obscure than that of his brothers. We found his name mentioned in only one document. It was dated October 3, 1677, and stated that he was a resident of Danvers, and brother of Joseph Pease then deceased, and a son of "Isaac Pease late of Salem," then of "Danvers, deceased." He and sister Elizabeth Whittemore sold a two-fifths interest of their brother Joseph's share in their late father's estate to a daughter of the sister Whittemore.§

30.

JOHN PEASE,⁴ (NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) second son of NATHANIEL and ELIZABETH (ASHLY) PEASE of Salem, was born at Salem, February 4, 1704; married Elizabeth Goodwin of Newbury, July 29, 1726, and settled in Salem. He was a cordwainer. He was living at Salem in 1756; could find no record of the time of his death. Elizabeth Pease, widow, made her will dated 1788. She was probably his relict. She gave her property principally to three daughters, viz.:

35. 1. MARTHA PEASE, who was made executrix.
36. 2. SUSANNAH.
37. 3. SARAH.

Small legacies were given to the following who may also have been her children:

38. 4. PHEBE BLAKE.
39. 5. JAMES PEASE.
40. 6. MARY PEASE.

Essex County and Salem Town Records are silent as to any further history of the above named family. Felt, in his Annals of Salem, mentions under date of February, 1797, the name of James Pease, who, among others, had recently returned from Algerine captivity, and states that he was apportioned his share in a benefit given to such sufferers by the Boston Theater. It is probable he belonged to this family.

32.

JONATHAN PEASE,⁴ (NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, settled at Salem, and was by occupation a "carter." He died 1777, and his wife Sarah died soon afterwards. His will mentions as

His children:

41. 1. JONATHAN.
42. 2. BENJAMIN, whose history is unknown.
43. 3. MARY, the "wife of William Munday."
44. 4. ELIZABETH, the "wife of Peter Warner."
45. 5. ROBERT.
46. 6. DANIEL, who d. before June 17, 1775.
47. 7. SARAH.
48. 8. HANNAH.

The last three named were minors at the time of their father's decease.

33.

NATHANIEL PEASE,⁴ (NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, resided at Salem, and was by occupation a "carter." He died, 1773. His will mentions wife Jemima and his children.

His children were:

50. 1. NATHANIEL.
51. 2. EDMUND.
52. 3. AMOS, then under age.
53. 4. MARY.
54. 5. JEMIMA.

The Town or County Records give no additional information concerning the history of Edmund or Amos.

JONATHAN PEASE,⁵ (JONATHAN,⁴ NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) eldest son of JONATHAN and SARAH PEASE; married Hannah Curtis, and settled at Salem. In legal transactions he was sometimes called Mariner and sometimes Fisherman. Letters of administration were granted on his estate December 6, 1785.

His children were:

ROBERT PEASE,⁵ (JONATHAN,⁴ NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding; married Hannah Woodman, April 12, 1778. The Probate and Land Records give us no history of this individual. The Salem Town Records only give his marriage. There are persons residing at Salem whose father and grandfather were named Robert Pease. They are unable to give us such information as will identify them positively with this branch, but it is probable they are the grandchildren of this man.

NATHANIEL PEASE,⁵ (NATHANIEL,⁴ NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) son of NATHANIEL and JEMIMA PEASE of Salem, and first cousin of the preceding; married Love Mullin, April 22, 1784. Nothing further is known of his history.

56.

JONATHAN PEASE,⁶ (JONATHAN,⁵ JONATHAN,⁴ NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born about 1773; married Mary Pecketh, and settled in Salem. He was a mariner and died in 1812.

His children were:

61. 1. JONATHAN, b. 1779. d. unmarried.
62. 2. BENJAMIN, b. April 17, 1814. m. Mary J. Aikin and resides at Salem, a shoemaker.

RICHARD PEASE,⁶ (JONATHAN,⁵ JONATHAN,⁴ NATHANIEL,³ ROBERT,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born March 30, 1777; married Mary Derby, September 21, 1801, and settled in Salem. He was a mariner.

His children were:

63. 1. MARY, b. , 1803. m.
64. 2. RICHARD, b. April 19, 1807. m. Harriet N. Burnham, 1842, and resides in Salem, a baker.
65. 3. ELIZABETH, b. , 1861. d. young.

NOTE.

The records of marriages and births in the town of Salem during the last century were almost wholly neglected. Hence our principal sources of information for a history of the Salem Peases have been the Probate and Land Records of Essex County. It is probable the posterity of the Salem Peases are not numerous. From all our inquiries either by letter or otherwise we have in only one instance found a person by the name of Pease outside of Salem who claimed that place as his origin. Mr. Joseph Pease of Richmond, Me., informs us his father was a native of Salem, Mass., but we have failed to learn from him to which family he belonged. It is not improbable that there may be other Peases in Maine who belong to the Salem Peases.

CHAPTER V.

FAMILY OF "LATTER" ROBERT PEASE OF ENFIELD, CT.

A FEW years after the families of John Pease, Sen., and his sons, John Pease, Jr., and Robert Pease had settled in Enfield, another individual named Robert Pease came into the settlement. The committee allotted him a portion of land, November 30, 1687, after having been admitted an inhabitant by a vote of the town. In his grant of land he is called "Robert Pease who had been admitted an inhabitant." His marriage is recorded as Robert Pease, Jr. In legal documents he was called Robert Pease, 2d. Among his townsmen he was generally designated as "latter" Robert. Dr. John C. Pease states in his manuscript history of Enfield, that "according to tradition he came directly from England to Enfield, and was a distant relative of the original Pease family in that town."* We have some time been of the opinion that he may have come directly from Salem instead of England.

Since finding that the brother of John Pease, Sen., had a son named Robert, whose farther history or death could not be found in Salem or vicinity, and that his brothers did not perpetuate his name in their families, we have become confirmed in the belief that this "latter" Robert did not come from England, but that he was the eldest son of Robert Pease of Salem, the weaver, and a nephew of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield. So far as we can learn, the later generations of John Pease, Sen., were ignorant of the fact that their ancestor left a brother at Salem who had a large family of children. Hence, there may have sprung up the tradition that this relative of their ancestor came from England. It will be observed that if he was the son of Robert Pease of Salem, weaver, that he was not nineteen years old when he came to Enfield and had land granted to him. Granting a minor land at Enfield was not an irregular procedure. Jonathan, the fourth son of John Pease, Sen., had land granted him in 1681 when he was twelve years old, and James, the fifth son, had land granted him at the age of nineteen.

To our mind there seems no better reason why neither Isaac or Nathaniel Pease, sons of Robert Pease of Salem weaver, named a son Robert for their brother, father and grandfather, than the supposition that the brother lived to have sons of his own to whom he might have given the name. And as the name can be found nowhere in New England to answer for that brother, except at Enfield, it seems conclusive to us that he was Robert Pease, Jr., of Salem. It is true he did not perpetuate his given name in his family. It was probably owing to the fact that two of the Enfield Peases already bore it when he came there. Therefore, to avoid a confusion which he may have seen and felt at Salem, he gave his eldest son the name of his uncle Nathaniel. Robert Pease, 2d, married Hannah Warriner, December, 1691, and settled upon his allotment on the Somers road east of Enfield street. He was living in 1744.*

His children were:

1. 1. HANNAH, b. March 15, 1693.
2. 2. NATHANIEL, b.
3. 3. JOSEPH, b. , 1707. He was living in Enfield in 1729.

NATHANIEL PEASE,² (ROBERT,¹) eldest son of ROBERT, 2D, and HANNAH (WARRINER) PEASE, last of Enfield, was born at Enfield, Ct.; married Miriam Pease,* daughter of Robert Pease, a grandson of John Pease, Sen., December 24, 1730. He was by trade a weaver,† and first settled in Enfield. About 1759 he removed to Blandford, Mass.,‡ and for several years kept a public house there. He served on the Board of Selectmen of Blandford three years. In 1771 he sold his farm and tavern stand to his son Levi,§ and it is said he removed to Stephentown, N. Y., and died there.

CAPT. LEVI PEASE,³ (NATHANIEL,² ROBERT,¹) brother of the preceding, was born at Enfield, Ct., 1739; married Hannah Sexton, and probably first settled in Stephentown, N. Y., from which place about 1770 he removed and settled in Blandford, Mass.,‡ and kept a public house there. In 1776 he sold his farm in Blandford to Robert Pease§ of Somers, to which latter place he soon after removed his family. In 1786, '88 and '89 he resided at Boston, Mass., and kept the New York stage house.|| He purchased a farm and tavern stand in Shrewsbury, Mass., and removed there from Somers in 1794, where he remained until his death.

Mr. Pease was by trade a blacksmith, but his mind was too energetic and enterprising to be confined within the walls of a common blacksmith shop. During the Revolutionary War he was variously employed in responsible positions by officers of the army. He was with General Thomas on the northern frontier at the time of his death with the small-pox. He had been a bearer of many important dispatches for the General which required great caution and skill to convey them to their places of destination without detection. General Wadsworth of Hartford, Ct., Commissary General, afterwards employed him to purchase beeves for the army. "Wadsworth many times gave him large packages of Continental money wherewith to make purchases, informing him of the amount but which Pease never counted or receipted; such was Wadsworth's confidence and it was not misplaced or abused."* On the arrival of the French fleet and army at Newport, R. I., he was directed to purchase horses to drag their artillery to Yorktown, Va., and he afterwards foraged for the army on its way there.

Not far from the close of the Revolutionary War "he commenced running a stage or carriage for the accommodation of passengers between Somers and Hartford, about twenty miles, which was the incipient step to his more extensive operations in that line of business."† Soon after this he started a line of stages between Hartford and Boston. He had a partner named Sikes (some years his junior) who also was a blacksmith by trade. The enterprise was stoutly opposed by the father of young Sikes. He told Pease he had enticed his son "into a ruinous scheme that would make them both in a short time tenants of the jail."‡ Nothing daunted, they furnished themselves with convenient wagons, and "began business October 22, 1783. One started from the sign of the Lamb in Boston every Monday morning at six o'clock, and stopped for the night at Martin's at Northboro; on Tuesday going through Worcester it rested at Rice's at Brookfield; on Wednesday it advanced to Pease's at Somers, and on Thursday it reached Hartford. The other leaving Hartford the same time and stopping at the same places, reached Boston in four days. Fare four pence per mile."§ In 1784 they included Springfield in their route.

"In January, 1786, the energetic founders had established a line of stages from Portsmouth to Savannah, transporting the several mails. From Boston to Hartford coaches left the inn of Levi Pease opposite the Mall, every Monday and Thursday morning, and made the trip in three days."* They had then reduced their fare to three pence per mile, and allowed passengers fourteen pounds baggage.† "For a long time Pease was the only contractor in New England known at the department for carrying the mails through its various thoroughfares by stage and on horseback; much of which he underlet to others, the responsibility of which rested upon him."‡§

Captain Levi Pease|| "procured the first charter for a 'turnpike' road that was granted in Massachusetts. The road ran through Palmer and Wilbraham to Springfield, which before, almost impassable with wheels, was greatly improved. He took a large portion of the stock, expended much time and money upon the road for many years, and at last, by a depreciation of its stock, lost all he put into the concern."

How changed the conveniences for traveling on that same thoroughfare over which Captain Pease ran his stages! His grandchildren now living in Boston may leave their homes in one of three daily trains, visit their distant cousins in the distant city of Hartford and return in time for rest and sleep within twenty-four hours of starting. Captain Pease having survived all his children, died at Shrewsbury, January 28, 1824. "He left a good name, numerous friends, and ever will live in stage history as

CHAPTER VI.

NEW JERSEY PEASES.

THE ancestors of the Peases who originated from New Jersey, settled there some time before the Revolutionary War, and constitute two branches, yet somewhat related. We regret we have been unable to awaken sufficient interest in the minds of those with whom we have corresponded, as would have aided us in throwing more satisfactory light upon their origin and family history. One branch is traced back to two brothers, Cornelius and Adam. They had a brother Jonathan who was a captain in the Revolutionary War, and was in the battle at Monmouth. He died without issue. These brothers settled in Freetown, Monmouth County, and were farmers and extensive land-holders. Cornelius was born April 1, 1735; married Elizabeth Clark, July 11, 1758. He had six sons and three daughters. The sons' names were David, John C., William, Adam and Josiah.* Adam, the brother of Cornelius, had two sons and three daughters. The names of the sons were David† and John.

Our information of the other branch of the New Jersey Peases is very limited. The name of the ancestor was Samuel and is said to have been cousin of the ancestor of the other branch of New Jersey Peases. Messrs. John Pease and sons,‡ who some years ago were large confec-

* Captain John A. Pease of Brooklyn, N. Y., is a son of Josiah, and we are indebted to him for some of the important facts which furnish the basis of this chapter.

† Mr. John N. Pease, sometime of Somersett, Niagara County, N. Y., is a son of David.

tionery manufacturers in New York City, belonged to this branch. There are several persons bearing the name of Pease in New York City who claim origin in New Jersey, but we have been unable to get them to answer our letters of inquiry.

We have for some time been inclined to the opinion that the new Jersey Peases came originally from Enfield, Ct. John R. Pease, Esq., of Hartford, Ct., has recently informed us that he remembers of hearing Mr. John Pease, the confectioner, inform his father, the late Dr. John C. Pease, that his ancestor came from Enfield, Ct. It seems probable to us that they belong to the descendants of Jonathan, the fourth son of John Pease, Sen., of Enfield. He had six sons, viz.: Jonathan, b. 1696, David, b. 1698, Samuel, b. 1700, John, b. 1702, Josiah, b. 1706, and Pelatiah, b. 1709. Until recently we have been unable to ascertain the history of any of these sons except Pelatiah, who married and had a family in Enfield. The names of Jonathan, Samuel and John were not mentioned at all in Dr. John C. Pease's manuscript history of Enfield. He recorded that David removed to the Southern States, and that Josiah went to Massachusetts. These facts he probably gathered from the aged people of his times, and a note made of it some time before his conversation with Mr. John Pease of New York City. It has been only recently ascertained where in Massachusetts Josiah Pease settled. It was found that he removed into the south-eastern part of Worcester County, and settled in Upton.

David, another brother, is not mentioned in old Hampshire County Records later than 1721, when he was appointed administrator of his father's estate. It seems probable he left Enfield not long after the death of his father. If he only removed to New Jersey it might have been said in those times that he went to the Southern States. The comparison of the names found in the families of the first named branch of New Jersey Peases, with his and those of his brothers, furnishes us with presumptive evidence that he may have been the ancestor of that branch of Peases.

Nothing can be ascertained respecting the history of the brother Samuel from the Enfield Town or Hampshire County Records except his birth. But we learn from the Worcester County Records there lived in the town of Mendon, Mass., in 1738, a Samuel Pease, blacksmith. As the town of Mendon joined Upton where the brother Josiah Pease lived, it seems somewhat probable that the Samuel Pease of Mendon may have been the brother in question. This Samuel Pease bought a piece of land in Mendon in 1738, but it was soon afterwards sold by the sheriff. As no farther trace can be found of him in Worcester County by its records or by the records of births, marriages or deaths from the town of Mendon,* he may have gone to New Jersey and been the father of Samuel Pease, the cousin of Cornelius and Adam Pease, and the ancestor of one of the branches of Peases in New Jersey.

We hope the above suggestions relative to the probable origin of the two families in New Jersey may lead to a farther investigation hereafter.

* We are so informed by Dr. John G. Metcalf of Mendon.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD PEASES.

THE islands on the southern coast of New England were not included within the grants made to any of the colonists who settled upon the main land.

In 1641 Thomas Mayhew, Sen., and his son, Rev. Thomas Mayhew, Jr., then of Watertown, Mass., purchased the island of Martha's Vineyard and some other islands adjacent, of the persons laying English claim to them, and the following year Rev. Thomas Mayhew, Jr., accompanied by several families from Watertown and vicinity, removed to Martha's Vineyard and formed a government independent of the Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay colonies. It is conceded by all, that Mayhew and company were not the first English settlers there. Among those who preceded them and probably the leading person of the pioneers was JOHN PEASE.

There are no known documents extant to show when Pease and his companions began their settlement, the place from whence they came or the number comprised in the company; though it is supposed the company was not a large one. The settlement must have been known to the Mayhews before their purchase, if, as is supposed, the junior Mayhew had preached to the settlers prior to the purchase, and formed a church there the year the purchase was made.*

The origin of the first settlement is differently accounted for. One tradition is, the party came from England in a vessel destined directly for the coast of Virginia, but which fell in with the shoals south of Cape Cod and came up into Martha's Vineyard Sound; and because either of a fatal distemper prevailing on board or from scarcity of provisions, Pease and his companions asked and obtained permission to be put on shore where they remained. It is said that the natives of the island were greatly alarmed at the first appearance of the whites, but Pease allayed their fears by presenting the Indian chief with a red coat. This tradition has some credence on the island, and has been in print several years.

Another tradition is, that the party came into the harbor in a vessel in winter, were frozen in and obliged to remain there until spring. In the mean time Pease gained the confidence of the Indians by presenting the chief with a red coat. The chief in return gave Pease a deed of that part of the island which is now Edgartown. As the story continues, Pease left the island in the spring, was gone for a time (to England as the narrator thought) and then returned with his family. After the Mayhew settlement, the "black book," as it was called, which contained Pease's Indian deed of land was lost, and with it Pease lost his claim or title to it.

This last tradition was obtained by the Rev. David Pease, some thirty years ago, when residing on the island of Martha's Vineyard at Tisbury, from widow Timothy Pease, who was then about sixty years old. She had the story from an old lady many years before, who resided on the island and belonged to the Martha's Vineyard Peases. In some respects the two traditions resemble each other. According to both, Pease and his companions made an unexpected permanent landing there, and they agree as to the mode friendship was made with the Indians. There is a common tradition that Pease did obtain an Indian deed of the town of Edgartown, and there are some evidences extant showing that Mayhew's company made concessions to them in dividing the lands.*

Observation has taught us that but little reliance can be placed upon tradition unless facts are discovered to support it. It may be true, yet it looks hardly credible to suppose the vessel which conveyed Pease and his companions, if bound from England to the coast of Virginia, should so far wander out of its course in that period of navigation as to come into Martha's Vineyard Sound according to the first tradition. Or that a company so small as this was supposed to have been should have come from a place so far off as England, agreeable to the tradition related by Widow Timothy Pease.

While there are no evidences found which support the traditions that John Pease, Sen., came directly from England, there has existed a tradition that he only came from Salem. This tradition is in harmony with other traditions relating to this subject, and is supported by circumstantial evidences which make a plausible hypothesis, that he was that John Pease, who, with his brother Robert, had land granted him at Salem in 1637. It has been very generally supposed by the Enfield, Ct., Pease family, that the father of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield and the ancestor of the Martha's Vineyard Peases, were brothers:

A correspondent† from McLain's Mills, Knox County, Me., who belongs to the Martha's Vineyard Pease family, informs us that he has made considerable inquiry among the older members of his family in that vicinity, and "the whole agree that the Peases sprang from two brothers." Others of the Martha's Vineyard family have supposed that two of the eldest brothers of John Pease, Sen., of Martha's Vineyard, went from that place to Salem, and were the ancestors of the Peases originating there.

History is entirely at variance with this latter mode of explaining the relationship of the ancestors of the two families. Until recently it has been supposed by those who had paid some attention to the imperfect abstracts from the records at Salem, that John Pease, who came to America in 1634 in the ship Francis with his brother Robert, was the father of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, and that his widow joined the church in Salem in 1639. This supposition precluded the idea that he could have been the one who lived at Martha's Vineyard at a much later period, or that the ancestor of the Martha's Vineyard family could have been brother of the father of John Pease, Sen., of Enfield, as both would be of the same name. Hence, the conclusion by some that the brother of Robert of the ship Francis in 1634 was "not one of the first four settlers of Martha's Vineyard as by doubtful tradition."*

Since it has been ascertained beyond a doubt that the given name of the father of John Pease, Sen., of Enfield, was Robert, and that it was not the widow of his brother who joined the church at Salem in 1639, but his widowed mother, this objection to the tradition that the brother of Robert Pease, Sen., went to Martha's Vineyard is removed.

Again, were it not for one fact, to which our attention has been recently called, it might be urged with some plausibility that if the ancestors of these two families had been brothers, the name of Robert would have appeared in the early generations of the Martha's Vineyard Peases, which, so far as we have observed, is not the case. The name appears, however, in later generations of the family. In one instance the reason assigned for the given name of the son is precisely the same as we should have expected had it been given to sons of earlier generations.

The late Mr. Nathan Pease of Appleton, Me., who was born 1772, and who removed from Martha's Vineyard to Maine with his father, James, and two brothers, Aaron and James, in 1789,* has repeatedly told his nephews that he named a son Robert for his great uncle who came from England. The nephews supposed this great uncle, Robert Pease, was a brother of their Martha's Vineyard ancestor. As Mr. Nathan Pease belonged to the sixth generation of the Martha's Vineyard Peases, the Robert Pease for whom his son was named, must have been a great uncle of his grandfather. It is probable Mr. Nathan Pease did not know how many generations his ancestry went back in this country. For this reason he could have only called the brother of his first American ancestor a great uncle.†

* Genealogical Dictionary of New England, by James Savage.

Admitting this hypothesis as true, that John Pease, Sen., of Martha's Vineyard was first in Salem, we have it explained where the brother of Robert Pease, Sen., went when he disappeared from Salem. Without it his disappearance would remain a mystery. Granting that he went from Salem, the circumstances of his first landing on the island and afterwards going for his family, may have been similar to those related by Widow Timothy Pease. It is not improbable to suppose that the place for a settlement may have been suggested to the party through some accidental circumstance, as many of the new localities in those days were.

Before taking leave of the subject, we desire to introduce the opinion of the late Frederick S. Pease, than whom none up to the date of his letter had given more reflection on this question. The letter was addressed to the Rev. David Pease, and bears date June 3, 1865:

. I desire to place among your papers and to have printed the suggestion, that as there is no record of the marriage or decease at Salem of John Pease who came there with Robert in 1637 that he probably went to

Martha's Vineyard; and that Robert instead of John as has been assumed was our progenitor.

I did not discover until after the publication of my account of the family in 1849 this error into which all appear to have fallen.

The correction will be better made in this connection than by a note published in the Register so long posterior to the original publication.

Yours truly,

FRED. S. PEASE.

No records are extant at Martha's Vineyard in which the name of John Pease appears earlier than 1646. He was then a grantor in a deed of land. From that date until his decease his name stands associated with the history of the islanders. He is also identified as one of the original proprietors of the town of Norwich, Ct., in 1659. It is not probable he was among the first settlers there though he may have contemplated it at one time. He was usually called captain, a title it is supposed he acquired by having command of some small sailing crafts. He had two wives; by the first wife, Elizabeth, he had two sons who survived their father, viz.: James, born 1637, and John, born about 1640; by second wife, Mary, he had children; Thomas, born about 1656, Jonathan, Samuel, David, Abigail, Mary, Rebecca and Sarah.

His last will and testament in which the above named children were mentioned, bore date "March 4, 1674."* He was then "stricken in years" and he probably died not far from that time. His posterity rank next in number to those of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield. They contributed largely to the settlement of the State of Maine, and we occasionally hear from them in the Western States.

The Pease families originating in Glastenbury† and

* This date was in the old civil year when the year did not begin until March 25. See Appendix A.

Windham, Ct., are descendants from John Pease, Sen., of Martha's Vineyard. It is not our intention to give a history of the Pease families originating at Martha's Vineyard, except in two instances where they come in proximity of residence to the Enfield Peases.

The Hon. Richard L. Pease* of Edgartown, Mass., has occupied his leisure hours for many years in collecting material for a history of Martha's Vineyard which embraces a history of the families originating there. He has large material for a genealogy of the descendants of John Pease, Sen., of Martha's Vineyard. We hope he will be encouraged by the intelligent members of this family and others who trace their origin there, to prepare his work for publication.

SECOND GENERATION.

JAMES PEASE,² (JOHN,¹) eldest son of JOHN, SEN., and ELIZABETH () PEASE, last of Martha's Vineyard, remained on the island; married, and was the father of five sons and three daughters. He is the grandfather of Christopher Pease. The latter joined the church at Edgartown in 1742, but he had removed to Lebanon, Ct., in 1746. He subsequently removed to Hartford, Vt. He had a son named Christopher who had several sons and daughters, viz.: Jesse, Ariel, Abel, Benjamin, Charles, Christopher, Lucy, Rebecca, Susannah and Lucinda.

JOHN PEASE,² (JOHN,¹) brother of the preceding, removed from Edgartown and settled at Norwich, Ct; probably occupying the land set off to his father. In her history of Norwich, Miss Caulkins very naturally supposed the original proprietor of that place was the John Pease who figured in its history years afterwards. An extract from the will of his father corrects her mistake. It reads thus: "My second son John Pease I have already given unto and do hereby give unto him all was given me at Mohegin with that frame of a house I set up upon some part of that land I say I give it unto My son John Pease and his heirs forever."

Miss Caulkins informs us in a private note that Norwich, when first settled, was frequently called Mohegan, as it lay within the territory of a tribe of Indians by that name. He never married. His bachelor life and other neglects of duty caused the people of Norwich some anxiety and trouble. "The court record for 1672 has the following item relating to his misdemeanors:

"John Pease complained of by the townsmen of Norwich for living alone, for idleness, and not duly attending the worship of God. The Court orders that townsmen do provide that Pease be entertained into some suitable family. He paying for his board and accommodation and he employ himself in some lawful calling. Which if he reject or refuse to do, the townsmen may put him out to service in some approved family except he dispose of his accommodations and remove out of town.'"*

In what manner the judgment of Court was carried out we have no means of knowing. He lived there in 1682, but was dead in 1711. His brother James as heir to his estate sold it August 18, 1711.† "The spot then so solitary is now jubilant with machinery, the seat of the manufacturing village of Bozrahville."‡

THOMAS PEASE,² (JOHN,¹) half-brother of the preceding; married and settled upon the island. He had four sons and six daughters. He is the ancestor of two brothers who were Baptist clergymen named Jesse and Bartlett. Their pedigree runs thus: JESSE⁵ and BART-

LETT,⁵ (ZACHARIAH,⁴ DAVID,³ THOMAS,² JOHN.¹) Rev. Jesse Pease was born July 8, 1787; married, had a large family of children, and died at Martha's Vineyard June 20, 1857. Rev. Bartlett Pease was born February 19, 1790; married and had a family of children. In 1867 he resided at Hudson, N. H.

JONATHAN PEASE,² (JOHN,¹) brother of the preceding, married and settled upon Martha's Vineyard and left posterity.

SAMUEL PEASE,² (JOHN,¹) brother of the preceding, has no history on the island later than the date of his father's will. It is probable he left the place when a young man. Hon. Richard L. Pease suggests "he may have been the Captain Samuel Pease who was mortally wounded in 1689 when fighting with pirates in Martha's Vineyard Sound." This suggestion might be better entertained were it not known there was another Samuel Pease living in Exeter, N. H., not far from the above date, concerning whom, evidences strongly show he must have been of Martha's Vineyard origin.

DAVID PEASE,² (JOHN¹) brother of the preceding; married and lived some time on the island. The number of his children is not known, nor is it known where he died. He is the ancestor of our esteemed co-laborer, Hon. Richard L. Pease. His ancestry runs thus: RICHARD LUCE PEASE,⁷ ISAIAH,⁶ NOAH,⁵ SETH,⁴ BENJAMIN,³ DAVID,² JOHN.¹ He was the grandfather of Job Pease, Sen., the ancestor of the Ludlow Peases mentioned in the next chapter.

LUDLOW (MASS.) PEASES.

THIS branch of the Martha's Vineyard Peases have long been designated as the Ludlow Peases to distinguish them from the Peases living in the neighboring towns who were descendants of the Enfield, Ct., Peases. The town of Ludlow from which they derived their name is in Hampden County, partially joining Springfield and north-east of it.

FOURTH GENERATION.

JOB PEASE,⁴ (BENJAMIN,³ DAVID,² JOHN,¹ of Martha's Vineyard,) son of BENJAMIN and PEASE* of Martha's Vineyard, was born about 1718. It is said he spent a few of his early years before his final leave of Martha's Vineyard in whaling. In 1745 he had removed to Stafford, Ct.,† a town in Tolland County next east of Somers. He was living there in 1750 with his wife Eunice.‡ It is probable he left Stafford not long after this and removed to Norwich, Ct. In 1778 he was living in that part of Norwich called New Concord,§ and which is now in the town of Bozrah. Not far from this date he removed to Ludlow, Mass., and in 1783 he removed to that part of Springfield, Mass., which is the site of the village of Chicopee Falls where he died. His wife Eunice "died Feb. 7th 1791 in the 71st year of her age."||

CHAPTER IX.

NEW HAMPSHIRE PEASES.

A CONSIDERABLE family of Peases trace their ancestry to NATHANIEL PEASE who died in the town of New Market, Rockingham County, N. H., in 1748. We have been unable to learn from any of his posterity, the given name of his father, his final place of settlement and death, or the early history of the son, except the date of his birth.

Mr. Mark Pease,* a grandson of Nathaniel Pease, now seventy-eight years of age, (1868,) possessing a clear mind and retentive memory, informs us his great-grandfather Pease came from Martha's Vineyard, and was killed by hostile Indians when at work in his corn-field. His statements are corroborated by other members of the family. Exeter, a shire town of Rockingham County was the home of Nathaniel Pease in his early manhood. Hence, it is natural to look for the home of his father in that vicinity.

From 1690 to 1710 the Indians were very hostile to the inhabitants of the new settlement of Exeter. They were obliged to confine themselves in garrisons by night, and cultivate their fields by day in continual fear of their savage foe. Many of the inhabitants were murdered by them during this period, all of whose names unfortunately have not been preserved. It is possible to suppose, then, that Exeter may have been the place where the father of Nathaniel Pease lived and met his death as described by Mr. Mark Pease. This seems more probable from the fact that there lived in Exeter within the above period an individual bearing the name of Samuel Pease. It is found on a list of sixteen jurors who had been summoned in Exeter, January 16, 1694, to attend a coroner's inquest. The following year his name was returned as one of the jurors to attend court at Portsmouth.* In 1698 he had fifty acres of land granted him by the town of Exeter.† We could not find him mentioned later than his grant of land. His name next appears in the family of Nathaniel Pease. His eldest son bore the name instead of the father's, as was quite common in those days; while the eldest daughter took the name of her maternal grandmother instead of the mother's.

The question occurs, where did this Samuel Pease, Sen., originate? It seems highly probable he came from Martha's Vineyard. John Pease, Sen., of that place mentioned in his will a son Samuel, of whom no farther trace is found at Martha's Vineyard afterwards.‡ The posterity of Nathaniel Pease, Sen., say the father of the latter came from Martha's Vineyard.

As the history of the other sons of John Pease, Sen., will not admit of such an inference, it seems safe to conclude that his son Samuel must have been the father of Nathaniel Pease; that he removed in early life from Martha's Vineyard to Exeter, N. H., and met the fate of being killed by hostile Indians.

NOTE.

There may be other families of Peases claiming origin in New Hampshire who cannot trace their ancestry in this chapter. A great-grandson of John Pease, Sen., last of Enfield, Ct., named Pelatiah, removed from Enfield and settled in Alstead, N. H., many years ago. It is said he had four sons, viz.: Pelatiah, Jonathan, Noadiah and Oliver. The history of these sons we have not obtained. It is highly probable that some or all of them may have posterity living in New Hampshire now.

CHAPTER X.

CAPTAIN SAMUEL PEASE.

ALLUSION has been made in a previous chapter to Captain Samuel Pease. His history so far as can be ascertained is very brief; but the generous offer of his services to the Governor and Council of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, and daring bravery displayed in attacking and fighting the armed pirates who infested the New England coast in 1689, merit a brief chapter devoted to his memory in this work. We regret we have been unable to learn anything of his local or family history. We can not find where he lived, or to what family in America he belonged. Mr. S. G. Drake in his history of Boston says he belonged in Salem. We have examined the same sources of information he had and fail to come to his conclusions. All we can learn of his home is that it was in New England. Felt mentions him in his "Annals of Salem," not as we think, however, because he was a resident of the place, but because he was engaged in fighting the pirates who destroyed the commerce of Salem. Nothing is revealed of his history earlier than the summer of 1689.

From a document on file in the office of Secretary of State at Boston, bearing date July 18, 1689, we learn he was then master of the "ship Fortune belonging to his Highness Frederick Carmine, Duke of Courland." At this time he had just returned from a voyage to the islands of Madeira and May. He had taken in a cargo of salt at the island of May with the intention of proceeding directly to the island of Tobago, there to be paid his wages and "cleared" "at liberty to proceed either to Courland or return home to New England." But before leaving May, Captain Pease learned that a French man-of-war had been making havoc with the English merchant vessels in the vicinity of the West Indies, and that the French were determined to take Tobago. He accordingly resolved to take Barbadoes in his way there. Here he learned that great scarcity of provisions prevailed on the island of Tobago, and that the people were about to desert it. Captain Pease then returned to Boston, the place from which he had shipped, and asked of the "Honorable Council" that he might dispose of as much of his cargo of salt as would victual his vessel, and allow him to proceed to the end of his voyage. From the sequel it hardly seems probable that Captain Pease did go on to Tobago afterwards.

During the months of August and September of this year, New England commerce was greatly annoyed with pirates who prowled upon the coast. Captain Samuel Pease volunteered his services to the Colonial Government to go out and break them up. The sloop Mary was fitted out and Captain Pease was commissioned September 30, 1689, to "surprise (and in case of their making resistance) by force of arms to take Thomas Hawkins and Thomas Ponnd, who, with a number of armed men joined with them, had partially seized several vessels belonging to their majesties' subjects."

The sloop Mary sailed out of Boston harbor Friday, October 4; the enemy was found in the vicinity of Martha's Vineyard Sound and attacked the same day. The pirate crew commanded by Thomas Ponnd made a desperate and sanguinary resistance, but the daring bravery and coolness of Captain Pease and his men compelled them to surrender. The struggle cost Captain Pease his life, having received wounds in his arm, thigh and side. His vessel made sail for Newport, R. I., which place it reached

Saturday, October 5. Surgeons were procured to care for the wounded. Here Captain Pease remained until the 11th of October when he was carried to his vessel with the intention of proceeding to Boston. His wounds began bleeding afresh and he was again taken on shore where he died the next day.*

The loss of the noble captain awakened a deep sympathy for his family in the Colonial Government. It sent requests to the different towns in the Province that collections be taken up in the churches for the benefit of his family consisting of a "widow and four orphan children† in low and destitute circumstances."‡§

*From papers on file in the Clerk's Office of the Supreme Judicial Court at Boston, and printed in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. II.

†From the marriage of Martha Pease of Cambridge to Hugh Clark in 1700, and that of Hannah Pease of Cambridge to William Brown who was born 1684, we are inclined to think that a family of Peases may have lived in Cambridge toward the close of the seventeenth century. Possibly it might have been the family of Captain Samuel Pease.

‡From papers on file in the office of the Secretary of State.

§A collection is known to have been taken up for the family of Captain Pease in Dorchester.

CHAPTER XI.

WASHINGTON COUNTY (PA.) PEASES.

WE have in this chapter a family of Peases whose ancestor came directly from Germany.

Nicholas Pees emigrated from Germany in 1773, and settled in Washington County near Cannonsburgh. A brother George came with him but we have no information concerning his history. Our informant states that this ancestor always spelled his name Pees. Many of his descendants have changed the orthography to the common English mode. Nicholas Pees had eight children, viz.:

His children were:

1. NICHOLAS, who d. a young man unmarried.
 2. ANDREW.
 3. GEORGE.

CHAPTER XII.

MISCELLANEOUS FAMILIES.'

WE have found names of other Peases than those before mentioned which stand associated in New England history or whose names are found in obscure ancient records.

It appears from documents on file in the probate office at Exeter, N. H., that Hannah, daughter of Thomas Walford of New Castle, married a . . . Pease prior to 1648.* We know of no posterity by this marriage. It has been suggested that Thomas Pease, who purchased by an order an article mentioned in a bill of items presented in court at Portsmouth, N. H., 1682,† may have been a son of this Hannah Pease. As nothing farther can be found of his history in Rockingham County, we think he belonged to Martha's Vineyard and was only transiently in Portsmouth.

The name of Pease is early associated with the history of Newport, R. I. WILLIAM PEASE was a petitioner for a "church of England" at Newport in 1699. It is said he had several children. Among them were two sons, William (history unknown) and Simon. Simon Pease was admitted Freeman from Newport in 1718. In 1729 he was a deputy to the General Assembly. He was a man of considerable wealth and influence and his name is frequently mentioned in the transactions of the General Assembly through a period of many years. He was a petitioner for and one of the incorporators of Brown University in 1764. Simon Pease, Jr., who was admitted Freeman from Newport in 1748 is supposed to have been the son of Simon Pease, Sen. Nothing is known farther of his history.

There lived in Somers, Ct., during the last half of the last century LOT PEASE who was never recognized as belonging to the posterity of the Enfield Peases. The Shakers, whom, with his family of children, he subsequently joined, informed the Rev. David Pease that Lot Pease had said he was of Martha's Vineyard origin. The Hon. Richard L. Pease informs us that he does not recognize his name in the memoranda of his family. Lot Pease was in the French and Indian war. He married at Somers Sarah Mitters, October 10, 1765.

His children were:

1. SAMUEL, b. September 19, 1796. He removed to Watervliet, N. Y., 1788, at the organization of the Shakers in that place, and died there in 1832.
2. JEMIMA, b. December 13, 1788. d. among the Shakers at Hancock, Mass.
3. CALEB, b. June 7, 1771. d. among the Shakers at Enfield, Ct.
4. ELIZABETH.
5. LOT, d. among the Shakers at Enfield.
6. ENOCH. He was a preacher among the Shakers several years. About 1831 he ceased preaching and ceased practicing what he preached. About the same time he left the Shakers with a Shaker sister, married, and went out of the State. He afterwards returned, lived for a time in Scitico, but subsequently purchased a farm in East Long-meadow, where he died. He had one son who died young. It is supposed the posterity of Lot Pease, Sen., has become extinct.

There are several Peases who have emigrated to this country during the present century from Great Britain and Germany. Prominent among them is Mr. William Pease late of New York City. He was born in England about 1800. His father died when he was quite young and he was apprenticed to an organ-builder. He came to this country to put up an organ he had assisted in building and never returned. Not long after he came to America he took up the profession of a teacher of vocal and instrumental music, (chiefly piano-forte,) and as such he has been favorably known in various towns in Massachusetts, New York and Vermont. He has also been organist in the cities of Boston and New York. He was a composer of music and a publisher of a musical work. He married first, Frances Sanford of Belchertown, Mass.; married second, Cornelia Francisco of Newark, N. J. He died in New York City April, 1865.

His children were:

1. WILLIAM E., a merchant and postmaster in Oxford, Mass.
2. EDWARD, a merchant in Worcester, Mass.
3. ELIZABETH F.
4. FRANCES S.

BY SECOND WIFE:

5. AUGUSTUS F., resides in New York City.
6. FREDERICK.
7. CORNELIA.
8. CAROLINE A.
9. CHARLES O., for some time a night clerk in New York City post-office.
10. IDA.
11. MARY.
12. FRANK D.

Another of this class is Mr. Edward Pease, some time of Tariffville, Ct. He was born in Ireland about 1810 of English parents. He came to America in his seventeenth year. The names of his children we are not in possession of. Doubtless there are many instances where names resembling Pease have been mistaken for it in poorly written records, and printed as such in historical and genealogical works. An illustration of this is found in the "History of the Descendants of William Ward of Sudbury." The author of that work married a daughter of this family to "John Pease of Belchertown, born at Brookfield, June 20, 1764," and as the result of this marriage he has names of two generations of children of Peases. After some speculations as to the origin of this family of Peases we wrote to the town clerk of Brookfield and asked for the given name of the father of this John Pease. We were politely informed the father's name was John also. The letter closed with the remark that the name on the town records was spelled Peeso. We then had the explanation, for we had often seen the name of Peeso on the Worcester and Hampshire County Records, and we sometimes should have mistaken it for Peese had we not given it a second glance. As Peese, Peeas, Pees, Peas, Pies, Peis, Peise and Pise are only different orthographies for Pease.*

* We have seen all these orthographies either in print or old manuscript records.

The Family of Pease in America

*Continuation of the printed history from the "Pease Record" to the birth of Robert Nixon
Pease, September 29, 1907. Prepared by Verne Seth Pease, and addressed to his infant son, Robert Nixon Pease.
Boscobel, Wisconsin, October 15, 1908.*

An honorable ancestry is the richest heritage that may come by descent to an American youth. Money, with the animal comforts and luxuries it brings, may be acquired; honors, as the world measures them, may be attained; education may be taken on by observation and by application to books, but true culture is as much a matter of breeding as it is of study and contemplation. Character is more a matter of breeding than of training, and, in the estimation of your father, there can be no safe character or certain culture where is wanting a strain of blood, strong and sure, purified and re-enforced in its flow through a series of honest, fearless lives. On this positive foundation character may be built. With the animal grossness and coarseness eliminated, the way to culture becomes easy—a natural way.

The chain of ancestry in America of the family of Pease is already well drawn in a book of genealogy, edited by the Rev. David Pease and Austin Spencer Pease, published at Springfield, Mass., 1869. This work was years in preparation, and undertaken and finished before the making of genealogies was an industry. When you read its pages you are certain to be impressed with the honesty of the written record—there is in it no attempt to build characters beyond their fair deserts, and knowing the uncertainty of human life,—that he may not live to teach it to you, your father has brought the printed history from the last generation mentioned in the book to the time of your birth. To this he has appended the chain of the family of Wood, your father's mother was a Wood, as far back as he can at this time trace it. That is in no sense a less honorable lineage than the Pease.

The first person in America of the name of Pease, so far as the family could discover after a thorough search, was Robert Pease, the son of Robert and Margaret Pease, County Essex, England. He was born at Great Barrow during the year 1607, and sailed from Ipswich, the last of April, 1634, on the ship Francis, landing in Boston. With him came a brother, John, and a little son, Robert. His wife, Marie, and their second son, John, came out later, as did the mother, Margaret Pease, then widowed.

Robert Pease settled at Salem, Massachusetts, and died in the year 1644, leaving a widow and the two young sons. From those two sons are sprung all the family of Pease in the United States, as near as I can learn. Our first American ancestor left an estate valued at 39 pounds sterling, 12 shillings and 6 pence. He was adjudged to owe certain debts, amounting to 5 pounds sterling. Not a large patrimony, as estates are now valued, but in those times it was the fashion to give less thought to money and more to character. The line of descent from that common ancestor to the generation of which you are a member, is as follows:

1. ROBERT PEASE, the first American of the name. (1607-44)
2. JOHN PEASE, second son of Robert [1] (1630-89)
3. ROBERT PEASE, second son of John [2] (1656-1744)
4. ROBERT PEASE, fourth son of Robert [3] (1685-1766)
5. ROBERT PEASE, sixth son of Robert [4] (1724-1805)
6. ALPHEUS PEASE, seventh son of Robert [5] (1762-1816)
7. LYMAN PEASE, fourth son of Alpheus [6] (1793-1887)
8. GEORGE HENRY PEASE, second son of Lyman [7] (1829-
9. VERNE SETH PEASE, first son of George Henry [8]

You will observe that the second American Pease in our chain was John. Robert, his brother, had a numerous progeny, and his descendants are cousins of ours. They are said to be the Massachusetts Peases. Our second American ancestor, John Pease, went with his sons, John and Robert, into Connecticut, founding the town of Enfield, where he died July 8, 1689, at the age of 59. Particular attention is called to an agreement, a copy of which appears in the printed record of the Pease family, by which the sons of John Pease, (2) settled the property affairs of their father. It bears date March 24, 1689, and immediately below the caption is this quotation: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." Then follows the body of the agreement, by which the portion of each is set off, and the unusual document was signed by the six sons. Having thus introduced you to your ancestry, I refer you to the genealogy of the family, a copy of which may be found in nearly every historical library in the country, and will pass by the honorable record so far as it appears in the book. Your great-grandfather, Lyman Pease, the seventh American ancestor, was born at Somers, Connecticut, July 20, 1793, and went with his father, Alpheus, to West Leyden, New York, where he grew to manhood. He married Pamela Barnes, August 20, 1818, and for a time lived at Lockport, New York, and started life as a householder in that place. He has told me many times about making with his own hands the household furniture he and his bride had to begin with. He was a carpenter, in early manhood, and was employed in repair work on the locks of the Erie canal. In the year 1826 he immigrated into Michigan and settled where is now the city of Adrian, buying eighty acres of land. Here your grandfather was born, June 2, 1829. As the village of Adrian began to expand, Lyman Pease sold his farm and went west about thirty miles, settling in the township of Wheatland, Hillsdale county, where he bought from the government 420 acres of land and began to improve it. To him were born four sons: Clinton Alpheus, George Henry, Charles A., and William E., and two daughters, Mary Ann and Emeline. This farm of 420 acres, he divided among his children, except forty acres that he kept for his old age and finally sold to his oldest son, Clinton A. He was one of the first officers of the village of Adrian and during his life of fifty years in Wheatland, was one of the most highly respected citizens of his section. He died on the old farm, at the home of Clinton A. Pease, November 27, 1887, at the age of ninety-four years, four months and seven days. Through all his life he was a man of absolute independence in thought, fearless to stand for what he believed to be right and of unimpeachable honesty.

George Henry Pease, the eighth American ancestor in our line, your grandfather, has lived in Hillsdale county, Michigan, all his life from childhood, either as a farmer or a retired farmer. To the best of my knowledge he never was accused of doing a dishonest act. He never mixed in public affairs, and was as complete a home body as can be found. He married Esther Wood, your grandmother, October 24, 1854. To them, two children were born, Verne S. and Ora L. Your grandmother died May 11, 1907, one of the most beloved women of Hillsdale county. She was one of unusual intelligence, a great reader of good books and papers, well educated in early life.

Alpheus Pease (6) was a soldier in the war of the Revolution, enlisted with Colonel Zebulon Butler, and was honorably discharged January 15, 1780. It is a notable fact that fifty-two of our family entered the Colonial army from Connecticut and thirty-seven from Massachusetts, according to the muster rolls now extant. An even dozen from the Nutmeg State served in the war of 1812. These valorous Connecticut Peases are all of our line, being descendants of John Pease, (2).
